BRITISH HAVE LAUNCHED A NEW DRIVE

HAIG GAINS ON LONG FRONT IN A FRESH SMASH

Heavy Fighting Develops in New Advance Toward Lens and Germans Use New Divisions.

MAYDAY IS DREAD OF THE CENTRAL ALLIES

Another smashing drive by the British on the French front was begun today. General Haig reports an advance on an extended front north of the Scarpe.

The attack already has scored good progress and is continuing. Heavy fighting has developed, the Germans throwing fresh divisions into the fray. The field of the new push lies within the ten mile front from the Scarpe to the coal city of Lens, which the British have had under their guns on three sides for nearly two weeks.

Gneral Haig already had pushed a deep wedge into the German line three miles north of the Scarpe at Gavrelle and was fighting today to enlarge this opening. Every yard he gains there is making the German front between that point and Lens more difficult to hold. A considerable part of the force of the present heavy attack seems to be aimed at this part of the line.

At two points along this stretch the British are reported to have advanced more than a mile, as far as Arleux and Oppy, but definite possession of these villages apparently was a question for the furious fighting of the day to settle.

While the British apparently are thus giving the Germans more than they can successfully cope with in the northern sector of the great battlefield the French are keeping up a heavy artillery fire south from St. Quentin all around the curve in the line into the Champagne.

The French seemingly have completed the count of the prisoners and booty taken in the recent fighting on these fronts. They captured 175 cannon of all calibres, 412 machine guns and 119 trench guns. The prisoners total 20,780.

All the far-reaching power of the German censorship is unable to suppress the fact that the greatest and gravest discontent is seething in the Chicago, April 28.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt in his first war speech delivered here today at a luncheon given by the Chicago branch of the National Security league, urged that the use of grain for the manufacture of alcoholic drinks be prohibited for the period of the war.

He urged obligatory military training, the expansion and improvement of Foreign Legion for the War With Germany is Quite Probable.

MANY EUROPEANS WANT TO ASSIST

Those Unnaturalized Are Not Eligible to Service in Army.

Washington, April 28.—America's big unnaturalized alien population is likely to supply large numbers of soldiers for foreign legions in the war with Germany, reports reaching the war department indicate, if congress passes pending legislation to permit allied nations to recruit their nationals in this country.

Adjutant General McCain said today he had received many letters from aliens begging opportunity to be of service to the United States in the war. Some are reservists of their nations, and a large proportion have had previous military training.

Cannot Join Army.

The government has been unable to deal officially with these offers as unnaturalized foreigners cannot be admitted to the United States army nor have officials been able to sanction the subrosa organization of alien residents who hope eventually to form mutual units and go to European battle fronts under their own colors. The bill under consideration by congress is expected to open the way for recruiting and training of these men.

Secretary Baker said today some arrangement could be made to train aliens as officers for these foreign legions in the regular army training camps although the problem had not yet been considered formally by the department.

The adjutant general has been notified by prominent French citizens in the United States that a quiet campaign of unofficial recruiting has been carried on among Alsatian Frenchmen living in this country and that

COLONEL FACES BUSY DAY WITH CHICAGO FOLK

Chicago, April 28.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, on his arrival here today, found a busy program mapped out for him by the National Security league, under whose auspices he is to make two speeches. A platoon of mounted police, a detail from the great lakes naval training station and three companies of Illinois guard escorted Col. Roosevelt from the railroad station to his hotel. The former president is to deliver an address at a luncheon in a down town hotel and in the evening the principal speech in the amphitheater at the stock yards.

NOTED U-BOAT COMMANDER IS LOST IN FIGHT

Copenhagen, April 28.—Lieutenant-Commander Petz, one of the most successful of the German submarine commanders, has perished in the submarine campaign. The newspapers of his home town, Koenigsberg, carry an official death notice although the admiralty has said nothing of the loss of his boat. Commander Petz was mentioned in dispatches in February as being in charge of a submarine which destroyed 52,000 tons of shipping in one day.

ALL AMERICANS GIVEN TIME TO LEAVE AUSTRIA

Amsterdam, April 28.—(Via London.)—A Vienna dispatch says that all Americans without distinction of sex or age, who desire to leave the monarchy may travel to Switzerland up to four weeks from the date of the rupture of relations, April 9. After that date no Americans will be allowed to leave but those remaining will not be interned unless they commit offenses.

WEATHER FORECAST FOR COMING WEEK

Washington, April 28.—Weather predictions for the week beginning Sunday, April 29, issued by the weather bureau today, are:

Ohio Valley: Unsettled cool and showery first half of the week, will probably be followed by fair and warmer after Wednesday.

Region of Great Lakes: Unsettled and cool, probably rains in the first half of the week, followed by generally warmer after Wednesday.

RUSSIA NOW BETTER OFF

DESERTIONS FROM ARMY NOT SERIOUS

Vast Numbers of Earlier Deserters Return to Battle for Country.

Petrograd, April 28.—(Via London.) Minister of Justice Kerensky gave to a representative of The Associated Press today a clear presentation of the present status of political and economic affairs in the country, and with the aid of concrete facts, contradicted the assertions and rumors of all disorganization in the armies and factories generally, circulated and credited in Petrograd in the last few weeks. The minister declared that not only is the army better prepared and more willing to fight than before the revolution, but that the factories are putting out more ammunition than at any previous stage of the war. He continued:

"In the first place it is necessary to sweep aside the vast collection of rumors and criticisms of the government contained in part of the Petrograd press. The inference drawn from this gossip by foreigners and other casual observers is quite erroneous. 'Duality of power' and the danger arising therefrom is a newspaper illusion. I frankly cannot understand or discuss this because such a state of affairs does not exist.

Where Error Arises.

"It is also commonly alleged that we have no power to enforce authority. This idea originates from the fact that we decided that we can better attain our ends without use of

REPRISALS ARE PROMISED FROM THE PRUSSIANS

Copenhagen, April 28.—(Via London.)—Announcement was made before the reichstag main committee in Berlin yesterday that Germany will adopt the sharpest reprisals if German prisoners are embarked on hospital ships of the allies and exposed to the danger of torpedoes.

The sinking by the Germans of the British hospital ship Lanfranc last week caused the death of fifteen German wounded who were being transported to England. The British admiralty announced that inasmuch as the Germans were sinking hospital ships without any regard to international law the distinctive markings of these vessels had been removed and furthermore that virtually all the hospital ships had on board German wounded who would be exposed to submarine attacks. The French government announced that on account of Germany's policy German prisoners would be embarked on French hospital ships.

RANKS OF POTATO GROWERS FILLED

Recruiting for the ranks of potato growers in the great contest in Allen county has been stopped. The ranks became completed Saturday morning, when there was a big rush for eleventh hour candidates. Saturday morning there were places for twelve more boys and about ten minutes after County Agent A. J. Hutchins opened his office, the filing case had been filled with the necessary number. Due to the wet ground, not much work has been done in cultivating the twenty acres of ground east of the city. However, this tract will be ready for planting within the next few days.

FIFTEEN BODIES ALREADY REMOVED

Cause of Disaster in Deep Mine Remains a Complete Mystery.

Hastings, Col., April 28.—Nine more bodies, making a total of 15, were found today by rescue crews in the Hastings mine of the Victor-American Fuel company in which 119 men were entombed yesterday by an explosion.

Mine officials said it was feared all had perished.

As soon as the first rescuers emerged early today another crew entered the mine bearing stretchers.

Outside the mine scores of volunteers pressed forward eager to be in the next shift to go inside.

Just what caused the disaster is as much of a mystery now as it was twenty-four hours ago. Rescue crews, a mine official said, had

WHEAT GOES TO NEW MARK THEN TAKES TUMBLE

Chicago, April 28.—High price record smashing continued today in the wheat market. Opening trades showed a maximum jump of 12½ cents a bushel, July options touching $2.36 as against $2.23½ to $2.24½ at yesterday's finish. May wheat went to $2.75, a rise of five cents above yesterday's top most price.

Sensational breaks in prices here resulted later from drastic action taken by the Winnipeg exchange to put a stop to speculation. May wheat at Winnipeg fell fifteen cents after notice had been given that any member of the Winnipeg exchange would be suspended for trading without orders and that the British government was not in the market for futures. Quotations in Chicago dropped ten cents from early high figures.

Liquidating sales became general as the result of the Winnipeg news and were increased by word that in Omaha no more trades in May wheat would be cleared except the closing out of old contracts. Before the day ended the collapse of prices here was extended to 15½c for July, which dropped to $2.20. The close was wild at a range varying from 2½c net loss to 7c advance, as compared with twenty-four hours before, last quotations today being $2.74 to $2.74½ for May and $2.25 to $2.26 for July.

CHILDREN TO COMPLETE FUND FOR AMBULANCE

Donations Will Be Accepted at Each of Fort Wayne Newspaper Offices.

Encouragement in raising the fund for the ambulance which Fort Wayne will donate to the war department has been so great that it is believed that the school children's donation on Monday will raise the fund to the required amount. Mrs. J. H. Gilpin states that many people are of the opinion that she is to call upon them for their donation. The money will be accepted at any of the newspaper offices in the city.

Parents should not forget that the collection of the donations of school children will be taken up Monday morning in every one of the schools of Fort Wayne.

The following are among the recent contributors: A. C. Aurentz, Mrs. E. A. K. Hackett, C. Williams, Haffner Bakery, W. E. Doud, M. F. Kaag & Son, Mrs. Skeer, Mrs. John Shoaff, Mrs. Fred Hayden, Mrs. Arthur Perfect, J. M. Barrett, Timothy Foohey and M. C. Peterson.

HOUSE STRIKES OUT VOLUNTEER SYSTEM PLAN

ASSURES ENACTMENT OF THE MEASURE

Washington, April 28.—The administration bill to raise a big army by selective draft was taken up in both houses of congress today for final disposition with almost assured prospects of its enactment by substantial majorities despite last minute efforts of opponents of the draft system.

In the house the leaders planned to reach a vote by six o'clock and in the senate it had been agreed to vote before adjournment tonight.

Administration forces overthrew opponents of the administration selective conscription bill in the house on the first vote today and struck the volunteer amendments from the measure.

The vote came on an amendment by Representative Kahn, who has led the fight for the administration bill, moving to strike out the volunteer amendments inserted by a majority of the military committee against the protests of the president and army war college. It assured the passage of the bill as drawn by the army experts.

The vote to sustain the provisions of the administration bill was 279 to 98.

Vote Without Record.

As today's vote in the house was in committee of the whole it was taken by the tellers and without record. The record vote comes later on passage of the bill. While the administration supporters were winning their victory in the house the debate was proceeding on the bill in the senate. The chances of the administration bill have been considered better in the senate than they were in the house and for that reason the administration forces planned to pass the senate bill first.

Chairman Webb, of the judiciary committee, announced that "a little later a bill will be introduced providing that all citizens of allied coun-

GUATEMALA HAS CUT RELATIONS WITH GERMANY

Washington, April 28.—Guatemala has broken off diplomatic relations with Germany; handed to the German minister his passports and cancelled the exequaturs of German consuls there.

GERMAN MINISTER QUITS RIO.

The Brazilian government had offered to send Herr Pauli to a neutral port on board a Brazilian-Lloyd liner together with his staff and all German consuls and their families. The British and French authorities refused, however, to issue safe conducts unless the ship sailed for a Scandinavian port and put into an allied harbor for examination similar to that submitted to by the vessel which carried the German ambassador from the United States.

The German government, however, declared that it was impossible to warn all its naval units in time to assure a safe voyage through the danger zones. It was consequently decided that Herr Pauli should go to Uruguay, giving him the choice of traveling by sea or land. The minister decided that he preferred to make the journey by land and was accommodated with a special train to the Uruguayan frontier.

Congress to Decide War Issue.

The decision as to whether Brazil will follow up her breach of relations with Germany by a declaration of war will be made by the Brazilian congress when it convenes on May 3. The administration has decided it has fulfilled its duty in decreeing a cessation of diplomatic relations and further action lies in the province of the congress. This decision, it is stated in high official quarters will not be altered except in the case of a fresh attack on Brazilian interests by Germany. Congress will be asked to declare that a state of war has been created by the act of Germany. If this action is taken it will be followed by the seizure of German ships in Brazilian ports, the opening of these ports to warships of the allies and other measures taken of a military character.

PROSPECT OF LABOR TROUBLE IS SHOWN BY GERMAN PRESS

Copenhagen, April 28.—(Via London.)—The prospect of grave labor troubles throughout Germany on May-day overshadows everything else in the German press.

General Groener's address to the reichstag committee, the manifesto of the Federation of Labor against strikes and editorial appeals to the same purport predominate in the newspapers, the news of the great battle of Arras and the general military situation being very much subordinated.

Where there is so much smoke there evidently must be some fire. The manifesto of the Metal Workers' union, the organization which took the leading part in the previous strike, is worded in a curiously dubious manner. While ostensibly directed against agitators it gives the impression of being a very half-hearted document. The manifesto argues that a general strike is unnecessary because stoppage of work in the iron works, munitions plants and transportation systems would be sufficient to immeasurably increase the difficulties of the situation.

It adds that the decision to strike [illegible] the union, only be taken by the executive officers after amicable solution has failed. One of the methods by which the agitators are apparently working is the spread of rumors of a further impending reduction of rations. The Berlin city authorities have appealed to the public to report persons spreading these rumors to the police.

SAYS WORK WILL NOT CEASE.

Amsterdam, April 28.—Via London, 5 p. m.—The Berlin socialist newspaper, Vorwaerts, publishes a declaration of the general committee of trades unions asserting that the German working classes will not cease work on May 1, and deploring the circulation of fly sheets inciting the workers to a political or revolutionary strike on that day. These fly sheets, says the declaration, do not emanate from the social democratic party, but from persons who have nothing in common with the labor movement. It concludes: "Strikes for purposes of political demonstrations are at present irresponsible and must be charged [illegible]

YANKEE "TANK" IN ACTION AMAZES WESTERNERS.

(Staff Special.)

San Francisco, Cal., April 2 —The terrifying stunts performed by a "tank" in actual warfare were demonstrated by companies of the coast artillery corps, National Guard, in a mimic battle on the sand dunes off the Pacific ocean, near here, the other day, before an amazed audience of patriots.

Spectators of the mock battle stared in astonishment as the ponderous tractor ambled its way into action with an attacking force, proceeding against entrenched troops.

The monster plowed its way through all obstacles, clambering easily through dense underbrush, crashing through barbed wire entanglements and crushing wooden houses with all of the startling efficiency of the British type that bewildered the Germans in France.

The Yankee "tank" consisted of a 14-ton catepillar traction engine, encased in a lighter weight model of the armor plate used in real war. Two rapid fire one-pound guns were mounted in the conning tower which revolved to sweep the entire field.

Seven men were in the crew which operated the big machine during the engagement. One man attended to the steering and was warned of immediate obstacles by two lookouts on enclosed running boards on each side of the engine. One man took care of the engine and the other three operated the "one-pounders" in the protected conning tower.

The "battle" ended in a complete tactical victory for the attackers. The troops in the trench were routed when the big "tank" straddled their defense and theoretically killed or vanquished all of the defenders.

WARRIOR OF FRANCE HERO

Joffre's Chief of Staff Attracts Attention in Washington.

COL. FABY'S LIFE FULL OF THRILLS

Stories of Gallantry in War Bring Crowd to His Heels.

Washington, April 28—Lieut.-Col. Jean Fabry, Marshal Joffre's chief of staff, attracted almost as much attention in the streets of Washington today as his superior when stories of his gallantry in action became known.

"The blue devil of France," as he is known in his own country, probably has experienced as many thrills as any man in the French army.

As commander of a battalion of Alpine chausseurs he led his men into battles of the Marne, Ypres, Dixmude, Arras and in the Vosges. In a gallant action in which his battalion carried by assault a position on the height of Reichacherkopf, Lieut.-Col. Fabry lost a leg.

Wears a Wooden Leg.

M. Hovelaque speaking of him today, said: "The 'blue devil of France' is grateful to America for the wooden leg he is wearing, but he is not so grateful at the price he had to pay for it. Col. Fabry is a remarkable man. He has been wounded several times, and has seen some of the most dreadful things that have occurred in the war. Here is what happened at the Yser:

"Fabry, in command of about 1,600 men, defended a long line for a week against German line after German line that sought to break through. The earth was soft, so soft, in fact, that the only parapet that could stand had to be made out of some other substance. He used the dead bodies of Germans and when they decomposed he would discard them and would throw out a hook and haul up more bodies for the same purpose.

Buries Friend: Fights On.

His best friend was killed beside him. Because of the nature of the earth it was possible to dig down only a foot before striking water. He buried the man and then for days lived and fought for France with only a foot of earth separating him from the body of his friend. Terrible hardships were experienced. Food and ammunition had to be brought up with great danger under cover of darkness and it was impossible to move the body until some time later. The Germans, it might be added, did not break through the lines held by the "Blue Devil of France."

Russians Will Fight.

Leaders of Russian citizens in the United States have told the adjutant general they will be able to enlist large numbers of their countrymen. Italians and Rumanians sent similar word. Armenians and Syrians have taken up with the department the question of how they might quietly enroll members for a military unit to fight Germany. Their case presents a difficult problem, inasmuch as they are subjects of Turkey, with which the United States is not at war. Not being American citizens they could not fight under the American flag and for them to go to a battle front under a Turkish flag would cause the odd situation of subjects of Germany's ally acting on the enemy side. Many of them are said to want to fight Turkey in retaliation for Turkey's abuse of Armenians and Syrians in their own country and believe they can accomplish something to the same effect by striking at Turkey indirectly through her German ally.

force or rigid authority. For instance, we might have arrested Lenine but we have accomplished far more by allowing him absolute freedom of speech and action. The result is that he is fully discredited and has actually done an unintentional service to his country by the reduction of the views of himself and his adherents to absurdity.

"You hear stories of the tremendous number of deserters from the front as if desertion was a new and unheard of crime in Russia. Yet before the revolution more than one million cases of desertion were reported every year. Compare that with the present facts. Just after the revolution a number of soldiers did leave their positions and return home, but desertion has now ceased and telegrams have been received from all points in Russia that large bodies of deserters are asking permission to return to the front and protect the country against the possibility of a German advance.

Gaps Long Ago Filled.

"Gaps in the ranks were long ago filled with returning soldiers who went back not because they were compelled to, but because the spirit which directed the revolution was a desire to save the country. The army is now actually stronger than ever and it is moved by new impulses—enthusiasm and a desire to fight."

Minister Kerensky then turned to a consideration of conditions in the factories. He said that despite all assertions to the contrary the factories were putting out more ammunition than before the revolution. Regarding peace the minister said:

"Russia wants peace on the terms proposed by President Wilson. The revolution and the entrance of the United States into the war have somewhat changed the objects for which we are fighting. We want peace restored without annexation or indemnity and favor a conference with the allies to determine how this can be attained."

tries, who are of military age, shall be rounded up and turned over to their respective governments."

Opponents Stunned.

The volunteer sponsors were astounded at the tremendous strength developed by the administration forces. When the members lined up to pass the tellers, it looked almost as if the whole house was about to vote for conscription.

Chairman Dent, of the military committee, heading the volunteer forces, finally gave up counting the votes. Miss Rankin, the Montana member, voted for the volunteer amendments, as did Speaker Clark and Chairman Padgett, of the naval committee. Republican Leader Mann voted for conscription.

Democratic leader Kitchin, busy with revenue legislation, did not vote. When Representative Saunders, of Viriginia, presiding, announced the Kahn amendment had carried, 279 to 98, there were thunderous applause from the floor and the crowded galleries.

Debate in the Senate.

The senate met at 10 a. m. after a session that lasted until early this morning during which a number of senators, including Mr. LaFollette, spoke on the bill. Several senators still were to be heard today.

Debate in the senate today was begun by Senator Harding, of Ohio, in support of the administration bill, and also his amendment to permit Colonel Roosevelt to raise four divisions of volunteers for immedate service abroad. Senator Harding said the amendment was not to be misconstrued as inimical to the general plan of conscription which he endorsed. "It does not underestimate the impressiveness of our deliberate preparation of any army of a million men," he said, "while laying the foundation of ten million more if need bd, to say that an immediate force of American volunteers would put new life in every allied trench and a new glow in every allied camp fire on every battlefront in Europe."

Would Send Roosevelt.

Senators Curtis, republican of Kansas, and Smith, republican, of Michigan, also endorsed the Roosevelt plan. Senator Lodge spoke at length in its favor.

"I can see no reason why men over 25, who earnestly desire to fight for their country in France, if physically fit, should not be permitted to offer their lives if they want to. It cannot injure the principle of universal compulsory service," said Senator Lodge. "The one man who would be able to raise these divisions alone would be Colonel Roosevelt. He is known in Europe as is no other American. His presence there would be a help and encuragement for the soldiers of the allied nations.

Marshal Joffre, if he could express an opinion, would favor the Roosevelt expedition, Senator Lodge predicted. "It is impossible for me to conceive why the administration or congress should refuse to Col. Roosevelt and his volunteers the opportunity to give their lives to the country if they so desire," said the Massachusetts senator. "Colonel Roosevelt does not seek their command unless as a subordinate officer. He would have the expedition under a regular army officer. It is not personal self-seeking. For heavens sake, is there any reason why he should not be given an opportunity to give his life for what he regards as the most sacred of all causes?" asked Mr. Lodge.

Sulzer Would Raise Division.

Senator Stone, of Missouri, suggested that former Governor Suelzer, of New York, also desired to raise a division.

"If any man by his own personal influence or weight in his community can raise a division under this amendment," Senator Lodge replied, "I shall be glad to see him do it."

Senator Williams, of Mississippi, said he favored allowing Col. Roosevelt to recruit a volunteer expedition, but not to command it.

"He is competent to command a regiment, but by no means a division," said Senator Williams. "I would like to see him there, but not as commander-in-chief. I also would like to see ten thousand American regulars; they would show those European folks something, just like the Canadians. I have no personal objection to Col. Roosevelt going."

Registering his approval of conscription, Senator Williams said he favored it for one reason, because it will "weed out loyal and disloyal Americans."

"There are one million traitors in America, including a considerable number of German spies," he said. "I want to weed out that element. If they resist the draft they will be interned. This conscription will separate the loyal and disloyal Americans."

Senate Bars Booze From Camps.

In its first vote on the administration army bill today the senate adopted a most drastic prohibition amendment making it unlawful to sell or give any liquor, wine or beer to any officer or man in uniform or knowingly furnish liquors to any person in the army.

BANK CLEARINGS ARE LESS THAN YEAR AGO

Bank clearings for the week ending Saturday, April 28, are less by far than they were for the corresponding week last year. They are less this week than they were last week. This week the clearings amounted to $1,261,635.77. A year ago they were $1,524,485.12, and last week they were $1,263,966.72. The balance for this week amounted to $151,151.30.

For each day the past week the clearings were as follows: Monday, $211,966.35; Tuesday, $232,677.06; Wednesday, $200,998.53; Thursday, $201,303.69; Friday, $188,841.39; Saturday, $225,849.75.

ranks of the German workers and the government is haunted by the fear that May day, the great international socialist holiday, may see an outbreak which will shake the whole imperial fabric.

The general strike planned by the socialist radicals is not confined to Germany but includes Austria-Hungary as well, is indicated by one of the rare dispatches which have come through from Vienna. The Arbiter Zeitung, organ of the Austrian socialists, accepts it as granted that a strike will occur throughout the dual monarchy on May 1, and urges the workers to limit the demonstration to that day and return to work on May 2.

The situation in Germany appears to be that the empire is divided into three great factions with the feeling between the three growing rapidly in bitterness.

First comes the old junker class, which still talks of a victorious war ending in annexations and indemnities.

Second is the socialist majority, which is exerting all its influence to force the government into a declaration that it desires neither the money nor the land of Germany's foes.

The third party is headed by the radical socialists and includes an unknown but apparently considerable body of the workers, sick of the war, disheartened by the diminishing food rations and demanding that peace be obtained at once whatever the cost.

The only point in common between the three parties seems to be to make Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg the target of all their shafts.

The majority socialists appear to have the inner track at present. An incident of possible significance has occurred in connection with the visit of Talait Bey, Turkish vizier to Berlin. After conferences with the chancellor, the Turkish premier is quoted in a Berlin dispatch as saying that Turkey was ready to make peace and desired no annexation.

After days of disconcerting and dubious report from Russia, more reassuring news has been received. The general scrapping of generals on the fighting line has taken place, and Minister Kerensky declares the army is in better shape that ever before, and resolute to continue the war.

FRENCH RAID AT VERDUN.

Paris, April 28.—Noon—Heavy artillery fighting occurred last night between St. Quentin and the Oise, and in the Champagne, the war office reports.

On the Verdun front the French raided German trenches west of the Meuse and brought back prisoners from the sector of hill 304. Since April 16, the French have captured 175 cannon of all calibres, 412 machine guns and 119 trench mortars. The number of prisoners has reached 20,780.

NEW BRITISH ATTACK.

London. April 28.—The British have opened an attack along several miles along the front of the Scarpe river, according to an official announcement issued by the war office today. The British troops are making good progress in the face of considerable opposition, the announcement says. The fighting continues.

ANOTHER ATTACK LAUNCHED.

British Headquarters in France, April 28.—Via London, 2:30 p. m.—(From a staff correspondent of the Associated Press.)—Another attack was launched by the British early this morning. The blow was struck on the front between the Scarpe river and Lens, on the ground over which some of the most desperate fighting has occurred since the British inaugurated their offensive on Easter Monday. The struggle now in progress is very bitter. The Germans, in anticipation of another British effort, had brought up reinforcements. Fresh German divisions have been identified by the British.

In today's drive the British faced a well organized trench system, protected by wire entanglements and held by strong forces of Germans. The artillery preparations, which had been in progress for several days, did much damage to the defense works, but there remained many troublesome strong points between Rouex, just north of the Scrape and Gavrelle.

North of Gavrelle satisfactory progress was made so far as could be judged and early in the day prisoners were being brought back. South of this place the British got on toward Greenland hill, taking a trench north of Monchy.

It is reported that the British have occupied the town of Arleux and half of Oppy, but furious German counter attacks are developing and the situation is one of surging changes.

found "five or six" bodies early today but had removed none. One hundred and nineteen men were entombed.

Rescue Crews Go Slowly.

The same official, asked if there was hope for any of the others being alive, said:

"We always hope."

The rescue crews are unable to make their way on the main mine stope, but by working along the air ways have "gone considerable distance into it," according to a mine company official.

The working in which the men are entombed is a running tunnel opening from the main mine entrance. Above this, also opening from the main entrance, is an almost level tunnel, abandoned some time ago. For several years this has been on fire. Since it was abandoned, however, and the fire was only smouldering, it was sealed off from the rest of the mine with an air tight wall and work continued much as usual in the other sections.

Air ducts run into the stope where the men were trapped and large amounts of air have been pumped into these ever since the fire was discovered, in the hope that it might keep the men from suffocating.

Chance Looks Poor.

The fact that smoke continues to pour from the mine led company officials to fear that the air ducts have been broken and the steady current of air being forced through them is only fanning the flames. The mine officials are in a quandary. If they continue to force air into the mine, they may only fan the flames to greater fierceness, and fire or smoke may destroy all chances of the men to escape. On the other hand, the current of air may be all that enables some living miners to avoid suffocation in the smoke. It is snowing in Delagua canyon, where the mine is located, and large numbers of miners' wives and children stand waiting at the mine mouth in the cold. The work of rescue, it was said, was halted at midnight by the smoke at the fifth entry, but early today the crews, refreshed and reinforced, reentered the mine in an effort to penetrate to the main workings, where it is believed most of the men were caught."

CHOKE BOOZE SAYS COLONEL

the navy and asserted that an expeditionary force should be sent to France at once.

Present conscription plans he said would deny service to many men who wished to volunteer. He remarked that when England adopted conscription she did not decline the service of volunteers from Canada and Australia.

Col. Roosevelt will deliver his principal address tonight at the stock yards pavilion, which seats 13,000 persons. On his arrival today Mr. Roosevelt was given a reception reminiscent of the days when he was president.

Would Abolish Booze.

In his luncheon speech Mr. Roosevelt said: "The world is facing a shortage of food. Soon we in this country shall face a shortage of food. Therefore let us use all the grain we have for food and not for intoxicants. Now that the war is on let us forbid any grain or corn being used in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors. Let the government help the farmer by mobilizing labor if necessary and tell our young men that it is a case of farm and arm.

"During the last two years and a half of peace we have been foolish enough not to prepare for war; now that we are at war, let us avoid the further folly of failure to prepare for the great tasks of peace, the tasks with which we will have to deal now while we are at war, and which will be of overwhelming importance as soon as the war is over. As yet our people are not waked up to the vital significance of this war.

"This is because at the moment we are safe behind the British fleet. In the papers yesterday I saw statements from England indicating the greatest alarm by the English over the submarine menace. I do not believe that Germany will be able to make her submarine warfare a success. But there is always a possibility, and if she did succeed it would mean that we would be a helpless victim to Germany.

Three Great Military Needs.

"I appeal primarily for the instant meeting by this nation of the three great military needs of the situation.

"1—We should immediately institute, not only for this war, but as our permanent national policy, the system of universal, obligatory military training and service for all our young men.

"2—We should at the earliest moment strike hard and aggressively at Germany, and this can be done only by sending abroad at the earliest moment an expeditionary force. At least a division should be put in France within the next few weeks, and then put on the firing line as quickly as the allied generals say it is ready; and its numbers kept filled. As rapidly as other divisions can be gotten ready they should be sent over beside; until without an hour's unnecessary delay we accumulate at the front a formidable fighting army, trained in actual service conditions and therefore so far as possible, receiving its intensive training near the fighting lines.

"3—To proceed at once to do everything for the upbuilding of the navy, capital ships, submarines, auxiliaries, cargo ships, everything.

Ready to Fight.

"I believe in universal service so emphatically that I wish to include myself and the men who are anxious to come into the division I desire to help raise. If we are denied this chance, most of us will be denied the chance of all service, under the obligatory system. If two years and a half ago when this war broke out we had introduced as (nothing but our blindness prevented) the principle of universal, obligatory service we would now have had an ample force of trained men."

CHARLES SNELL ENDS LIFE WITH REVOLVER

Well Known Auburn Man Commits Suicide While in Fit of Despondency.

Auburn, Ind., April 28.—After lying four hours with a gaping bullet wound in his head, Charles Snell passed away at 5 o'clock Friday evening at the home of his mother, Mrs. Sophia Snell, of East Seventeenth street. Mr. Snell who has been in failing health for some time, was left alone a few moments Friday afternoon when his mother stepped into a neighbor's. He took advantage of the opportunity and with a bull dog revolver sent a bullet into his brain. When his mother returned she found him lying on the bed with an ugly wound in his head. Physicians were called at once and everything possible done to save him but he died three hours later without having gained consciousness. Mr. Snell had worked in Garrrett for several years. DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

Matt. 21:1-17.

1 And when they drew nigh unto Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto the mount of Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples,
2 Saying unto them, Go into the village over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me.
3 And if any man say aught unto you, ye shall say, The Lord hath need of them; and straightway he will send them.
4 All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying,
5 Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass.
6 And the disciples went, and did as Jesus commanded them,
7 And brought the ass, and the colt, and put on them their clothes, and they set him thereon.
8 And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way; others cut down branches from the trees, and strewed them in the way.
9 And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna to the Son of David: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest.
10 And when he was come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, Who is this?
11 And the multitude said, This is Jesus the prophet of Nazareth of Galilee.

Sunday, April 29—Luke 19:29-40.

29 And it came to pass, when he was come nigh to Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount called the mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples,
30 Saying, Go ye into the village over against you; in the which at your entering ye shall find a colt tied, whereon yet never man sat: loose him, and bring him hither.
31 And if any man ask you, Why ye loose him? thus shall ye say unto him, Because the Lord hath need of him.
32 And they that were sent went their way, and found even as he had said unto them.
33 And as they were loosing the colt, the owners thereof said unto them, Why loose ye the colt?
34 And they said, The Lord hath need of him.
35 And they brought him to Jesus: and they cast their garments upon the colt, and they set Jesus thereon.
36 And as he went, they spread their clothes in the way.
37 And when he was come nigh, even now at the descent of the mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoice and praise God with a loud voice for all the mighty works that they had seen;
38 Saying, Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord: peace in heaven and glory in the highest.
39 And some of the Pharisees from among the multitude said unto him, Master, rebuke thy disciples.
40 And he answered and said unto them, I tell you that, if these should hold their peace, the stones would immediately cry out.

SATURDAY, APRIL 28, 1917.

Casting Shadows Before.

The importance of increaseed food cultivation is shown impressively in the course of the grain markets. July wheat was almost to $2.25 and September wheat almost to $2 a bushel on the Chicago board Friday. It may be that the speculative character of that market has something to do with the price, but the fact that mills about here are paying about $2.75 a bushel for wheat shows the state of supplies on hand and the speculative figures in futures shows what is expected. The last government crop estimate was the most discouraging ever issued, not only in the matter of a blue outlook but in the matter of world conditions that make a short crop of American grain a calamity everywhere.

If there is anything that the grain prospect makes imperative it is that all other food crops be increased to the utmost. Grain must be supplemented with other foodstuffs to a degree never before necessary in the history of this country. Had America only herself to look out for, the wheat crop would be short if the forecasts should be verified by the harvest. With other nations to feed from our stores we must have much more food or eat less food. The grain crops can be adequately supplemented by other foodstuffs. Grain can be economically cultivated only on the farms, or on large tracts whose soil is adapted to the purpose. A great variety of vegetables can be grown to good purpose on tracts of any size—in backyards and on vacant lots.

Home gardens and vacant lot cultivation can achieve wonders toward overcoming the shortages in the American grainfields. It is with this in view that the nation-wide campaign for food-growing in backyards and on idle lands in and about cities where there are great numbers of people to cultivate them has been pressed. This great work can be made to insure not only enough for ourselves and surpluses for the world outside, but enough to keep the costs of living from going beyond the common reach.

The prediction that wheat will reach $4 a bushel before it ever drops again to $2 a bushel may be an exaggerated view, but the course of the market lately has been such as to make clear that bread certainly is not going to be cheap and may not be plentiful during the year that lies ahead. What the grainfields cannot do for us we must in some measure to do for ourselves. There are few who cannot do something.

After having been a month in Washington Representative Jeanette Rankin, of Montana, was unable to find anybody thereabouts who was supporting the administration's selective conscription bill. So the Honorable Rankin telegraphed out home for counsel by which to lay her course. She has received it—"for it, you bet, if you have to go it alone," or words to that effect. That is not surprising, but it is that Representative Rankin—the only lady member and with unexampled facilities for finding out things—should have been a month in Washington and able to encounter any of the men who constitute the majorities that are for the bill in house and senate. Does the Honorable Rankin court only the 'houn' dawg breed of society on capitol hill?

One perfervid writer, in a somewhat overdone panegyric of General Joffre, ascribes to that grizzled old hero the mission to help President Wilson and the army general staff pass the selective conscription bill. We assume that General Joffre has common sense and decent manners, besides knowing something of the history of his country, not excluding the incident of a certain Citizen Genet, who also came from France to America as an envoy and meddled with domestic political matters. Of all the things that General Joffre did not come to America to do, we suppose, none can be more conspicuously certain than that he did not come here to make an ass and an offense of himself and spill the beans for his country.

THE MYSTERY MYSTERIOUS.

Chapter Six.

Idaresay, the great detectuff, was speechless. "The flims! The flims!" he cried. "What about them? remarked Smyth, his genial assistant, as he folded a neat bow in his ready-made tie.

Idaresay shook from port to stern. At last his warble returned.

"After you retired I went into my experimenting room and worked till just now mixing up the developing chemicals." One could see by his boots and ear muffs he had been laboring madly. "And when I opened the camera to take out the flims," he continued, "they were gone," and he fell in a heap in the coal bucket.

Smyth dashed out, filled up a picher, came in blowing off the suds and pressed the handle to Idaresay's parched lips, then parted his own moustache and emptied the pitcher in two and a half hearty quaffs.

Idaresay started to breathe again, his eyes roamed around the room in an empty stare and his eyelids slowly opened. Regaining speech, he shrieked, "The flims! The flims!"

WOMAN VETERINARIN STARTS HOSPITAL FOR INVALID PETS.

Miss Clare Lamplugh, Ministering to One of the Patients in Her Veterinary Hospital.

San Francisco, Cal., April 27.—Only ..woman veterinary surgeon in the west.

Thus titled to minister to the pets of kennel, warren and cage, Miss Clare Lamplugh, who came from London to California some time ago, is opening an animal hospital here to care for the dumb companions of the socially elect.

She has just completed a three-year course in animal surgery and now proudly writes "V. S." after her name.

A pet canine which won a place in her heart inspired Miss Lamplugh to study veterinary science. But much as she values th deistinction of being the only woman in the west to acquire this title in surgery, her greatest satisfaction lies in being able to ease animal suffering.

"They are all my friends," she said—"dogs, cats and other pets, dear, dumb pals. I am glad to have acquired the science that enables me to help them when they need it most."

The most lasting result of a printer's error is found in the word 'cocoanut," which people often think has something to do with cocoa. The original word was coco-nut, from the Spanish word "coco," meaning "grin or grimace," a name bestowed upon the cocoanut owing to its resemblance to the face of a monkey. When Dr. Johnson was compiling his famous dictionary he included the word "coconut," but the compositor inserted an "a" instead of the hyphen, and the word appeared as "cocoanut," and has been written so ever since.

FRANK A. GARBUTT.

(Staff Special.)

Los Angeles, Cal., April 27.—Believing it will revolutionize aerial warfare, Frank A. Garbutt, southern California millionaire aviator and all around sport devotee, is working on an aeroplane motor for use in the coming conflict.

Garbutt, though wealthy, is a natural mechanic and was the first auto driving champion of the west.

Describing his motor, Garbutt says: "This new motor will, I am confident, run 24 hours a day for 30 days and show no appreciable signs of wear. The bearings are very generous, being from five to ten times larger than those of an automobile. The trouble with most air machines is their inability to stand wear and tear of a long flight."

Garbutt believes he can make the trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco, about 500 miles, and back in a day. This sort of air scouting, he says, will prove invaluable in war time.

Garbutt has for years ranked among the leading yachtsmen of the west and is planning to place his "Skid Bladner," a fine pleasure craft, at the service of the government as a submarine chaser. The vessel is capable of mounting light, three pound guns, and because of a shallow craft, would be a poor mark for the undersea boats.

MANY CHILDREN DO PRETTY WORK.

Older Girls Also Dance With Grace at Miss Larimore's Ballet.

Miss Muriel Larimore presented her pupils in esthetic, ballet and interpretative dancing at her fourth annual spring ballet, at the Majestic theater on Friday evening. To describe all the good points of grace, agility and acquired skill of each and all of the thirty pupils on the program with a description of their dainty costumes is impossible, but there was general excellence in toework in the teaching of which Miss Larimore excels, and in the stage settings, the costuming and the lack of self consciousness of the pupils there were beauty and loveliness. There were a number of pupils who in connection with their graceful dancing, caught the idea of expression particularly well. They were Margaret Whisler, Helen Pape, Evelyn Plumadore, Mary Louise Rhamy, Betty McCulloch, Helen Stillman, Esther Centlivre, Alice Saunders, Margaret Hosford and the Watson twins. Then there were others whose specialties depended less on their imagination and interpretation and more on their movements of grace, and skill in toe work. Such were Marian Woebbeking, Mary Hiser, Helen Strodel, Martha Canaday, Alice Beall, Geraldine Fredericks, Norvine Oddou, Lois Butler, Florence Merritt, Nellie Eggeman, Marcella Dike and again the Watson twins in a Spanish dance which was the nearest to a professional number on the program, with the exception of Miss Larimore's own skill and grace. There were several other children, who though they have not got to the point of solo work, contributed equally to the success of a delightful program and aided in making the entertainment a success in every way. They appeared in the minuet and the ballet of graces and included Eleanor McGuire, Ruth Taylor, Hildred Gruber, Helen Gaskins, Marcella Dike, Lillian Hans, Nellie Eggeman, Lois Butler, Norvine Oddou and Lois Schoenbeine, who sang and danced for the opening number and won applause enough to turn her little head if it could be done.

WITH THE STUDY CLUBS.

There will be a meeting of the Fortnightly club on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Niezer. Miss Lowry will read a paper on "The Drama." The annual election of officers will be held.

The fourteenth annual popular concert of the Morning Musical society will be given some time in May, the date already announced as May 8 having been cancelled because music ordered for a chorus has been delayed in its arrival. It will likely be about the middle of the month before the society is ready to present this attraction. The program at the Friday meeting of the society presented an entirely new phase in musical work before this club. The program was suggested by the songs of birds, and Miss Margaret Hanna, chairman, who has made a study of birds for a number of years, selected numbers relative to song birds, of which the great composers have written many. Miss Hanna also gave a short talk concerning four native birds, told how to know them by their plumage, imitated their calls and named many characteristics. The musical part of the program was given by Miss Maude Gwinn, who sings very well indeed. Miss Corinne Strass, Mrs. Sam Kraus, Miss Leah Gardner who all did admirable solo work, and Miss Gardner and Miss Helene Spindler, who played the Espana by Chabrier for two pianos, in a manner quite artistic. The audience was wholly delighted. There are to be two more active members' programs before the work closes for the season.

There will be a meeting of the Travel club on Monday afternoon with Mrs. McKechan. There will be a book review and a reading.

Mrs. William Hahn, of West Berry street, will be hostess for the meeting of the Woman's Reading club next Tuesday. Mrs. Harding will present a paper on Paraguay.

Crepe and Filet Lace

New York, April 28.—The season's most exquisite variation of the lingerie dress is a sports blouse of Georgette crepe and filet lace.

The new garment is cut on the lines of a silk sweater-coat, but it is adapted by the filminess of the material, for wearing on the hottest mid-summer day.

Blouses in Fifth-ave shops are bewilderingly dainty and fairly revel in variety.

But fashion always has a favorite, and her favorite in this respect is for filet lace.

It fairly abounds on the smartest blouses, and is seen on those of fine linen and of Georgette crepe alike.

Even the severely tailored suits of the season are relieved by collars of this lace, either in straight narrow shapes, or in sailor effects, in which case eyelet and embroidered linen and crepe is often introduced in combination with the filet.

WILL RAISE FLAG AT PATRIOTIC MEETING

Big Demonstration is Being Planned for Tuesday at Garrett.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Garrett, Ind., April 28.—A feature of the big patriotic meeting to be held here next Tuesday will be the big flag that is to be raised. This flag which is the largest ever raised in this city was made by the I-Yo-Ki-Hi Camp-Fire Girls, Saturday at the city hall. Owing to the scarcity of flags and the exorbitant prices charged the camp-fire volunteered to impersonate the famous Betty Ross and consequently gathered at the city hall today and from the yards of material on hand reproduced "Old Glory" in all her beauty. The flag was designed by Miss Loretta Manion, assistant city clerk, and Mrs. F. M. McDonald, guardian of the camp-fire. The patriotic members of this organization are the Misses Betha Shamo, Esther Cobler, Mary Lantz, Vesta Marvin, Helen Comparette, Alda Orr, Myrtle Stahl, Margaret Roos, Lois Cobler, Florence Widmer, Zella Shannon, Pauline Campbell, Berniece Haverstick.

Mother's Day.

Mothers' Day will be observed at the Methodist church in this city Sunday, April 29, instead of the second Sunday in May. This change has been made on account of the big revival meeting that is in progress there. Members of the Sunday school and church are endeavoring to have a record-breaking attendance and expect to have 550 in the Sunday school. A request has been made that those whose mothers are living wear a colored flower and those who have lost their mothers should wear the white. Special music will be enjoyed at the morning church service and a sermon appropriate to the day is being observed.

DONS YOSAN SILK

BY BETTY BROWN.

New York, April 28.—Utility gowns of Yosan silk are among the elegances of vacation wardrobes. A creation worn by Mary Nash, popular actress, shows a unique arrangement of striped, bordered, kilted side-panels and pockets remarkable for their breadth rather than their depth. An intricately shirred parasol lining adds the needed touch of softness.

The world's total production of gold last year, though nearly equal to the record output for any year, was less than the amount imported into the United States in that period.

A mistake which was, perhaps, the fault of the stenographer rather than the printer, related to the proposal of a British toast to the "Three-per-cent Consols" instead of "Three present Consuls."

FASHION RESPONDS TO WAR START—FLAG APPEARS IN FEMININE TOGGERY.

HOW THE FLAG APPEARS IN LATEST FASHIONS. An eagle surmounts a veil now showing in New York, and there are three American flags placed in the meshes. Flags are embroidered in silk on white silk stockings. White kid gloves also bear the national emblem, embroidered on their backs.

New York, April 28.—Fashions have responded almost instantly to the declaration of war. Fifth avenue shops are full of dainty things for women to wear that will express the patriotism of the wearer. The red, white and blue dominates hats, veils, stockings, gloves and gowns. The Stars and Stripes have been woven into the fabric of the new spring fashions.

From top to toe, Milady of Fashion can find something nowadays to express her patriotism in her dress. The Knox company, at Fifth avenue and Fortieth street, displays new veil with the American eagle at the top, to be draped over the hat, and with three American flags embroidered into the mesh. The flags are embroidered into the lower portion of the veil, which is waist length.

The Franklin-Simon company is showing new white silk stockings, with a dainty silk flag woven into the fabrics and showing at the ankle.

New gloves, with the flag design woven into the back, in place of the usual row of black stitching, are also ready.

Military coats, approximating the olive drab of the army in color, are on exhibition.

Yet it is a little too soon to discover along Fifth avenue any patriotic resolve to dress with greater economy. The shops at the upper end of the district are as resplendent as ever, and conceal in their pearl and gray and white enameled fixtures such an array of rich silk coats and gowns of filmiest Georgette or resplendent cloth of gold and silver as would dazzle the eyes of Cinderella.

The use of heavy silk so richly brocaded with threads of silver or gold as to render the material almost like metal cloth has resulted in a new short, but richer close-fitting straight-lined skirt, hung in the back with a flat narrow train, hardly more than a great broad sash, or the whole skirt is stiffly draped, with a little fullness at the back and sides, but kept narrow around the bottom. This whole question of skirts, by the way, promises to be interesting pretty soon. There is a suspicious hint of tightness and a decided line of fullness at the knees or higher up, which leaves one wondering what the new line will be.

The length of skirts stays about the same, or perhaps creeps just an inch in the general direction of shoe tops. Rest assured they do not seem to go far below that, and the observer along the avenue counts herself fortunate indeed if most of them reach that far.

Many women seem to imagine fashion demands that they leave an ugly little strip of "neutral territory" below the hem of the skirt and above the top of the boot.

After a riotous wandering in the field of color, shoes have managed to come as near to finding a stopping place at the new dark shades of brown as anywhere. Lighter shades of brown also are popular, and pumps continue to appear in delicate gray and light sand color. But the smart shoes of the season is undoubtedly brown or a combination of two shades of brown.

Pumps are as plain as possible in cut; the dressier models are adorned with buckles of silver or cut steel, oval or rectangular, and fully two inches across

PRACTICAL NEW DESIGNS FOR THE HOME DRESSMAKER.

Use of Chinese Pink Ribbon. Fairway Silk Jacket Suit.

Style, taste and utility are all represented in the two designs of new gowns from the studio of Ora C'ne, South Calhoun street and displayed herewith. Number one is particularly attractive and appealing for its daptability to dressy as well as practical uses. It is made of Fairway silk, the skirt in simulated pleats and with a jacket of the same material. The jacket is bound and outlined in black satin folds. The simulated pleat is better described as a tuck every four inches sewed at the edge of a pleat on the outside. Aside from the good looking appearance it has the effect if placed on the outside, of making a two slender woman look better for the fullness of her skirt, but if placed on the underside, a woman who desires to present the appearance of her slim sister, will be aided by the closer fitting effect of the latter arrangement of pleats. Mrs. C'ne, who posed for the picture, is carrying a swagger stick and is wearing a military hat faced with Fairway silk and having directly in front a stunning motif in rattail braid and appliqued to the white hemp of which the hat proper is made. The braid is also used by appliquing it tightly, to create the visor brim, so much admired in military effect.

The other design, number two, is a combination costume of chiffon broadcloth and Chinese pink ribbon. Two bands of the ribbon encircle each side and form pockets, woman's delight just at present. Two straight bands of the ribbon form the sleeves and Mr. C'ne remarked that the top of the ribbon "just naturally wrinkles into place." Certainly that is comforting to the woman who finds putting in sleeves a bugbear. Ribbon forms the upper part of the simulated jacket. This dress is trimmed with six dozen brilliant green buttons. The coloring of the ribbon is a shadow lawn green and Chinese pink and in quality is a brocade pompadour. The hat is copied in design from the top of a Peruvian vase, is faced with ribbon and is ornamented with outspread, man-made wings in Chinese pink.

Architectural Plans for Young Men's Christian Association Building to be Erected in This City

AT LAST, the committee and the architects of the new Y. M. C. A. building have made public their plan of arrangement of the eight floors of the imposing structure which is to occupy the site of the present Hope hospital at the southwest corner of Barr and Washington streets. The Sentinel today presents these plans, and asks a careful inspection of them. Such an inspection will suggest the reason for the seemingly long time which has been spent in perfecting them.

The building and site committee, composed of Arthur H. Perfect, chairman; Arthur F. Hall, vice chairman; W. N. Ballou, secretary; S. B. Bechtel, A. S. Coverdale, George P. Evans, E. E. Griest, F. S. Hunting and B. Paul Mossman, has been a very busy group of men since they were appointed just after the campaign last May.

The Committee's Task.

To them was delegated the difficult and important task of selecting and purchasing a site for the new building, having plans drawn under their supervision and a building erected with the fund at their disposal sufficient to house the varied activities of a Y. M. C. A. for the next decade or two.

Before the building can be finished and equipped they must also collect the pledges made by more than 10,000 people amounting to over $340,000 most of which pledges are being redeemed in five payments. This means dealing with between twenty-five and fifty thousand persons in making these collections alone.

Realizing fully the paramount importance of the selection of the right man to serve as the general secretary of the association, the committee entered upon the task with the determination to make no mistake. The selection of Edwin W. Peirce, who has been actively "on the job" since the 16th of October, 1916, and whose advice and co-operation has characterized every important move of the committee since that time, has convinced the committee and the friends of the association that the right choice had been made.

E. W. PEIRCE,
General Secretary.

Mr. Peirce is a native of Michigan. For nineteen years, he has devoted his attention to active Y. M. C. A. work, dating his efforts from his connection with the Detroit association in 1898. Following his experience in Detroit, he has been associated with the organizations in St. Louis, Missouri, and Keokuk, Iowa. He came to Fort Wayne from Boston, where he served for seven years as the secretary of the religious work department of the Boston association which enjoys the distinction of being the oldest and largest in America, with seven thousand members and a building worth $1,500,000.

Mr. Peirce already has scores of warm friends among the young men who will make the association a great center of activity when the equipment is ready for their use.

Progress Made.

The committee has given many hours to this work nearly every week since its appointment and is able now to make the following report of progress:

The aim of the committee from first to last is to produce the most durable building possible, so arranged and equipped as to contribute in the largest way to a successful work and making for economy of supervision and maintenance. In other words they are endeavoring to make the very best use of the money entrusted to them by the citizens of Fort Wayne.

Members of the committee or the general secretary have inspected and made a thorough study of association buildings in New York, Boston, Providence; Springfield and Brocton, Mass.; Philadelphia; Canton, Ohio; Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids, Mich.; Chicago, Anderson, Muncie and Indianapolis. They seek to avoid mistakes made in previous buildings and to combine in this building the newest features found in both small and large buildings of recent construction.

The Architects.

After thorough investigation they employed a group of architects with wide experience and recognized ability—Messrs. Shattuck & Hussey, of Chicago, and Charles R. Weatherhogg, of Fort Wayne. Shattuck & Hussey have designed nearly 150 Y. M. C. A. buildings in this country and abroad. They are thorough students of such buildings and of the work to be done in them. In addition to the Fort Wayne building they are now designing or supervising the construction of buildings in New Brunswick, New Jersey; Lima, Ohio; Minneapolis, Minn.; Pueblo, Col.; Butte, Mont., and orders have recently come for plans for several additional building in China.

Charles R. Weatherhogg is one of Fort Wayne's best known and ablest architects and is now designing the coliseum, high school gymnasium, Hope hospital, Wolf & Dessauer department store and other large and valuable buildings. He is co-operating with Shattuck & Hussey and the committee, giving expert advice and counsel on all matters and will have special relation to the construction, finishing and equipment of this great new club house for Fort Wayne boys and men.

The International committee is very much interested in the successful erection of this building, and through the International Building bureau, of which Neil McMillan is secretary, is able to furnish the committee with the experience of all associations, in addition to the counsel given by Messrs. Stacy and Hanson, of the Indiana committee.

After studying and discarding many sets of plans the committee has approved the general arrangement of space as shown on the accompanying cuts and takes pleasure in presenting to the citizens of Fort Wayne the floor plans for the building as they will be worked out, in concrete, plaster, marble and wood, except for a few minor changes.

The committee, general secretary and architect will continue to study the plans throughout the construction period and will not be content until they have produced the best building possible with the knowledge and means at their command.

An Eight-Story Building.

These plans call for an eight-story building of re-inforced concrete and brick with stone and terra cotta trimmings. Three floors will be devoted to activities which contribute to the social, physical, mental and spiritual development of men and boys, with five floors above devoted entirely to living rooms for young men.

The committee expects this building to be complete in every detail, of full fire-proof construction and finished with durable materials. It will be well, but not extravagantly furnished; all features combining to produce a health, brain and character "factory," of which the city has long left a need, and of which each citizen will have reason to feel exceedingly proud.

It Will Surprise Many.

But few Fort Wayne people realize the size or elaborateness of a modern Y. M. C. A. building, because of the absence of one for so many years. This building it is believed will therefore be a delightful surprise to a majority of our men and women. The privileges and activities it will house will be within the reach of boys and men of whatever income and it is hoped the institution will become the most democratic and popular rendezvous of our men and boys.

The Location.

The site on the southwest corner of East Washington boulevard and Barr street commended itself to the committee because of its central location in relation to the business section, the most important street car lines, public buildings, amusement centers and high school. The lot is 150 feet square and was purchased at a very reasonable figure, as all other desirable places would have cost many thousands of dollars more for less land.

Hope Hospital to Move.

The committee feels that its progress with the building plans justifies it in arranging for the Hope hospital buildings to be vacated by June first and has notified the hospital to that effect.

Construction Begins July 1st.

These buildings will be razed during that month and the committee will bend all of its energies toward beginning work by July first, with the expectation that the building will be completed and ready for use September 1, 1918. Nothing but the prohibitive price of materials or labor should prevent these plans carrying through.

How Citizens Can Help.

However, the most important factor in the accomplishment of this great civic enterprise is the prompt payment of all subscriptions made by the people of Fort Wayne and vicinity to the building fund. The committee is much encouraged by the fact that a large majority of subscribers have made their first and second payments and nearly one thousand have paid their subscriptions in full.

The committee believes it only fair that every subscription of whatever amount should be paid on the same basis according to the wording of the pledge. It will greatly hinder and delay the progress of construction work unless all payments are made promptly and the committee asks the earnest co-operation of all citizen's in this matter that this great, new, mutual-benefit organization may be ready to open its doors on time.

First Floor Plan.

The cut of the ground floor shows the arrangement of space with an entrance on Barr street for boys and on East Washington boulevard for men. As one passes through the men's entrance he finds himself in a spacious and attractive lobby with the men's public office just in front on the left, and an inviting fireplace on the right. Turning directly to the right he enters a good-sized social room in which there will be placed easy chairs, piano and tables for small games, with a fireplace at the extreme right. Opening into this room but separated by a glass partition will be the billiard and pool room with six tables.

Turning directly to the left, one will find a quiet corner for newspaper and magazine reading and letter writing. At this side of the lobby will also be an elevator to the upper floors and a stairway up and down. At the left of the men's office the membership secretary will be located, and nearby a work room and consulting room to be used by any of the secretaries.

Crossing the lobby directly, a passage leads past the coat room on the left, and on the right, offices for the assistant secretaries in charge of social, religious, educational and vocational work. This passage leads also to the large gymnasium (50 by 75 feet with daylight on three sides) which will be used also as an assembly and banquet room for large events. The committee has reserved space for an auxiliary gymnasium, 45 by 60 feet, to be built on the southeast corner of the lot as soon as the need for it arises and funds are available.

At the left of this passage a stairway for the accommodation of visitors leads directly to the swimming pool. At the left of the stairway is found the office and examination room of the physical director, from which he has direct control of the gymnasium and private exercise room. A stairway near by leads to the men's and boys' dressing rooms below.

As one enters the boys' lobby from Barr street he will be greeted by a clerk at the public office, the boys' secretary being located just beyond. At the left will be large social, reading and club rooms for younger boys and at the right similar rooms for older boys with coat rooms for each group conveniently located.

Basement Floor Plan.

As one descends the stairway he finds himself in a small lobby surrounded by many interesting rooms. Directly in front the cafeteria and kitchen adjoining. At the right a private dining room, barber shop and general toilet room; also the entrance to the bowling alleys, provision having been made for spectators and bowlers' lockers. At the left he will find a refreshment counter where soft drinks, candy, and supplies of all kinds may be purchased.

Passing through to the left he finds the locker room attendant who will have supervision of all gymnastic suits, towels, etc. After receiving his basket, the member will pass into the boys, young men or business men's locker room (according to age) where he will find commodious lockers for street clothing. From the locker room he may ascend the stairway to the gymnasium or go into the shower bath room, and after a thorough bath into the swimming pool. This pool will be sunlighted by means of a skylight and windows, beautifully finished in tile, and will have spectator space of ten feet on either side and at one end. It is expected that the swimming pool will be one of the most popular features of the building.

Space on this floor has also been provided for the heating plant, fuel, repair and storage rooms. When the auxiliary gymnasium is built the committee plans to have just beyond the bowling alleys a large community boys' club room.

Second Floor Plan.

Ascending to the second floor the corridor leads past the general secretary's office and board of director's room, with the business office and stenographers' room adjoining. Further along the corridor on the right will be a lecture and banquet room which may be divided into four smaller rooms. At the end of the corridor at the left will be a serving room with dumb waiters and stairway from the kitchen. Across the corridor are rooms for classes and clubs, all of which rooms may be used interchangeably for educational, Bible study or physical department classes or club meetings.

A passage leads from this corridor to the running track and spectators' gallery with a handball court adjoining. Passing to the left the corridor leads to club and class rooms for boys, reached by a stairway from their social rooms; and at the extreme left of this floor seven double dormitory rooms are provided which may later on be converted into educational class rooms.

One of the Five Dormitory Floors.

One cut shows the plan of the five floors above the three just described. On each of these floors there will be thirty-seven outside living rooms, together with trunk storage, linen closets and toilet and bath rooms. There will therefore be on the six floors 192 living rooms with 204 beds. On one of these floors a room will be devoted to the use of the matron, and near by a sick-room where a house member who is ill may be cared for conveniently.

Your Own Garden

Tomatoes Will Grow in a Barrel.

BY A GARDENER.

I received another letter telling about a vegetable that takes up too much room in the writer's small backyard:

"Tomatoes occupy so much space I have decided to buy ours and use that space for something else," the writer says.

For him and others who may be in the same frame of thought I am going to suggest "barrel gardening." That will enable them to have nice fresh tomatoes, suc has can't be obtained at any store, for store tomatoes are usually picked while green and allowed to ripen on the way to market.

Use any vacant corner, preferably on the south side of the house or shed or fence. That insures plenty of sunshine, which is absolutely necessary for such a tropical plant as the tomato.

In this corner, or corners, "plant" a barrel. A common rain barrel is the best, good and strong. In the bottom place a nice collection of brickbats or clinkers, say about a foot or two in depth.

On this put enugh earth to cover well, fill half of the remaining distance with well rotted manure, or well rotted compost, now fill with good rich garden soil, and firm the whole. In the center plant a good, healthy tomato plant. Keep it well watered and as the soil sinks down add more.

The vine can fall over the side of the barrel.

On this vine tomatoes will grow until late in the fall, later than in the open garden, for it is protected from fall winds because it has only southern exposure.

The barrel must have a leaky bottom. If it hasn't punch two or three small holes in it near the bottom, so surplus water may drain.

This barrel must be watered frequently all season.

General Electric Co. Plans 199 Foot Extension of Store House.

The immense storehouse building erected on the eastern part of the General Electric company's factory ground two or three years ago, which at that time was believed to be large enough to meet the demands upon it for a number of years, is inadequate and will be enlarged. Next week teams and men will begin excavating for an addition on the south end of the building, carrying out the present style of construction 199 feet and the same width as the present building. The addition will be four stories and a basement and when completed will make the combined structure 350 feet long. Next week, or soon thereafter, the work of tearing down the old frame warehouse, designated as the "old No. 6," will start and the ground it occupies will probably be the site of a larger and better building. The company has not let the contract for the erection of the store building addition, but will probably do so soon. In the meantime the excavation will be made and everything arranged so that construction need not be delayed when the work of building commences.

REDUCING WORKING HOURS.

Nine Hours Work and Ten Hours Pay.

Commencing May 1, the owners of the O. K. machine shop, located on the corner of Fairfield avenue and Poplar street, will reduce the working hours from ten to nine per day, or to fifty hours per week, without a reduction in the wages. Over time work schedules will be the same as those in force in other organized machine shops in the city. The new schedule will be nine hours per day for the first five days and five hours for Saturday. The company, which is composed of G. W. and N. Fries and L. J. Johnson, made the above proposition voluntarily to show their appreciation of the hearty co-operation and good work of their employes. They have on the pay rolls at present thirty men, but the force is inadequate and must be increased, which will be done as soon as a new shop can be erected back of the present one. The company began business five years ago in a barn on Lincoln avenue, with only one lathe. Their business had a wonderful growth, however, and it soon became necessary to get a larger plant and the present shop was erected.

COLLISION ON SIDING.

G. R. & I. Locomotives Meet and Are Derailed.

The Pennsylvania wreck car and crew was summoned to Kendallville this morning to put two G. R. & I. locomotives on the tracks. They came together head-on on a siding north of that city. One was a work train which had taken a siding to let a southbound merchandise train pass and through error, the work train brakeman threw the switch as the freight was approaching and its course was diverted and the collision resulted. Both engines were derailed and damaged slightly, but nobody was injured and as the accident happened on a siding, the main track was not blocked.

PATRIOTIC LADIES.

Knitting Room Employes Have Patriotic Demonstration.

A number of flags have been dedicated at the Wayne Knitting mills, but it remained for Carl Rogge to raise the first flag in the knitting rooms, which was accomplished Thursday afternoon. Walter Ehrman gave a short talk and the young ladies who work for Mr. Ehrman, and Mr. Rogge sang the "Star Spangled Banner." Among those interested in the patriotic demonstration and who furnished the money to purchase the flag were the Misses Alice Moushey, Marie Ensien, Fern Morris and Helen Haag.

SHOP LEAGUE MEETNG.

There will be a meeting of the managers of the teams in the shop league at the home of Fred Rabus, 539 West Third street, at 8 o'clock tonight when the number of clubs in the league will be decided. The Western Gas works being practically closed, the ball team there has been abandoned and dropped from the league. It is now necessary to get another team or to reduce the number of teams in the league to four. It is quite likely the latter plan will be adopted.

PUNCH DEPARTMENT MOVED.

With the exception of the office fixtures and some of the appurtenances of the machine shop, the punch press department of the General Electric works is now located in the first floor building 26, on Wall street. Among the equipment moved were eighty of the biggest kind of punch presses. Foreman Joseph Schwartzkopf said this morning that he expected to have the entire department in operation early next week. Moving has been in progress for two weeks.

INSPECTED G. R. & I. TRACKS.

Enroute to his home in Grand Rapids from Pittsburg, where he had been on railway business, General Manager W. B. Wood made a track inspection of the G. R. & I. between this city and Grand Rapids, today. His special train left Fort Wayne at 6 o'clock and in addition to Mr. Woods, it carried Supt. B. H. Hudson, Division Engineer R. G. Jones, Assistant Trainmaster T. S. Fox, Division Operator J. F. Betts and Road Supervisors G. R. Wright and T. Stewart.

Chambers, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, left last night for Cleveland to join his wife, who went there the day before, and will attend the funeral of her brother, who was accidentally shot by a young lady while she handled a revolver which was not supposed to be loaded. The deceased was a soldier, employed in guarding a munitions plant.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Sawyer and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gaskill left today for Nappanee, Ind., where they will attend the funeral of the brother of Mr. Sawyer and Mrs. Gaskill, who died following a surgical operation at a hospital. The particulars of the cause of death were not given in the dispatch announcing the death of Mr. Sawyer.

FENCE AROUND G. E. WORKS.

Material for an eight-foot iron fence around the General Electric company's plant, which is not otherwise protected, arrived on the grounds this morning and will soon be erected. It will be chiefly on the east side of the property, with an entrance gate at the northeast corner where the walk from Fairfield avenue enters the grounds.

C. PATRICK COMING HOME.

Clarence Patrick, chief clerk at the Wabash freight office, who was taken sick six weeks ago today, writes from Toledo that he will come home next week, but will not be able to resume his duties for awhile. He has been taking treatment of a specialist in Toledo.

NAMES OF ABOUT FIFTY APPLICANTS SENT IN

Much Interest is Taken in Camp for Officers' Reserve Corps.

Between forty and fifty applicants for the officers' reserve corps' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, were forwarded Saturday to the headquarters at Chicago by the local examining board, of which Captain E. H. Kilbourne is chairman.

These young men passed on here will be notified direct from the war department within the next few days if they are acceptable and will be directed to report to Captain George L. Byroade at the Elks' temple for further examination. Several already accepted by the department have been examined by Captain Byroade.

Interest in the officers' reserve corps has been most gratifying to the local committee, members of which are devoting much of their time, even to the neglect of their own business affairs, to the work. That Fort Wayne will make a splendid showing is now assured and the type of men accepted are high class in every respect and from the best families in northwestern Indiana. Only those who come up to the qualifications required by the department are accepted. Meetings of the board are held at the Commercial club each evening from 7 to 9, for examination of applicants.

Meetings of the advisory committee, of which A. A. Serva is chairman, were held Friday evening and Saturday at noon at the Commercial club.

Letters Are Sent Out.

The advisory committee has sent out the following letter to employers: "At a meeting of the advisory committee of the Northeastern Indiana District of the Military Training Camps association, central department, U. S. A., held at the Commercial club on the evening of April 27, 1917, the following resolution was passed:

" 'Be it resolved, That this committee recommend that those making application in the officers' reserve corps of the United States army and accepted by the advisory committee be restored to their present positions by their employers providing they fail in securing a commission after going through the training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison.'

"Will you as an employer subscribe to the above resolution? If so you will kindly indicate by filling in the enclosed blank and return same immediately by mail to the secretary of this committee, care the Commercial club."

FOUR YOUNG MEN WHO HAVE RESPONDED TO THEIR COUNTRY'S CALL.

E. HUSTON KIRKLAND.

CLIFTON ROSS.

ROBERT P. PORTER.

J. ROSS PARNIN.

All Fort Wayne people are patriotic and loyal to country and some are imbued with so deep a love of country and the desire to serve that they are induced to encourage their patriotic sons in enlisting and going to the "front." In proportion to their numbers, no class is more patriotic than the railway agents of Fort Wayne and this statement is substantiated by the fact that nearly all have sons who have either enlisted or are preparing to enlist. In the above group are portraits of four young men who have responded to the call of their country whose fathers are agents of Fort Wayne lines. E. Huston Kirkland is a son of Agent E. H. Kirkland, of the Pennsylvania freight department; J. Ross Parnin is a son of Frank P. Parnin, district passenger agent of the Nickel Plate; Robert P. Porter is a son of Freight Agent Charles P. Porter, of the Wabash, and Clifton Ross is a son of Passenger Agent John E. Ross, of the Pennsylvania. Robert Casey, a son of R. E. Casey, trainmaster of the Grand Rapids and Indiana, has also joined the signal corps and with the others will go to the "front" when the call comes. Huston Kirkland is a student; Ross Parnin is an electrician and for a year or two was employed in the testing department of the General Electric works. He resigned last week and Thursday night left for Fort Thomas, Ky.; to train in the cavalry department; Robert P. Porter has been employed since he left school at the office of the Lincoln Life Insurance company. Young Parnin was a member of the Radio club and is quiet well informed in wireless telegraphy. He was not able to get in that department and was barred from the coast artillery because of not coming up to the requirements in the way of avoirdupoise. Ross Kirkland and Porter have joined the signal corps.

MAY PETITION BOARD TO POSTPONE ACTION

Think That Dickering With City Coliseum is Waste.

Citizens who are objecting to the board of works attempting to have the proposed city coliseum built, when only $180,000 will be available for its construction, may petition the board, at its next session, not to proceed farther with the coliseum project this year.

Principal objection would be that the preliminary steps of advertising for bids will be an unwarranted expense to the city. By allowing the coliseum matter to rest quietly at this time Fort Wayne would be saved that money, which might be used to good advantage later, it is thought. Several city officials have said that it is useless to expend money for preliminary steps when there is no hope of a reliable contractor offering to construct the coliseum from first class materials for the amount now at hand.

This of all times is the moment when action should not be taken towards building the auditorium with the limited funds available, it is argued. War conditions have made the steel market, and other markets of building materials, very uncertain. Few definite deliveries can be promised, it is claimed. Prices are excessive, it is stated, and are soaring higher every day of the war. After there is a drop in price of materials would be the logical time to erect a city coliseum, such as Fort Wayne should have, it is claimed. Owing to the delay in delivering materials to the drained market and war conditions, there can be no hope of completing the coliseum this year, say men who have studied the markets.

A few citizens have discussed the matter of requesting the board of works to ask for a new set of drawings, especially for the exterior structure of the coliseum. The state that an attempt has been made to lavish unnecessary ornateness on the building. A part of the elaborate architectural designing for the exterior of the structure is unnecessary and costly, it is said. A less ornamented building might be constructed for less money and be just as staple as the unduly adorned affair now asked, it is believed.

WHY PUBLIC SCALES.

City Sealer Tolan Sets Out Their Benefits.

Because of what seems to be a distrust of use of the public scales in the market place, City Sealer Tolan has prepared the following article setting out the benefits of the registered scales in the city market:

"Since the Indiana weights and measures have become generally known, the question, 'How much does it cost?' usually asked by the purchaser is followed by the question, 'How much does it weigh?' And the purchaser is within his legal rights in asking these questions. These questions are an reflection on the honesty dealer. Perhaps one of the most effective means of enforcing the provisions of the weights and measures laws and also educating the purchasing public to its requirements is the placing of a reweighing scale on our municipal market. This market is a center where a varied business is carried on by many people and where products that most largely enter into daily life are sold. Also a knowledge of the presence of a reweighing device will, in a large measure, cause one dishonestly inclined to respect the law.

"On our municipal market, at the north section at Wayne street, one of these scales has been installed for the benefit of the public and the gardeners and the weights and measures department sincerely hopes that all conconcerned will take advantage of it. I shall be on the market every market morning and in the event of any discrepancies in weights same will be immediately investigated and properly adjusted.

"I know of no other single feature of the weights and measures law that guards and protects the public from being defrauded by short weight comparable to this one. As heretofore expressed the law can do its perfect work only when all of its provisions are enforced, and I deem this one feature of enforcing the law worthy of the public's earnest thought and consideration."

Clerk to Return.

Dennis McCarthy, clerk to the mayor, will return to his duties, Monday morning. He has been in Chicago for the past two weeks.

GET RID OF TEN TO SIXTY POUNDS.

To be excessively fat is very mortifying. People who are too stout are usually sensitive on this subject. Style and fat folks are strangers. Therefore, people who are carrying around a burden of unhealthy and unsightly fat will be glad to know that they may reduce their weight without starvation diet or tiresome exercise.

If you want to become thinner in a simple, safe and reliable way, here is a test worth trying. Spend some time daily in the open air, and get from the druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night. Also follow the other simple directions that come with the box.

Weigh yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight, and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

FORT WAYNE MEN AT Y. M. C. A. WAR COUNCIL

E. L. Mogge is Recommended as Executive Secretary for This State.

One hundred and fifty representative citizens of Indiana took dinner together Friday noon in the Riley room of the Claypool hotel at Indianapolis. These men had responded to a hurried call from the state office of the Young Men's Christian association to attend a "war council" regarding the service which the association might render the state and federal troops at their mobilization camps during the next eight months.

Fort Wayne was represented by Judge O. N. Heaton, B. Paul Mossman, E. E. Griest, George P. Evans and Edwin W. Peirce. Governor James P. Goodrich presided and called upon every man present to do his duty during the present national crisis. He prophesied, that within the next two weeks, every citizen would be notified to register for such military service for which his age, training or occupation might best fit him, saying that Indiana had never failed to do its duty as an integral part of the nation and he believed she would not fail to do her utmost at this time. He spoke in the highest terms of the service the Y. M. C. A. had been able to render Indiana and other troops on the Mexican border, emphasizing the importance of this larger work in safeguarding the physical, moral and spiritual life of our sons as they will be gathered in the twelve great army camps over the country.

Fairbanks Makes Address.

Addresses were also made by former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, a life-long friend and adviser of the Young Men's Christian association, and Albert E. Roberts, international Y. M. C. A. secretary of New York. Mr. Roberts reviewed, briefly, Y. M. C. A. work among the men of the army and navy during the Spanish-American war, the Russo-Japanese war, emphasizing particularly the eagerness with which the governments of Europe and Asia had accepted the service of the association to the men under arms, to those in the trenches and in the prison camps in the armies, save those of Turkey. He also stated that the work among one million men soon to be mobilized require the service of one thousand secretaries, physical directors and assistants and a fund of $3,000,000 to finance the work during the next eight months.

Indiana Pledges $150,000.

At the conclusion of the dinner resolutions were unanimously adopted, expressing the conviction that Indiana citizens will gladly help this work, determining to raise a fund of $150,000 before May 31 as Indiana's share of the expense fund. Illinois has already raised $219,000 toward a fund of $300,000; Michigan will raise $250,000 and Ohio also $250,000. A state war work council of seventy-five men will be organized at once to supervise all phases of this work and the conference recommended that E. L. Mogge be made executive secretary of this council.

The state will be divided into nine districts, each district undertaking to raise its share of this state fund during the week of May 20th. Fort Wayne will doubtless be the headquarters of District No. 3, which includes Steuben, Dekalb, Whitley, Allen, Huntington, Wells, Adams and Blackford counties.

WOMAN SEEKS CITY OFFICE

WOULD REPRESENT THE FIRST WARD

On List of Socialist Candidates Which Were Filed Saturday.

All hail to Fort Wayne's first candidate for councilwoman.

The first woman to step bravely forward and demand a seat in the midst of a body commonly called "the city fathers," is Mrs. Jennie Soughan, 1121 Elmwood avenue. She considers that women have as good a right to hold office as they have to vote and furthermore, she adds with the zest of a real politician, "I expect to be elected."

Fort Wayne's pioneer councilwoman candidate is running on the socialist ticket. She filed her name with City Clerk Gustave W. Boerger on Saturday morning, along with nine other socialists who seek office next fall, and who have entered their names for places on the ticket.

The election law states that political parties which have not polled enough votes to be represented in the primary shall file the list of their candidates before the registration board convenes on May 6. The socialist party has filed nearly all its candidates at this time.

Declines to Get Excited.

The woman standard-bearer on the city ticket refused to show any signs of elation when her attention was called by the reporter to the unique position she had chosen for herself. She is on the ticket because she feels it a duty, she states. She has several reforms in mind for the First ward, which she seeks to represent, she says, and one of these is the beautification of the river bank. She will support the socialist city platform which calls loudly for municipal ownership of all utilities, she gives out.

Mrs. Soughan, who is a widow, will make no public addresses unless invited by organizations to speak on special occasions. She has lived in Fort Wayne for four years, since the death of her husband, although for the past twenty-five years she has lived near the city, she says. She is now starting to make a special study of local conditions to fit herself for taking her office, she explained.

Has Been Suffragist.

The woman candidate is employed in the Foster shirtwaist factory. She has a son six years old. She is a well educated woman who has been an earnest advocate of woman's suffrage for years.

Mrs. Soughan calls attention to the fact that she will be out but little money, even if she looses the fight for a council seat. Her campaign so far has cost her nothing, as the socialist picked their leaders in a meeting of the most ardent advocates of public ownership, several days ago. Mrs. Soughan will give her time in distributing literature rather than giving her money, she states.

Other socialist candidates for the city campaign, which have been registered with the clerk are: Philip H. Doty, for mayor; Max Klaren, for city judge; Carl H. Becker, for clerk; Walter Eickmeyer, for councilman-at-large; Mrs. Jennie Soughan, councilwoman from First ward; W. H. DeCamp, councilman, Second ward; A. J. Wraight, councilman, Fifth ward; N. B. Holdsworth, councilman, Sixth ward; John Hisler, councilman, Ninth ward, and Bryce McIntosh, councilman, Tenth ward.

GOVERNMENT WANTS STENOGRAPHERS NOW

Fort Wayne has been asked by federal authorities to secure as many candidates as possible for examinations for stenographers and typewriters to be conducted at the postoffice building, every Tuesday until the ranks for war needs are filled. Part of the communication to W. J. Hess, in charge of the examination department, reads:

"Greatly increased demands for stenographers and typewriters in the United States government service at Washington, D. C., owing to the present emergency, require frequent examinations. Appointments in large numbers are to be made as soon as eligibles are available. It is the manifest duty of citizens with this special knowledge to use it at this time where it will be of most value to the government.

"For the present, examinations for the department service, both men and women, will be held every Tuesday, in 400 of the principal cities of the United States, and applications may be filed with the commissioner at Washington, D. C., at any time.

"The entrance salary ranges from $900 to $1,200 a year. Advancement of capable employes is reasonably rapid.

"Applicants must have reached their eighteenth birthday on the date of examination."

For full particulars address W. J. Hess, Fort Wayne.

Emma Berry, seven years old, who has been critically ill with pneumonia, is greatly improved at her home, on Boone street.

Mrs. Edith Darby and daughters, Niga and Naomi, will leave Sunday morning for Waterloo to attend the funeral of Dr. A. B. Darby.

231 ARTILLERY MEN ARE MUSTERED IN

Solemn Scenes Surround Ceremony of Taking Oath of Allegiance.

Two hundred and thirty-one young men who enlisted in the battery organizations of this city were sworn into service Friday evening at the court house. Solemn scenes surrounded the ceremony as the young men held up their right hand and swore that they would defend the Stars and Stripes.

Of this number of men 137 compose the new battery which has been organized here. This leaves room for many more who can still be used in this artillery organization. A campaign for new recruits will begin at once.

The two batteries and Company E will participate in the flag-raising at Weisser park Sunday afternoon. All members are urged to be present at the court house an hour before the time for the ceremonies so that they can march to the scene in a body.

Organize a Drill Squad.

A number of the members of the Fort Wayne Rifle and Revolver club are organizing a drill squad for the purpose of acquiring some knowledge of drill regulation and military practice. The organization of this drill squad is not being officially handled by the Rifle club, but is being taken care of by the club members as individuals.

A meeting of all Rifle club members is to be held in the assembly room of the court house Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock for the purpose of organizing. About 150 members have already signified their deesire to take up this practice.

WILL MEAN MORE WORK FOR POLICE

Conscription Will Place Extra Duty on Cities, Mayor Says.

It may be the war duty of the police to go out and bring in for registration many of the young men of the city when the conscription bill passes, Mayor W. J. Hosey states. The mayor returned home from Indianapolis Friday evening, where he met with thirty other mayors of the state in regard to the food situation and was in consultation with Governor Goodrich on the subject of action to be taken after the draft bill passes.

Young men coming within the age limits of the conscription measure will have to register, Governor Goodrich plans. He expects to have every county register all its available young men. Cities of over 30,000 population will carry out their own registration. When young men do not voluntarily register the police will be ordered to bring them in by force, Goodrich states.

As soon as the proposed draft law passes Mayor Hosey is to be informed by the governor of the duty expected of Fort Wayne as a city.

HE WARNS AMERICA OF GOING IN UNPREPARED

Gen. Joffre Says Enormous Loss Can Be Escaped Only by Being Ready.

Washington, April 28.—The military section of the French mission, headed by Marshal Joffre, during conferences continued today with representatives of the war department, warned the United States that active participation in the war without absolute preparation and previous contact with field operations would invite enormous losses. This became known today after Emile Hovelaque, general counsellor, speaking for the mission, had outlined a statement to be made tomorrow by Marshal Joffre to the American press.

"Marshal Joffre will tell you," said Mr. Hovelaque, "why he has come to the United States, without of course revealing any of the negotiations with the American government which must be regarded as confidential. He will tell you about the French army, conditions in France and how the United States can best co-operate in a military way with the armies of France in this war. He'll make clear the fact that this is a war of constant changes of conditions. From week to week everything on nearly every front is altered and moved. An army is like a lot of ants, moving, moving, moving—working to strike the first blow.

"You must realize that Americans cannot be trained in this country to play at war. They should be there on the field. Americans should know these things first hand and what war really is before they go into it on a large scale. Unless America has accurate knowledge of real war conditions instead of play war, it may cost you much.

"You will be surprised to learn how rapidly the conditions change. Lieut. Col. Remond, who probably knows more about artillery than any man in France, said to me only yesterday, 'I am afraid of getting stale before I get back to France.'"

GERMANS THINK U-BOATS BRING PEACE IN SIGHT

candidategM af or aftraft of trehtct

Amsterdam, April 28.—(Via London, 5:45 p. m.)—According to the account given by the Tageblatt, of Berlin, of the statement regarding submarine warfare, made to the Reichstag main committee by Vice Admiral von Capelle, minister of the navy, the Germans in the first two months of unrestricted submarine operations lost only six U-boats, a number which in the same period was surpassed several times by new construction.

The admiral said neither the British nor their allies dared public the names and tonnages of ships sunk. He referred to the numerous reports and the monthly compilations prepared by the German admiralty regarding the booty. Being questioned regarding the abandoning of submarine warfare the minister expressed the opinion that the day was not far off when Great Britain must declare her readiness to enter into peace negotiations.

TRADING IN FUTURES BARRED IN WINNIPEG

Wheat Takes Far Tumble When Gambling in It is Stopped.

Winnipeg, April 28.—Announcement was made at the Winnipeg grain exchange today that no trading in futures would be permitted in the pit hereafter without sanction of a censoring committee composed of the secretary, Dr. Robert Magill; the manager of the clearing house, F. O. Fowler, and Thomas Brodie, representing the floor committee.

After a conference of the council of the exchaange, President J. G. Gage, of the exchange, read the following message signed by J. G. Stewart, for the royal wheat commission: "This is your authority to announce that no buying of Winnipeg wheat futures has taken place by the allied governments during the last forty odd cents advance and that we have sufficient bought for present requirements."

Another session of the council then was held and President Gage announced the prohibition of trading in futures. This action, he said, had been deemed necessary in view of the critical condition of the market. He expressed the belief that the action would maintain trade along legitimate lines, notwithstanding the fact that information before the council would indicate that the holdings in the market were almost entirely for the account of the British government and Canadian millers and that the Canadian millers had assured the exchange their holdings were for present requirements only. A desk was placed in the pit and three censors began operations. The almost immediate effect was the lowering of the market which in fifteen minutes sold off 20 cents for May. Minneapolis May declined 16 to 18 cents in the same period.

CHICAGO MAYOR MAY ANSWER TO FEDERAL COURT

Chicago, Ill., April 28.—Utterances of Mayor William Hale Thompson, of Chicago, relative to the war and including statements criticizing conscription were called to the attention of the federal authorities today by a volunteer committee of three citizens. The committee visited District Attorney C. F. Clyne and is said to have demanded that some action be taken by the government.

Mayor Thompson stated his opposition to conscription during his interview regarding the proposal that he invite members of the French mission to Chicago.

HOLD CONFERENCES ON PROBLEMS OF WAR

French and British Commissions Meet Washington Officials.

Washington, April 28.—American officials today met members of the British and French commissions in the second day's series of conferences devoted entirely to discussing and decided definite problems of the war without the preliminary groping after bases of mutual understanding. The day promised to develop rapid progress in the solution of what the United States is to do to aid the allied nations most efficiently in beating Germany.

The morning was devoted to business talks among Americans, British and French behind closed doors at a number of government departments, with various experts paired off to work over particular phases assigned to each.

Food and financial problems loomed large as the conferences progressed and the former is dependent largely on America's ability to furnish ships to keep a stream of supplies moving from this country to Europe. In this connection Germany's recent increasing effectiveness with her submarine blockade was given serious consideration, particularly by Foreign Minister Balfour and the other British commissioners.

Cabinet dinners were on the program for tonight by Attorney General Gregory for M. Viciani; Secretary Baker for Marshal Joffre, and Secretary Daniels for Admiral Chocheprat. The dinners were to be followed by a reception for the mission at the Army and Navy club by Secretaries Baker and Daniels.

Tomorrow British and French visitors will sail down the Potomac on the president's yacht, Mayflower, to visit Mount Vernon as guests of Secretary Daniels.

MR. TAFT URGES NEED OF MONEY FOR RED CROSS

Washington, April 28.—Former President Taft conferred with Secretary Baker today about the military units being trained at Yale university. Later he went to the white house to discuss Red Cross affairs with the president.

Mr. Taft dined last night with British Foreign Minister Balfour and outlined to President Wilson plans of the Red Cross for raising a large sum of money to finance its war activities. "We must get down to a war basis," said Mr. Taft. "Many things which are proper in peace time are not efficient with the nation at war. The Red Cross is preparing to do its part in the war."

Mr. Taft declared that the need in the United States at present was to awaken the people to the seriousness of the situation. Many do not realize, he said, that the nation is at war. It is very necessary, he declared, for the people to get down to a war basis quickly.

The conflict is proceeding fiercely. By means of prisoners already taken, several fresh German divisions have been identified.

ANOTHER SPANISH SHIP SUNK.

Madrid, Via Paris, April 28.—Premier Prieto has announced that he has received official confirmation of an attack by a German submarine on the Spanish steamer Triana and has addressed a strong protest to Germany.

Details of the incident show that a few minutes after a shell had been fired at the Triana the commander of the submarine boarded the steamer and offered excuses, insisting that he only fired after the steamer had ignored a blank shot.

BALL PLAYERS DRILLING.

New York, April 28.—President Johnson, of the American league, who is in this city, said today that while he had no assurances from government or army officials he has reason to believe that if the proposed conscription law becomes operative it will not be applied to the players on his circuit until the season ends in October. "All of the American league teams," said the executive, "with the exception of the Boston Red Sox, have become proficient in military tactics."

SERVICES AT MISSION.

Saturday night there will be an old-time praise and song service. Sunday afternoon, Sunday school at 3 p. m., and in the evening the regular evangelistic service, in which Mr. J. A. Hooper will speak. Special music.

EXPERT NURSE LEAVES TODAY

She Has Been Here Preparing Teachers for Hospital Supply Classes.

WILL BE SENT TO ST. LOUIS NEXT

Effort is Being Made to Interest Parent-Teacher Associations.

Miss Mary Johnson, expert nurse, who has been here for the past three weeks teaching Fort Wayne women how to become teachers in the making of hospital supplies for the Red Cross society, will leave Saturday evening for Chicago. From Chicago she expects to be sent to St. Louis next week.

An effort is being made to interest the members of the various parent-teacher associations. The president of each of these associations will be taught the work and they will be expected to organize classes among the various organizations. In this manner the work can be carried on in every part of the city, in the opinion of officials of the local chapter.

There were no classes at headquarters Saturday, the day being devoted to wrapping the various articles that have already been made.

Supply Committee Meets.

The Red Cross supply committee held a meeting at headquarters on East Berry street, Friday afternoon, to arrange for the instruction of the new classes coming in next week. There will be special tables for the regular classes, also tables will be available at all hours for those who are unable to take the work regularly but wish to drop in when possible and work for a few hours. These irregulars have been listed as transients and will have an instructor any time they can come to do the work.

Miss Mary Johnson, who has had the entire responsibility of instructing the two classes for teachers, during the past three weeks, leaves Sunday for Chicago, where there is urgent need of her services. Miss Johnson was requested to come before the committee with any final suggestion which she might be able to give. She spoke at length and said in part as follows:

"Since the war gauze has lost its regulation thirty-six-inch width so we cannot hold strictly to dimensions except along the selvage. Therefore, do your work well and as nearly to dimensions as possible.

"The work turned out here has gone so far beyond my expectations that when I look at that beautiful lot of supplies I feel constrained to grab them up and take them with me to Chicago. I feel that I am leaving teachers who are well qualified by reason of their earnest and conscientious application, to give the work. I am not at all concerned about the result because I know what it will be and Fort Wayne will be watched very carefully by both Chicago and Washington as they have so long desired the work taken up here.

Things to Remember.

"I especially urge the teachers to remember present conditions, be careful to label all cut pieces of gauze and above all waste no material. Do not, in giving instruction, insist upon an individual doing the work just as you do it. Result is what counts and another may go about making the supplies in another way than your way, but if finished neatly and according to instructions that is the important thing. Be considerate of pupils, instill into each woman that she is expected to do her part. Make the instructions definite, but as briefly and concisely as possible. Insist upon quiet in class, do not permit the noise of one disorderly class to hinder the progress of another. Watch the stock carefully and make up different lines of supplies proportionately. Work toward a system and keep up the standard of the work. I shall run in on you unannounced this summer and I expect to see the same grade of stock on the shelves."

The ladies of the class expressed their thanks and appreciation to Miss Johnson for her untiring efforts to which she responded with feeling.

WAR QUOTA OF NAVY IS ALMOST ATTAINED

Full war quota for the navy is rapidly being attained, and barriers which were taken down a month ago are now being replaced. Word to the Fort Wayne station, on Saturday, states that the age for apprentice seamen, when they may be excused from waivers, is raised from 16 years to 17 years. The requirements had been lowered a month ago when navy recruiting was at its height.

Officers at the Fort Wayne station believe the navy ranks will be filled to full capacity in a few more days. From that time on the waiting list for seamen will be maintained.

ENTERTAIN'S MEN CLASS.

H. E. Stephens delightfully entertained the members of the Men's Bible class of the Wayne Street M. E. Sunday school, Friday evening at his home, 3302 South Broadway. Prof. F. M. Price, teacher of the class, and Mr. Stephens served as chief cooks. L. L. Miller is president of the class and F. Y. Cross, chairman of the social committee.

THORPE'S GREATEST AMBITION MAY BE REALIZED BY HIS TRANSFER TO CINCINNATI.

(By Paul Purman.)

*With Milwaukee. Other years with the Giants.

One of the most surprising baseball transfers of the year was consummated when Ji mThorpe, Giant outfielder and all-round athlete, was sold by McGraw to Cincinnati.

It is surprising because Thorpe gave promise early this season of having his best year in baseball.

When I visited the Giants at Marlin early in the training season the universal verdict was that Thorpe had at last "arrived."

He has developed into a dangerous hitter and his fielding has improved wonderfully.

With a handful of clever outfielders and facing the twenty-two player limit, McGraw probably reasoned that he could better afford to sell Jim than to send him back to the minors again this year.

Thorpe should develop into a great ball player under Mathewson's tutelage, and his extra base clouts should be of great value to the Cincinnati Reds.

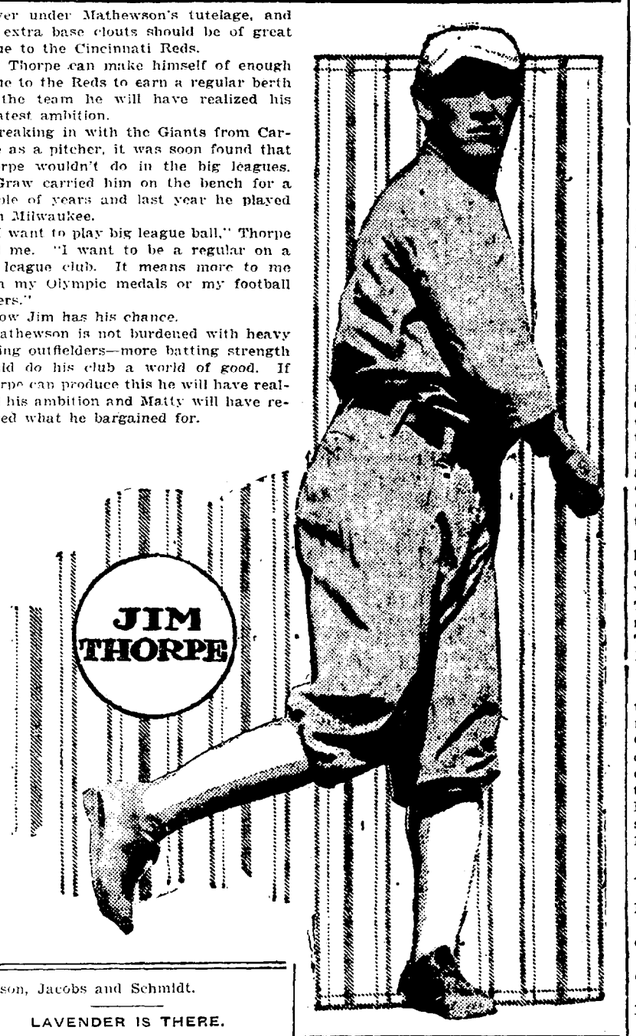
If Thorpe can make himself of enough value to the Reds to earn a regular berth on the team he will have realized his greatest ambition.

Breaking in with the Giants from Carlisle as a pitcher, it was soon found that Thorpe wouldn't do in the big leagues. McGraw carried him on the bench for a couple of years and last year he played with Milwaukee.

"I want to play big league ball," Thorpe told me. "I want to be a regular on a big league club. It means more to me than my Olympic medals or my football letters."

Now Jim has his chance.

Mathewson is not burdened with heavy hitting outfielders—more batting strength would do his club a world of good. If Thorpe can produce this he will have realized his ambition and Matty will have received what he bargained for.



HE NAMED THE CHIEFS.

GAH BOWERS.

Gah Bowers, whose picture is shown above, is the lad of eleven years who named the Fort Wayne baseball club the Chiefs. Gah is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Bowers, 1215 Wells street, and a student in the seventh grade of the Bloomingdale school. The name suggested by him was chosen unanimously, and when the name of the sender was looked up it proved to be that of Gah Bowers. He is now the proud possessor of a season ticket to the league games.

Irish potatoes and most other vegetables and fruits tend to make the body tissues and fluids alkaline, so correcting the tendency of meat, eggs, fish and similar foods to create acid conditions. Since the body performs its work best when it is neutral or slightly alkaline, this function of fruits and vegetables is important, especially to the hearty meat eater.

LYRIC BUFFET OUTFIT ALSO LANDS IN LISTS

"South Bend Night" in Indiana Pin Meet Slated for Tonight.

Finishing up with a game which was easily the best of any in the tourney so far, the Minuet Electric five-man club took first place in the state bowling meet last night, getting a total of 2,894. That a Fort Wayne club should take first place in this event after that position has been held since the opening night by a Gary club was reason enough for a real celebration.

Getting a good start, the electricians started out with a count of 971. They let down in the second somewhat and knocked off 914. It was in the final, however, that they put across the money-winning work and ended with a count of 1,009. This game has rings around any former count of the meet. Chick Carr and Farnan stood out as stars of the game, but all five of the club were there with the pill.

The Lyric Buffets also landed in the lists, making a count of 2,738. The game of this club was far from sensational, but was steady and consistent all the way. The Paiges slumped from their usual top-notch game, failing to land in the money. They came through with a score of 2,533, however, which is far from a rotten total.

South Bend Night.

Tonight is "South Bend night" in the tourney, and five clubs from that city will roll together with Eddie Harkenrider's Central alley stars of Indianapolis at 7:30 o'clock. These teams are expected to be dangerous and the new leaders are hoping that nothing out of the ordinary happens. WINS PENTHALON FOR THIRD STRAIGHT YEAR

Howard Berry Stars in First Day of Annual Penn Relays.

Philadelphia, April 28.—For the third consecutive times Howard Berry, of the University of Pennsylvania took first place in the penthalon of the annual Penn relays, being held here yesterday and today. He won the running broad jump, the javelin throw, the 200 and 1,500 metres runs in handy fashion, and took third place in the javelin throw. Berry is a football star, baseball player and a member of the national guard.

Berry scored seven points. B. Jones, of Pennsylvania state, was second with fifteen points. The scores made by the other five men in the competition were: A. Dambly, Pennsylvania state, 17; H. Hoot, Swarthmore college, 20; W. Creighton, University of Pennsylvania, 24; C. Ganzel, Bucknell, 26; W. McCarthy, Lehigh, 30.

In winning the 200-metre race Berry made faster time than he did in 1916, and Dambly broke the pentathlon record in capturing the discus throw. Chicago had a walkover in the American championship distance medley relay race, her team running away from Pennsylvania, the only other entrant.

The American championship sprint medley relay race was won by Pennsylvania, Chicago university pushing the Pennsylvanians all the way.

War conditions had some effect on the meet, several of the larger universities, usually represented, scratching their entries.

The performances, with few exceptions, were only fair. The 440 yards hurdle race, which usually attracts many good performers, had but three entries. It was won by F. G. Smart, of Northwestern university. One of his opponents was Meanix, the fast Harvard man, who led Smart until the stretch was reached.

In winning the running hop, step and jump, W. B. Overbee, of Illinois, an added entry, made a new collegiate record of 45 feet 4½ inches. The former record was 4 5feet 6½ inches, made by Carter, of Illinois, last year.

Real competition will take place today, the big day of the meet, when the one, two and four-mile college relay championships will be decided. The pick of the country is also expected to appear in some of the field events.

LAST GAME OF SERIES TO BE PLAYED SUNDAY

Insurance Men to Oppose Chiefs in Final of Three Contests.

Sunday afternoon the Lincoln Life club and Vandy's Chiefs will cross bats in the final game of a three-way series. That this will be the best of the games is undoubted and a large crowd is expected to witness the final work of the leaguers here before the opening of the season.

For the Lincoln Lifes Bobby Smith and Lefty Grimes have been picked as mound toilers. They are a pair of the classiest performers in the semi-pro game ever seen around here, and will in all probability make the Fort Wayne club work to get anything at all.

Vandy will have his very best performers lined up for action against Mart Cleary's outfit. Some of the fastest additions to the staff will be seen in action as well as the players who have been toiling here for a pair of weeks.

Sign New Pitcher.

One more addition has been made to the club, Pitcher Higbe, of Portland, Ore., in the Pacific Coast league, having closed with the local bosses. Higbe has a record in the Three-I which leads baseball men of the city to believe that he will perform in real style.

An announcement from President Dickerson gives out the official statement that the league will start Thursday with the following clubs and managers: Evansville, Punch Knoll; Grand Rapids, Bill Essick; South Bend, Harry Smith. Muskegon, Jimmy Hamilton; Richmond, Bade Meyers; Springfield, Joe Dunn; Dayton, Johnny Nee, and Fort Wayne, Carl Vandagrift.

CENTRAL LEAGUE UMPS STAFF.

SHOWN ABOVE ARE THE LIKENESSES OF THE CENTRAL LEAGUE UMPIRING STAFF. ONE OF THEM WILL APPEAR IN EACH GAME HERE DURING THE YEAR, AND IN ORDER TO KNOW AT WHOM THEY ARE CHUCKING CUSHIONS, FANS MIGHT DO WELL TO STUDY THE FACES.

Speaking of Sport Lurid Larry Says:

Now that the name of Chiefs has been given the Fort Wayne baseball club, we don't have to spend so much time thinking of something to call them. This is lucky because most of the things we thought of couldn't be used in the paper, but still the season hasn't opened yet.

If Les Darcy shows as much persistence in the ring as he has trying to get bouts he should be a real bearcat.

Old Col. Alibi is back on the job. Fred Fulton now says he was framed.

It takes an old-timer to remember when Jay Gould wasn't national court tennis champion.

Sid Hatch has run in another Marathon. Sid will still be running when Willie Hoppe has retired.

HONEST, I WASN'T GONNA PLAY GOLF! I'M JUST COMING HOME FROM A MASQUERADE PARTY!
WHOA BOY! GOLF ON TH' SABBATH EH? — YOU'LL PROBABLY SWING FOR THIS!
SHH BOYS! STEADY! WE GOT 'EM WITH TH' GOODS- CAUGHT RED HANDED ON TH' SABBATH PLAYING CHECKERS!
AH! HAH! MARBLES ON SUNDAY! WITH THIS ARREST I SEE WHERE I'LL BE ON TH' ROLL OF HONOR NEXT MONTH!

If you go in for a thing, go in for it strong.

That's the way the state solons of North Carolina feel about it anyway, and to polish off the edges of their blue laws which were born with state-wide prohibition several years ago, Sunday golf is to be put under the ban.

The old days of cock fightin' and hoss racin' have passed from North Carolina. Pokah, sah, that regal game of gentle'men, is frowned upon with a frown that Cotton Mather might envy, and now Sunday golf is to get the hooks.

North Carolina has not yet decided to make playing checkers or dominoes on Sunday illegal or to "pinch" the kids when they shoot marbles on the Sabbath, but it may come—who knows.

RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

(By A. Spangle, of Fort Wayne.)

By what figure does the Bible represent death?

"But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorry not, even as others which have no hope."

1 Thess. iv:13. See also 1 Cor. xv:18, 20; John xi:11-14.

Note.—In sound sleep one is wholly lost to consciousness; time goes by unmeasured; and the mental functions which are active during consciousness are suspended for the time being.

Where do the dead sleep?

"And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake." Dan. xii:2. See also Eccl. iii:20; 9-10.

How long will they sleep there?

"So man lieth down, and riseth not: till the heavens be no more, they shall not awake, nor be raised out of their sleep." Job xiv:12.

For what did Job say he would wait after death?

"If a man die, shall he live again? all the days of my appointed time will I wait, till my change come." Verse 14.

Where did he say he would wait?

"If I wait, the grave is mine house: I have made my bed in the darkness." Job. xvii:13.

While in this condition, how much does he know about those he left behind?

"His sons come to honor, and he knoweth it not; and they are brought low, but he perceiveth it not of them." Job. xiv:21.

What becomes of man's thoughts at death?

Do the dead know anything?

"For the living know that they shall die: but the dead know not anything, neither have they any reward; for the memory of them is forgotten." Eccl. viv:5.

Do they take any part in earthly things?

"Also their love, and their hatred, and their envy, is now perished; neither have they any more a portion forever in anything that is done under the sun." Verse 6.

Note.—If one continues in consciousness after death, he would know of the promotion or dishonor of his sons. But Job says he does not know this. Not only so, but in death one loses all the attributes of mind—love, hatred, envy, etc. Thus it is plain that his thoughts have perished, and that he can have nothing more to do with the things of this world. But if, as taught and held by some, man's powers of thought continue after death, he lives; and if he lives, he must be somewhere. Where is he? Is he in heaven or in hell? If he goes to either place at death, what, then, is the need of a future judgment, or a resurrection, or of the second coming of Christ? If the judgment does not take place at death, but men go to their reward at death, then their rewards precede their awards, and there would arise the possibility that some have at death gone to the wrong place, and must needs be sent to the other, after having been in bliss or torment for ages, perhaps.

What does the psalmist say about the dead praising God?

"The dead praise not the Lord, neither any that go down into silence." Ps. cxv:17.

How much does one know of God when dead?

"For in death there is no remembrance of Thee." Ps. vi:5.

Note.—There is not even a remembrance of God. As already seen, the Bible everywhere represents the dead as alseep. If they were in heaven or in hell, would it be befitting to represent them thus? Was Lazarus, whom Jesus loved, in heaven when the Savior said, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth?" John xi:11. If so, calling him to life The parable of the rich man and Lazarus, recorded in Luke xvi., was given to teach, not consciousness in death, but that in the judgment riches will avail nothing unless rightly and beneficently used, and that poverty will not keep one out of heaven. But are not the righteous dead in heaven?

"For David is not ascended into the heavens." Acts ii:34.

Where is he?

"Men and brethren, let me freely speak unto you of the patriarch, David, that he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre is with us unto this day." Verse 29.

What must take place before the dead can praise God?

"Thy dead men shall live, together with My dead body shall they arise. Awake and sing, ye that dwell in dust: for thy dew was as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast out the dead." Isa. xxvi:19.

When did David say he would be satisfied?

"As for me, I will behold Thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake with Thy likeness." Ps. xvii:15.

Were there to be no resurrection of the dead, what would be the condition of those fallen asleep in Christ?

"For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised: and if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." I Cor. xv:16-18.

When is the resurrection of the righteous to take place?

"For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the Archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first." Thess. iv:16.

Notes:—If, as stated in Eccl. xiv:5, the dead know not anything, then they have no knowledge of the lapse of time. "Six thousand years in the grave to a dead man is no more than a wink of the eye to the living." To them, consciousness, our only means of measuring time, is gone; and it will seem to them when they awake that absolutely no time has elapsed. And herein lies a most comforting thought in the Bible doctrine of the sleep of the dead, that in death there is no consciousness of the passing of time. To those who sleep in Jesus, their sleep, whether long or short, whether one year, one thousand years, or six thousand years, will be but as if the moment of sad parting were followed instantly by the glad reunion in the presence of Jesus at His glorious appearing and the resurrection of the just.

It ought to be a comforting thought to those whose lives have been filled with anxiety and grief for deceased loved ones who persisted in sin, to know that they are not suffering in torments, but, with all the rest of the dead, are quietly sleeping in their graves. Job. iii:17.

Again it would mar the felicity of one's enjoyment in heaven could he look upon earth and see his friends and relatives suffering from persecution, want, cold, or hunger, or sorrowing for the dead. God's way is best—that all sentient life, animation, activity, thought and consciousness should cease at death, and that all should wait 'till the resurrection for their future life and eternal reward. See Heb. xi:39, 40.

Sleep on, beloved! sleep, take thy rest;
Lay down thy head upon thy Savior's breast.
We love well, but Jesus loves thee best—
Good night.

BEER OR BREAD?

For weeks past the country has been agitated from one border to the other on the question of food distribution and food prices. The high cost of living is making itself almost prohibitive. The liquor traffic is responsible. It is a raid on the American pantry. All the elements that enter into food prices are deleteriously affected by the liquor trade. Take, for example, raw material. Alcohol cannot be made except by destroying carbohydrate foods, such as sugar and starch, and while sugar is mounting to 15 cents a pound the liquor traffic is consuming each year enough sugar to supply the entire country for thirty days. We are taking sugar from the mouths of babies to enrich the brewers. A vast amount of labor is wasted in producing, transporting and distributing alcoholic beverages. It is estimated that the muscular man-power expended, not in making, but merely in handling, the output of the liquor factories is sufficient to set up and pull down the great pyramid of Egypt nine times a year, although it took 100,000 men a generation to build it.

The papers have been reciting in flaming headlines the stories of food riots in New York because of a car shortage, but the liquor trade uses the equivalent of three thousand trains of 200 tons each year. It wastes millions of cubic feet of space in our export and import shipping; crowds our docks; fills our freight cars, crowding out of them articles of food. The labor efficiency-loss each year to America because of drink is equivalent to the entire nation standing idle for thirty days.

In these times of high taxes and high prices every dollar wasted buys misery for large parts of our population, and all this is saying nothing of the vice, crime, disease, sorrow, and pain resulting from the drink traffic.

The question is, "Shall American women and children be underfed that American men may be full beered?"

THE RESURRECTION

(By Bishop Stevens.)

When we see the sun set, we know that it will rise again, and so when we see the forms of our friends borne to the voiceless dwelling of the tomb, we know that they also shall rise again. Every night of Death is followed by a Resurrection morning. How precious is the truth that God's people shall rise from the dead! How rise? With glorified bodies upon which the second death can have no power. Rise by what power? By the mighty power of God. Rise when? When the Lord shall be revealed from heaven with all His mighty angels, then shall they be caught up to meet Him in the air. Rise to what? To glory, honor and immortality in the presence chamber of God. How these thoughts light up with brightness the sepulchre of the righteous! How the doctrine of the resurrection throws a halo over every Christian headstone, and makes each open grave a little postern gate leading unto glory!

Have you lost a father, mother, child, lover, and were they Christ's before they died? Then lift up your heads, wipe away your tears, cheer up your hearts for they shall come forth again before your face. This sunset, though it left you in gloom and midnight sorrow, will soon be followed by the dawn of the resurrection day, and when the archangel's trump shall awaken the myriads who slumber in earth's bosom, your loved ones who sunk to rest in Jesus will rise again to meet and glorify their Lord. When the resurrection dawns, it will usher in a day that has no clouds, a day that has no sunset, a day that is followed by no night of sorrow or of death.

WHO AM I?

(Author Unknown.)

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world.

I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the world.

I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of siege guns.

I steal in the United States alone over $300,000,000 each year.

I spare no one, and find my victims among the rich and poor alike; the young and the old, the strong and the weak; widows and orphans know me.

I loom up to such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of the grindstone to the moving of every train.

I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage-earners in a year.

I lurk in unseen places and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you heed not.

I am relentless. I am everywhere; in the home, on the street, in the factory, at railroad crossings and on the sea.

I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me.

I destroy, crush or maim; I give nothing, but take all.

I am your worst enemy.

I am carelessness.

GOD WILL LISTEN

(By Rev. Frederick F. Shannon.)

Henry Drummond was fond of repeating this story of a little child. She said to her father: "Papa, I want you to say something to God for me, something I want to tell Him very much. I have such a little voice that I don't think he could hear it away up in heaven. But you have a big man's voice, and He will be sure to hear you." Taking the child in his arms the father told her that, though God were at that moment surrounded by His holy angels singing to Him one of the grandest, sweetest songs of praise ever heard in heaven, he was sure that God would say to them: "Hush! There's a little girl away down on earth who wants to whisper something in my ear." Was he not a wise father? Was he not a Christian father? Did he not have the genius of making religion real to that realest of all mortals, the child?

THE BIBLE IN THE HOME.

(By Rev. John Timothy Stone, D. D.)

The test of the nations is their loyalty to God's Word. The nations which have honored God's Word, and which are honoring God's Word, are the nations which have his blessing.

The state will never be guided into ways of constructive peace and permanent development through society's aim and desire to better mankind. Reform movements, no matter how strong and efficient they may be, can never reform the state or the nation until that reform begins at the fireside. There is no chance for men to do, in their interests and desires for others, what God has said the father and the mother, the husband and the wife, the brother and the sister, must do. The Bible is the one great power which God has given to us, to instruct us how to lead our children and build our homes aright; and without the Word of God there is no dictionary to give to us the words and comprehension which constitute the vocabulary of the literature of Christianity; there is no other book which gives to us a relationship to the great natural world in which we live, a knowledge of individual life that we may relate our lives to the individual life aright, and a constructive, earnest purpose to follow the principles which are incarnate in Christ's teachings.

What the Bible wants is a chance to speak for itself. What God's Word wants is a chance to show us our littleness, and the goodness of God. The trouble is we talk too much about what other people have to say about the Word of God, and do not take time enough ourselves, as Christian workers and leaders, to let the Word of God talk to us. We go to a newsstand and buy a recent novel. Why do we do it? We say, "I am tired, and I need the recreation of this novel." What do we do? We read it through, frequently at a sitting, and there may be three hundred and fifty pages in it. We say, "I cannot give but this afternoon to it;" and we read it through. How many books of God's do we, as Christian workers, read through at a sitting?

He Was in Earnest

(Onward.)

Here is an illustration of patriotic enthusiasm, told recently in a sermon by Doctor Jowett: A young Englishman, desiring to fight for his country, presented himself at the recruiting office, and was passed over to the surgeon for examination.

The report was unfavorable. It stated in substance: First, this man has very bad teeth, which are sure to give him trouble in campaign life; in the second place, he has two defective toes, which would prevent his enduring long marches; and, third, he needs to go to a hospital for an operation, otherwise he could not endure the hardships of a soldier.

The raw recruit turned away quietly and said nothing. Three months later he presented himself at the same office and was again sent to the surgeon, to whom he said: "Sir, I have had my teeth repaired. I will have no trouble from that source. I have had my two defective toes amputated, and can now make long marches. I went to the hospital, endured the operation, and have come out in good shape, and I believe that I am ready to serve my country." After a thorough examination the surgeon opened the door, called in a superior officer, and said "Behold a man ready to serve his country!"

How It Worked Out

(Ladies' Home Journal.)

If a husband and wife are addicted to drinking alcohol, are the children necessarily affected, is an oft-mooted question. Recently, some experiments were made to see how the theory actually worked out, and here are the results:

Four died from general weakness.
Three died of convulsions before one month old.
Four were feeble-minded.
One was a dwarf.
One was an epileptic.
Seven were normal.

Now for the other side of the picture: Ten families were taken in the same station of life. There were 62 children. Neither father nor mother drank alcoholic liquors.

Three children died from general weakness.
Three from intestinal troubles.
Two from nervous affections.
Two were feeble-minded.
Two were malformed.
Fifty were normal.

Human anger resents the hurt, divine anger resents the wrong. Human anger is wounded in its pride, divine anger is wounded in its heart. Human anger laments the injury to self, divine anger laments the injury to God. Human anger cries out for revenge, divine anger cries out for atonement.—George Matheson.

The olive tre is more closely associated with the history and civilization of man than any other. It is the earliest mentioned by name; when the waters of the flood began to retire (Genesis viii, 11). It is the most prominent tree in the earliest allegory (Judges ix, 8, 9). With David it is the emblem of prosperity and the divine blessing (Psalms lii, 8; cxxviii, 3).

Tennis is as old as the hills, basically speaking, though it has undergone many changes for the better. It was played by the Greeks and Romans under the names of "sphairisis" and "pila." As "paume" it is mentioned in the Arthurian romances and in the earlier records of the dark ages. In the fifteenth century it enjoyed great favor in France, and in England from the sixteenth century to the present time.

Making Others Glad

(By James M. Farrar, D. D.)

In an humble log cabin of Indiana, Lincoln's mother was dying. She called her son, then 9 years old, to her side. In a voice weak, but full of love, she said: "I am going to leave you, Abe—and, oh, how hard it is to part with you! How beautiful it is outdoors! It is beautiful wherever God is. I learned to love Him at the old campmeeting house, and I want you to learn to love Him."

The mother was making a plea for Christ in her child's heart. She gave him the following rules by which he could keep Christ in his heart and life. "I am thankful God gave you to us. Love everybody. Hinder nobody, never lie, never drink, and the world will be glad some day that you were born."

The father, standing in the cabin doorway, said: "But he can't sing like you, Nancy."

"The heart sings in many ways," she replied; "some hearts make other hearts sing."

Did Lincoln ever make other hearts sing? As our seventeenth president of the United States, he freed 3,895,172 slaves. They sang the song of freedom, and the world joined in the chorus.

MINISTRY OF TEARS

(By Joseph Parker, D. D.)

Look unto Jesus even through your tears. Tears are telescopes. I have seen further through my tears than I ever saw through my smiles. Laughter has done little for me; but sorrow and a riven heart have expounded many passages in the inspired volume that before were hard, enigmatical reading. Blessed be God, we can see Jesus through our tears. He knows what tears are. Jesus wept! The eyes that John saw as a flame of fire, the Jews saw at the grave of Lazarus as fountains of water. "And, coming near to the city, when He beheld it, He wept over it." No man can ever fathom the depth of that river, or tell the bitterness of that sorrow. You have tears. Every man amongst us has his tearful times. But we use our tears wrongfully if we do not lift our eyes and look through them to Jesus in the heavens!

Just a Chinaman

The story is told of a Chinaman in this country who applied for a position as house servant in a family which belonged to a fashionable church. He was asked:

"Do you drink whisky?"

"No, I Chlistian man."

"Do you play cards?"

"No, I Chlistian man."

He was engaged and proved a capable servant. By and by the lady gave a bridge party, with wine accompaniments. The Chinaman did his part acceptably, but next morning he appeared before his mistress.

"I want quit," he said.

"Why? What is the matter?"

"I Chlistian man. I told you so before; no heathen; no workee for Melican heathen."

I freely admit salvation is worth working for; it is worth a man's going round the world on his hands and knees, climbing its mountains, crossing its valleys, swimming its rivers, going through all manner of hardship in order to attain it. But we do not get it that way. Paul went through all the trials and hardships he had to endure, because by the grace of God resting on him he was enabled to do so. There is no merit in taking a gift. If a beggar comes to my house and asks for bread to eat, and I give him a loaf of bread, there is no merit in his taking the bread. So if you experience the favor of God, you have to take it as a beggar.—D. L. Moody.

YOUR HEALTH, ETC.

Flat Foor and Its Cure.

Flat foot is probably the most common foot defect. It is caused by improper shoes, rapid increase in weight, prolonged illness, change in occupations requiring long standing or accident resulting in the crushing of some part of the foot.

Usually the first symptom of flat foot is a sense of discomfort after long standing or walking. This condition is due to the giving away of the muscles and ligaments which support the arch of the foot. The pain gradually becomes more severe and continues for a longer period of time.

Later the foot appears to be rolling inward and a characteristic gait develops, the foot being thrown outward in walking. The arch appears to be congested and the feet sweat a great deal.

The pains in the feet are often taken for rheumatism. Remedies which usually bring relief in rheumatic conditions are of no avail.

Exercise helps strengthen the weakened muscles. Some simple forms that are beneficial are as follows:

Walk with the front of the foot thrown out strongly.

Sit on the edge of a chair, cross the feet and then rest on the outer edge of the feet, alternately partially rise and sit.

Curl the toes over the round of a chair and attempt to drag it after it has been loaded with weights.

Rise on the toes a certain number of times every night and morning.

Bathe the feet alternately in hot and cold water to improve the circulation and render tone to the muscles.

In more severe cases it is necessary first to relieve the acute pain and aches by arch supports and the like. These arch supports should be properly fitted to the foot. In still more severe cases the application of plaster for a time or an operation may be necessary.

Importance of Good Teeth.

Good teeth are put above other physical qualifications in accepting men for the United States army.

A man may have corns and calluses on his feet and other defects and yet under certain circumstances be accepted, but if he has bad teeth it means rejection.

Uncle Sam figures a man with poor teeth cannot chew his food properly; this means his digestion will be impaired and is an absolute disqualification for enduring the hardships of life in the trenches.

The care of the teeth must begin in childhood. Upon the proper care of the teeth depends in large part the nutrition of the growing child, his susceptibility to disease and his general health through life.

Neglect of the first teeth leads to early decay and loss of teeth, with a shrinkage and abnormal growth of the jaws which force the oncoming teeth out of their natural position.

Stomach disorders of childhood are often caused by bad teeth. The mouth is one of the important organs of digestion. Proper chewing of food is necessary for good digestion. A child with decayed, painful teeth will bolt his food, and will be stunted in his growth.

Decayed teeth also give off poisons, which are taken into the body. Almost always associated with bad mouth conditions in children are diseases of the tonsils and eye and ear inflammation.

Heart disease and joint inflammation are often traced to decayed teeth. A child's general health may be so disturbed by decayed teeth that it soon becomes a fit subject for tuberculosis.

From the time of the appearance of the first tooth there should be a daily brushing of teeth and gums and thorough rinsing of the mouth. Parents should realize the great importance of conserving a child's first teeth and of correcting any mouth defects. A careful dentist should look over a child's teeth twice a year. If decay is present filling should be made and other defects corrected.

PEACE TRIUMPHANT

(Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon.)

Have you noticed how magnificently peace winneth its reprisals at the hands of war? Look through this country. Methinks if the angel of peace should go with us, as we journey through it, and stop at the various ancient towns, where there are dismantled castles, and high mounds from where every vestige of a building has long been swept, the angel would look us in the face and say, "I have done all this: war scattered my peaceful subjects, burned down my cottages, ravaged my temples and laid my mansions with the dust. But I have attacked war in his own strongholds and I have routed him. Walk through his halls. Can you hear now the tramp of the warrior? Where now the sound of the clarion and the drum?" The sheep is feeding from the cannon's mouth, and the bird builds his nest where once the warrior did hang his helmet. As rare curiosities we dig up the swords and spears of our forefathers, and little do we reck that in this we are doing tribute to peace. For peace is the conqueror. It hath been a long duel and much blood hath been shed; but peace hath been the victor. War, after all, has but spasmodic triumphs; and again it sinks—it dies; but peace ever reigneth. If she be driven from one part of the earth, yet she dwelleth in another; and while war, with busy hand, is piling up here a wall, and there a rampart, and there a tower, peace—with her gentle finger, is covering o'er the castle with the moss and the ivy and casting the stone fro mthe top, and letting it lie level with the earth.

The vessel which is hallowed so as to be usable by Him, that is the vessel unto honor. Its capacity may be large or small. Its workmanship may be homely or elaborately magnificent. It may be a casket for celestial gems; it may be a censer for spiritual incense; it may be a box of holy oil, very precious; it may be the golden vase fit to be the basin of a glorious fountain; it may be the plain silver cup of cold water, to be carried to some solitary disciple. He may use it in the presence of the multitude. He may use it all alone, altogether for His own hand and eyes, in the shadows of His own innermost chamber. But it is ready to the Master's hand? Is it ready for His use? Is it hallowed to His ends? Then it is a vessel unto honor.—H. C. G. Moule.

SALOON SOCIETY'S FOE.

(Christian Workers' Magazine.)

Lloyd George, premier of England, paints the following word picture: "This is our ideal—a land where you meet no drunkard staggering on the road toward his doom, a land where you have no slums for humanity to rot in, a land where you have two-thirds of its prison cells empty, a land with its work-houses vanished, a land with its children well fed, well clothed, well sheltered, well trained, with their merry laughter ringing through the streets, a land where the curse of drink shall be driven from hearths."

A beautiful picture, indeed. Who would not labor for its realization? Nevertheless over it may be written, "one thing thou lackest." The water-wagon looms large in this ideal picture but the river of the water of life cannot be seen. Statesmen and idealists may not miss this, but spirtually intelligent Christians will.

The saloon is the foe of society, while the true church is the friend of society. The saloon has a downward pull, the church an upward pull. The saloon, like all other forms of evil, is in alliance with the kingdom of darkness. The church is in alliance with the kingdom of God. How shall the friend of society overcome the foe of society? By political expedients, social welfare and moral reform? Not primarily nor principally. Men are not brought into the kingdom of God by community uplift but by individual regeneration. Born from above, they will become community uplifters of the right type. The new life received through personal faith in the Son of God becomes the source and center of a body of moral convictions out of which leaders and uplifters are developed. A town in eastern Pennsylvania, with a population of 20,000 people, has in one ward fifty-three licensed saloons. When the time for renewal of these licenses came a protest was made to the court against them. Fearing that the court might consider the protest and refuse the renewals the town council (the city fathers?) passed a resolution asking the court to grant all of these fifty-three renewals on the ground that the town needed the $8,000 revenue! So true is it that unless a man (or men) be born again he cannot see. Consequently $8,000 looked larger than eight thousand lives. Revenue was regarded as of larger importance than righteousness. True vision leads to intelligent supervision even in the affairs of a city.

REVERENCE FOR OLD AGE.

(Watchman-Examiner.)

Jacob was a fugitive from famine. He was an object of charity. Although his son was prime minister, Jacob and all his household were really dependent on the kindness of Pharoah for a place to live and food to eat. A great contrast was Pharoah. The despotic ruler of the mightiest nation in the world of his day, he, if any one, was independent of the favor of others. He set up, and he cast down; and all were dependent on his personal will and whim. But "Jacob blessed Pharoah." How absurd! What insolence to assume that the blessing or good will of one who was for the time being a beggar could be of the smallest consequence to a great and all-powerful king of the foremost nation of the earth! But "Jacob blessed Pharoah," and his son Joseph, the prime minister, who corrected his father when he thought he had made a mistake in putting his right hand in blessing on the head of Manasseh, the first-born, had not a word to say in reproof of Jacob for his presumption. Even Pharoah, the great king, said nothing, and we are left to infer that he thought it was quite the proper thing for Jacob to do, and even that he was pleased with Jacob's blessing. If Joseph had been an American young man, he would have been shocked at the presumption of his father, and would have hurried him out of court in shame at his audacity. If Pharoah had been ruler of a modern nation he would have indignantly sent Jacob back to Canaan to perish of famine for assuming to think his blessing would be of any value. If Jacob had been a modern old man he would have known better than to assert himself in such a manner in the presence of those who were younger and higher in official station than himself. The difference between ancient Egypt and modern America is that the Egyptians, from king to peasant, had a reverence for old age and were glad of the blessing of a good old man, and considered it an honor to receive it.

A PRIME VIRTUE.

(Selected.)

This virtue is Fidelity. It is working yourself, whatever your limitations, for all you are worth, in Christ's name and by his strength. You may have ten talents or only one. Harness them into service, be they few or many. God expects us to use only the gifts, graces, opportunities we have. In the divine economy, duties are assigned to men according to their several ability. When God commanded Moses to undertake a great task, he permitted him to use the rod he was then holding in his hand, and with that rod Moses wrought wonders by divine help. God is asking you today:

"What is that in thine hand?"

Whatever it is, God wants it to work miracles in human hearts and lives. Can you speak? Can you write? Can you tell a story? Can you sing? Can you keep house? Can you play a musical instrument? Can you make money? God wants your service. He is entitled to it. He can use it and you. Will you not let him?

Without aping anybody, without envying anybody, without grumbling over your adverse lot, without discontent because God did not make you a genius, use faithfully the equipment he has given you and he will bless your effort. Just be faithful! Faithful to God to whom you owe all you have and are. Faithful to your fellowmen who need your help. Faithful to yourself, for by unselfish service your own life will be enriched. We are not commanded to be brilliant, but we are commanded to be faithful. We are not commanded to be great orators, or great singers, or great captains of industry, but we are commanded to be faithful. Faithful in the use of time, talent, money, whatever we have. "As every man hath received the gift, so minister the same one to another, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God." (I. Peter 4:10).

Three times I have crossed the Atlantic ocean, and each time have been interested in looking into the engine room of the great steamer and peering down into the deep hold, where men, black and grimy with coal dust, keep the great furnaces filled with fuel. Suppose one of these stokers, with a shovelful of coal poised ready to throw into the furnace, talking thus with himself: "Will this shovelful of coal drive the ship across the ocean? No! Will it keep the ship going one mile? No! But there are other stokers and more coal. I'm not the captain of this ship, but I'm the commodore of this shovel. This ship may go into port or go to the bottom, but my duty is the same in either case. The captain may see to his ship and to the rest of his crew, but let him know that he has one stoker who will shovel until the bell rings him off his shift."

"Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown for life." (Rev. 2:10).

(By William Jennings Bryan.)

It is pleasant for me to believe in a resurrection. I have no more doubt that I shall live again than I have that I live today. I have no more doubt that I shall in another world meet those whom I have loved than I have that I have known them here. I do not know just what kind of a body I am going to have—and I do not care. I have had seven already, according to the scientists. The scientists say that the body changes every seven years—if that is true, I now have my eighth. I had a baby's body, and then a boy's; then I had a young man's body, and then I changed again and again and again. I do not know what kind of a body God is going to give me in the next world, but I can trust Him, and I waste no time speculating. He can give me any of the bodies I have had if He wants to, and I will do the best I can to use it; but I know that He will give me the kind of a body I need. There is an invisible something in a grain of wheat that can discard the body that we see, and from earth and air build a new body, so much like the old one that we cannot tell the one from the other, and I know that, if that invisible something in that grain of wheat can pass unimpaired through thousands of resurrections, my spirit can clothe itself with a body suited to its new existence when this frame of mine shall crumble into dust.

INESTIMABLE SERVICE.

"William Carey, the converted cobbler, who translated the Bible into languages spoken by three hundred millions of Orientals; David Brainerd, who consecrated his talents to carry civilization and Christianity to the savages of the wilderness; Henry Martyn, the brilliant Cambridge scholar, making by his translations the scriptures, in whole or in part, accessible to one-fourth the inhabitants of the globe; not only this, but literally spending himself in Christian labors among the poor in India, until, exhausted by fatigue and wasted by disease he sank in death at the early age of thirty-two; Robert Morrison in China writing a grammar of the language and translating the Bible into the dialects, waiting undiscouraged seven years before being permitted to rejoice in his first convert; Chalmers in New Guinea; Paton in the South Sea Islands; Livingstone, in Christ-like passion, seeking the salvation of the Africans, forgetting that they were black and remembering only that they were fellow-mortals; and those more recent men, the Butlers, the Parkers, and the Thoburns of India; Griffith John, Timothy Richard, James W. Bashford, and Wilson S. Lewis, of China—these men, inspired by the love and the heroism of the cross, have risen to the highest types of Christian character. They rank among the moral altruists of history, great in faith, great in hope, great in action, because their own souls were filled with Christ's vision of humanity. Their service can never be fully portrayed."

BUY AN AVACADO—THEY ONLY COST A DOLLAR EACH—HIGHBROW FRUIT.

Speaking of the high cost of living, Leila Joslyn is here shown exhibiting a twenty-three-ounce avacado. This avacado grew on the treet of C. F. Wagner, of Hollwood, Cal. It has 200 brothers exactly like it clinging to the limbs of the family tree in the owner's back yard.

Each of these avacados is worth a dollar apiece—$200 for the crop. Let's raise avacados. If one tree will yield $200, think of what 200 trees will produce. So C. F. Wagner is not worrying about the high cos tof living, for in a few years more he will have an avacado orchard in full bearing. But everybody can't raise avacados. The climate and soil have to be right. It is a subtropical fruit. Cold weather, for instance, prevents the avacado from maturing.

MADE BIG CHANGE IN FORT WAYNE MAN

After suffering with Rheumatism and Constipation, and his doctor failed to give him relief, he was then advised to take Miller's Herb Remedy. Mr. Fred C. Ulmer, an old-time citizen who resides at 1128 Wabash avenue, and is an employe of the Bowser Oil Tank works, says: "I endured the pains and suffering from Rheumatism a long time; the longer I took the doctor's medicine the worst I got. Constipation was also part of my trouble. I used two bottles of Miller's Herb Remedy, and it cured me completely. I used the medicine two years ago, and I had no trouble since. It is the finest remedy for Rheumatism and Constipation I ever was able to get, so I feel justified in recommending this good remedy to others who may be afflicted as I was."

Miller's Herb Remedy is especially good for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Salt-Rheum, Liver and Stomach Trouble, Eczema, Sick Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Dizziness, Chronic Diarrhoea, Swelling of Feet and Limbs, Backache, Kidney Pains, Pain in Side and Ovarian Trouble.

"BIG NINE" FAVORS MICHIGAN'S RETURN

Action Deferred to Next Meeting of Officials, to Be Held June 9.

Chicago, April 28.—Members of the faculty board of the "Big Nine" who will act on the readmission of Michigan to the conference are said to be unanimously in favor of the action.

Officials last night, however, declared no action would be taken until the next meeting of the conference here, June 9. Even if the application is accepted at that time the Wolverines will probably be unable to meet any of the conference schools in football until 1918 unless they take advantage of Northwestern's open date, November 24, as Michigan's 1917 schedule, as well as those of the "big nine" institutions, already is made up.

With Michigan back in the fold the conference combination will be known as the "big ten" instead of the "big nine." There is a remote possibility, some officials said last night, that football schedules might be called off next fall if the war situation becomes serious. Coaches at present are strongly in favor of continuing the sport.

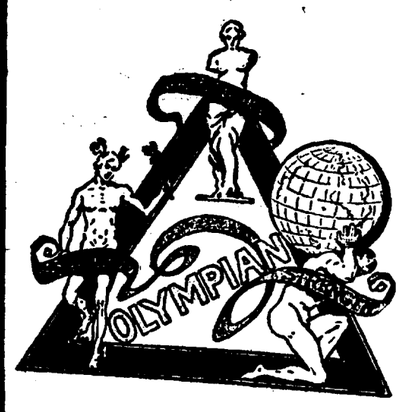
Luxury With Economy

THE OLYMPIAN



The Olympian has a 114-inch wheelbase—a 37 H. P. high-speed motor—32-inch wheels—full-floating rear axle—full cantilever rear springs—complete lighting, starting, lubricating units—and complete equipment.

Is amply fulfilling the highest expectations of its makers and owners. Wherever shown—the attention it has attracted has been remarkable. A few moments' stop of the Olympian on any downtown streets is the signal for the immediate gathering of an admiring crowd.

The beauty of the car is the reason. To even the untrained eye, its handsome lines and perfect harmony of proportions are at once evident. To the experienced motorist, its practical and substantial appointments of luxury to be found heretofore on only the most costly cars, call for immediate attention. Yet the Olympian has not the excessive weight of the big cumbersome car—nor its attendant high cost of upkeep.

Again it has none of the objectionable features of the small car—none of its hard-riding discomforts due to insufficient leg-room and poor springs of the short wheelbase. But it has ONE of the features of the small car—and that is ECONOMY.

QUEST CLUB'S FINAL SESSION ONE OF FUN

President Scheiman and Secretary Fee Are Presented With Gifts.

Members of the Quest club, who met in final session of the season Friday evening at the Anthony hotel, enjoyed one of the most entertaining meetings they have ever attended. Every one of the meetings this season has been one of seriousness and thought, while the one which marked the close was filled with jollity and mirth.

Appearance of His Majesty, the Devil, did not put a damper on the fun, but instead livened up events all the more. E. J. Little impersonated the little red man with horns and at designated times when the lights were extinguished he would make his appearance amidst red lights and the spluttering of live wires. At his initial appearance he stated that all the members had become his subjects by choice.

At the close of the evening President W. H. Scheiman was presented with a handsome loving cup and Secretary Herbert Fee was given a traveling bag. E. F. Yarnelle made the first presentation and C. J. Schoo the other.

Other speakers of the evening were E. W. Puckett and Rev. C. C. Travis. B. J. Griswold, assisted by his wife, gave shadow pictures of various members of the club. They were surprisingly natural and everyone present recognized the one imitated.

PRICE OF BREAD BOOSTED.

New York, April 28.—Beginning next Monday when a twenty per cent. advance in bread prices takes effect, most of the larger restaurants will make a separate charge for bread served with other dishes. Although the wholesale price of beef has remained about stationary, 15 cents was added to the price of a plate of roast beef today in many of the better class eating places.

TO CONTROL EXPLOSIVES.

Washington, April 28.—The administration bill to restrict the sale of explosives has been ordered favorably reported to the house by the mines committee.

American people are spending more for candy every year; according to figures complied recently by the census bureau, they spent over $185,000,000 for factory-made sweets last year, which is an average of about $1.80 for every man, woman and child. Figures recorded sixty-five years ago show that the annual per capita consumption of candy was then about 13 cents.

It was long contended that the story of "Lorna Doone," by Blackmore, had no foundation in fact, but now it is declared that the picturesque region of Exmoor really contained a family of Doones, the originals in romance, if not of disgrace, of the people described in the book.

Test your garden soil for acidity. Procure a dime's worth of blue litmus paper at a drug store. Make a slit or incision in the damp soil, put in paper two-thirds its length and leave it for a half-hour. If the change of color is to red or deep pink your soil needs heavy liming. If there is no change of color liming will be of little value.

A. C. W. NOTES

For Sunday.

Read the announcements for Sunday meetings and plan to bring a friend. Already the young people have realized what our contest means and when it starts they will be going so well that nothing will interfere with victory.

For the Week.

This is the week of business meetings. Confidence in the work in hand and the people you are dealing with is your greatest aid. Successful men show a healthy interest in possibilities, details and results of any proposition.

For the Future.

You are being given an opportunity to find out in actual chart form as to the efficiency of your society. All the societies are anxiously waiting to begin our contest, which starts May 13 and runs only seven Sundays.

Executive Notes.

Miss Covington says the June rally program promises to be fine and we believe it will.

Gerald Waggoner wants the missionary chairman to bear with him and he will never be absent again. He says he is planning to help many of our poor folks this year.

Miss Van Buskirk says the dual party for August will be different, so lets be home during August.

avis is working on a pledge for good citizenship.

Our contest is an assured fact. The program was approved, everyone realizing the excellent features which bring out in black and white the very things most executive committees would like to know.

Special Attention.

Begins Sunday, May 13th.

Only lasts seven Sundays, including June 24th.

The fun will come in the three meetings, May 18th, June 8th and June 29th.

PROSPERITTY EDDITORIUL

As we go to press this week business in Bingville is on the boom, and better times is staring us in the face. The panick from wich Bingville and visinity has suffered is now a thing of the past, thank goodness, and we stand on the thresh hold of a new ery of prosperity. Many signs points to the fackt that Bingville is about to undergo one of the biggest industrial revolusions which has ever took place in our midst. We look forward with hope to the time when the town of Bingville will take her proud place among the biggest metropolisses of this country. Just to show you that Bingville is on the boom insted of on the bum we desire to call your attenshion to how trade has incressed in our midst resently.

Week before last Eph Higgins our ackomodating p. m., sold only 11 2-ct. stamps, 5 1-ct. stamps and a couple of postage cards, whereas last week, he sold 15 2-ct. stamps, 7 1-ct. stamps and either 3 or 4 postage cards—he forgets which. Eph says he is much cheered to have postage sales pick up like this.

Hen Weathersby, prop. of our general store, informs us that he sold more dried herrings, proones, shirting and one monkey rench last week than he has sold during any one week sinst away last fall. Hen refused to give us the total amounts of dollars and cts. of his last weeks sales on the ground that his nabers would be jellus of him to think how rapidly he is ackumulating wealth beyond the fondest dreams of avarice.

Cy Hoskins, one of our most respeckted citizens, states that he knows money is more plentyfuller as he has money to lend and cant get a morgage on anything that will pay him moren 6 percent whereas Cy usually gets 10 or 15 percent.

Not only is trade better, but the signs all pint to a big bilding boom in Bingville soon as spring opens up.

Lem Brown says he has decided to shingle his hen house this spring and treat the fence in front of his house to a new coat of paint. Lem says this fence aint been painted for a long time, in fackt, has never been painted sinct it was bilt.

Lem Wilkins has about decided to repair the foundation under his barn. Lem realizes that if he dont repair this foundation soon, the barn is liable to upset and bust all to pieces.

Seth Dewberry, our heroic town constable, has ordered enough lumber to bild him a new hen house. Seth will bild a hen house which he would like to see any chicken theef get into. He says he believes that the reason he has had so many chickens stole offen him in the past is because he is town constable and it is done to tantalize him.

There is also much other bilding in contemplashion too numerous to menshion, all of which goes to show that Bingville is on the verge of a awful business boom.

Subskribe for the Bugle now and pay in advance while money is plenty.

Lokel Items

New subskribers is very scarce this week as usual.

Subsckribe for the Bugle at once. perviding, of course, you are going to pay for it spot cash in advance—otherwise you aint desired.

The Bingville Bugle cirkulates among the best families in Bingville. After one subskriber reads it he lends it to his nabor who is too much of a tite-wad to subskribe for it. This is a bad thing for us but makes a big circulashion. Advertise in the Bugle.

Deacon Butterworth, one of the stanchest pillers of the Bingville church, is cirkulating a petishion to raise money to buy a new church bell. The old one has been broke for 13 years and is still broke. It is our opinion that Rev. Samuel Moore, our beloved pastor, needs a new pair of pants a good eal worse than the church needs a new bell.

Ezra Underwood while chopping kindlings one morning resently had a kindling to fly up and hit him a crack right accrost the bridge of his nose nearly breaking the bridge. Ezra used langwidge of such a nachure that his wife finally had to come out of the house and speak to him about it.

Jed Peters, our intelligent school teacher, says he is going to go in the book agent business as usual after school is out. Jed has not decided what book he will handle yet but thinks it will be entitled, "From Log Cabin to White House."

Clem Wilson got his feet wet tother day and now he has sutch a cold and is so hoarse that he cant scaircely talk whitch is fortchunate because Clem talks too mutch ennyhow.

Jim Hill walked to Snake Bend and back one day last week and was mud clean up to his shoulder blades when he returned to Bingville. Jim said the road was so sloppy that he calkilates he could of got along better if he had had a row boat.

Doc Livermore, our human speshialist and hoss doctor, has been out in the woods digging sassafras root to make tea outen. Doc sells this sassafras tea at 10 cts. per qt. He says it is a powerful good thing for the blood.

Mrs. Martha Tucker says that she would rather have the Bingville Bugle to spred on her kitchen cupboard shelves than any other newspaper in the Co. Thank you, Martha, this is quite a compliment for the Bugle.

Mel Skinner and Lige Green walked to the Co. seat one day last week on business and pleashure, but Lige says there wasn't no pleashure in it being as as the mud was nearly knee deep and the walking miserable.

Uncle Jed Winslow fell and injured hisself on his 81st birthday last Tuesday spraining his ankle very painful indeed.

Miss Phoebe Hildebrand's cat Samanthy has had a increase of 6 kittens in her family which Phoebe desires to dispose of free gratis for nothing. Here is a golden opportunity for anybody desiring free kittens.

While shoeing Ranse Hillyer's ornery old mule tother day Bill Hepburn, our artistick blacksmith, met with a kick in the stummick which dubbled him up like a summer squash for a few minutes. Soon as Bill could get his bearings he hauled off with his right foot and nearly kicked a hole in the mule. Bill says he'll teach any gosh-dinged mule to kick him.

Mrs. Martha Tucker washed, ironed and baked and cleened all on last Thursday which shows how smart she is, but she says when evg. come she was turible tired and she couldn't hardly set one foot before tother.

Snide Petersby dropped into our orffice resently and asked us if we would be willing to take a cupple of gals of maple syrup at the rate of a dollar per gal. and give him credit on his back subsckripshion to the Bugle for same. We told Snide "Yes" and next day he delivered the syrup. We have seen some purty thin maple syrup in our time but never anything so thin as what Snide brot. It aint much thicker than the sap when it comes from the maple tree and you haft to tast it twict before it begins to taste sweet. It is our opinion that Snide must of made one gal. of maple syrup and by dilooting same with worter made 4 or 5 gals such as he give us.

On the Outs

Hiram Whittleby and Miss Anastasia Snodgrass who have been keeping company for the past 6 years and who everybody thot would be united to each other in the holy bonds of wedlock perhaps at some date in the far distant fuchure are at present on the outs.

Their love has growed cold, as it were, and a distantness has sprung up betwixt them. No longer is there a light burning brightly in the parlor of Anastasia's home on Saturday evgs. from 7 P. M. until sometimes as late as 9 or 10 o'clock. No longer does Hiram dress up in his best bib and tucker and esckort Anastasia to prayer meeting at the Bingville church on Wednesday evg. This is sad, sad, sad.

Of course, it aint none of our business what has caused this love spat betwixt Hiram and Anastasia, but we would like to publish the fackts in the Bugle not only as a matter of news, but because it would give a chanct to their friends to reckonsile them to each other onct more. Confide in us, Hiram and Anastasia—do not blast the hopes of your futchure matrimony by a ridicklus lovers quarrel.

CARE AND MANAGEMENT OF OUR FEATHERED PETS, CANARIES

Among the Birds Kept for Household Pets None is So Common or So Well Known as the Canary—So Simple Are Its Requirements in the Way of Food and Care That It Needs Little Attention, and Because of Its Pleasing Songs and Interesting Habits it is a Universal Favorite—Readily Adaptable to Cage Life, Canaries Display Little of the Fear Shown By Wild Birds in Captivity, and the Ease With Which They May Be Induced to Nest and Rear Young Adds to Their Popularity.

By ALEXANDER WETMORE.

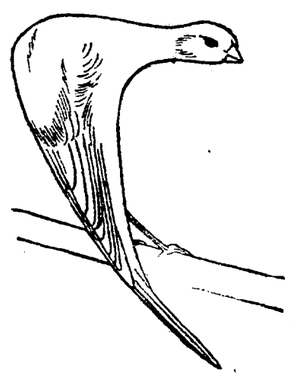
Canaries have been domesticated for several hundred years and, though more common in western Europe and the United States than elsewhere, have been carried over practically the entire civilized world. In England and Germany there are hundreds of canary breeders and many agricultural societies. Several periodicals dealing solely with cage birds are published there, and in the larger cities bird exhibitions are held annually. In the United States there are comparatively few fanciers as yet, so that, though numbers of canaries are reared here, a large part of the stock is secured from abroad. More than three and one-quarter millions of canaries have been brought into the United States during the last 10 years, an average of more than 300,000 birds each year. Most of these have come from Germany, but some are imported from England.

Canaries seem to thrive in any climate where not exposed to too severe weather conditions, and in spite of the long period they have been protected and held in captivity they are capable of enduring a surprising degree of cold when hardened to it. In England it is not unusual to find them in outdoor aviaries throughout the year. They seem able to establish themselves again in a wild state under favorable conditions. In 1909, a brood of domestic canaries was released on Midway Island, a small sandy islet in the Hawaiian group. By 1914 they had increased until it was estimated that they numbered about 1,000.

The actual origin of the canary as a cage bird is as obscure as is the early history of other domesticated animals. It seems probable that captive canaries were first secured from the Canary Islands, a group with which they have long been popularly associated. There are in the Old World, however, two closely allied forms from which the domesticated canary may have come. One of these, the bird now recognized as the "wild canary," is found in the Canary Islands (with the exception of the islands of Fuerteventura and Lanzarote), Madeira, and the Azores. The other form, the serin finch, ranges through southern Europe and northern Africa, extending eastward into Palestine and Asia Minor. In a wild state these two forms are very similar in color and to a novice are hardly distinguishable.

If, as is supposed, the original supply of canaries came from the Canary Islands, it may be considered doubtful that the stock thus secured has furnished the ancestors of all our canaries. The slight differences in color between the serin finch and the canary would probably have passed unnoticed by early ornithologists and bird lovers. With bird catching a widespread practice in middle and southern Europe, the serin would often be made captive and be accepted without question as a canary. In this way serins and wild canaries may have been interbred until all distinguishable differences were lost.

The original canary, whether serin or true wild canary, in its native haunt was much different in color from its modern pure-bred descendant. The back of the wild bird is, in general, gray tinged with olive-green, especially on the rump, with dark shaft streaks on the feathers. Underneath it is yellowish, streaked on sides and flanks with dusky. Wild canaries from the Canary Islands, the Azores, and Madeira differ from the continental serins in being slightly grayer with less of yellowish green in the plumage above. In addition, the rump is duller yellow and the bill is distinctly larger. All of the wild birds have the feet and legs (tarsi) horn brown, the upper half of the bill dark brown or horn color, and the lower half paler.



Scotch Fancy Canary.

Both of the wild varieties inhabit vineyards, thickets, and more open country where bordered by trees. At times during fall and winter great flocks are found together. The birds feed upon various seeds and occasionally eat figs or other small fruits in season. In a wild state they nest early in spring and again later, rearing two broods. The nest, made of plant stems and grasses and lined with hair and plant downs, is placed in bushes or low trees. The eggs are clear green in color, spotted and clouded with deep wine red and reddish brown. From three to five eggs are deposited.

Variation among domesticated canaries began early, as Hernandez, in 1587, speaks of the canary as wholly yellow in color save for the tips of the wings. The various forms have had their origin in distinct geographic areas, and though some are almost extinct at present, all at one time or another have had a devoted following of fanciers. At present at least 14 distinct strains, with a large number of varieties, are known.

The common canary is reared primarily for its song, and from it probably came the roller, or song canary, a great favorite in Germany and more recently, in England. In rearing song canaries attempt is made to produce males with clear, soft, pleasing songs with long rolls or trills, and no attention whatever is paid to other characters. These birds, therefore, are usually nondescript as regards color and appearance, but care is taken in mating to secure males that are good singers and females from good stock. The young birds when fledged are put in rooms with birds noted for their soft song, and here, through imitation, they develop their own vocal powers. Careful watch is kept over them, and any bird developing harsh notes is removed at once to prevent his corrupting the purity of tone in the song of his brothers. A mechanical instrument known as a bird organ, that produces liquid trills, is frequently utilized in training, usually when the adult birds are silent during molt. Ordinarily the room where these birds are kept is darkened, and frequently the cages containing the young birds are screened with cloth to lessen a tendency to objectionable loudness of song. In six months or less their education completed, these songsters may be sold or in their turn utilized in training others still younger. It is common to teach these birds some simple strain or air, through its constant reptition by whistling or by means of an instrument. Well-trained birds bring high prices, and a fair number of these find their way each year into this country.

Wild Canary.

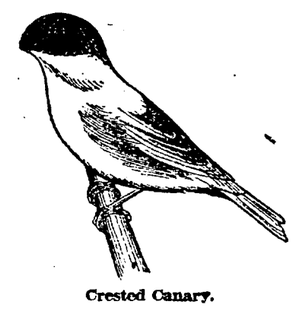
In the great class of exhibition birds perhaps none is more striking than the Belgian canary. Formerly known as the "king of the fancy," it was reared extensively in Belgium, but of late years its popularity has been on the decline. In 1911 it was said that few pure-bred Belgians were to be found, and under present war conditions it may never recover its own. The typical Belgian canary is a large bird with a small head, long, slender neck, large shoulders, and a long, tapering body. It is primarily a bird of "position." When examined it hops up on a perch and throwing its shoulders up brings the head down well below their level. The back and tail form a perpendicular line and the feet are held close together.

Another bird of position is the Scotch fancy canary. This variety resembles the Belgian, but when in position throws the tail in under the perch until its outline in profile is almost a semicircle.

Another well-marked variety is the cinnamon canary, one of the earliest forms to appear, but one whose origin is wholly unknown. Its true color is a dun or dull brown that has been likened to cinnamon. In exhibition birds the color is usually intensified by color feeding. In addition to the body color the cinnamon canary is peculiar in possessing red or pink eyes, a character that denotes cinnamon blood even in a yellow or buff bird. The cinnamon inheritance is transmitted only by the male: young reared from a cinnamon mother and a male of any other form lacking cinnamon blood never shows signs of their cinnamon parentage.



Crested Canary.

Among the old-established varieties that now are in decadence none is more striking than the lizard canary. Lizard canaries are known as gold or silver according as the body color is yellow or silvery gray. The wings and tail are black and the back is spangled with numerous somewhat triangular black spots. The crown in pure-bred birds is unspotted and light in color.

The crested canary is another unusual form, with a long crest extending down around the head below the level of the eyes. The frill or Dutch frill canary is a large bird with long curling feathers. The Lancashire is the largest of known varieties of the canary, standing head and shoulders above all others. These "giant" canaries may be crested or smooth headed. Other forms that may be mentioned are the border fancy, a small bird, and the Norwich, or Norwich plain head, from which come many of the common canaries.

It must not be supposed that the number of varieties of canaries enumerated covers the entire field. For each of the main forms there are almost endless groups or divisions that have been developed on color peculiarities. To obtain pure-bred birds requires constant care and supervision, and with any slackness of method a host of mongrels appear. Interbreeding between the various forms, differing so widely in color, results in reversion to the original type, which was a spotted or striped greenish bird, certain proof of the common origin of all.

That the color of canaries may be deepened or intensified by certain color foods given during the molt is well known and has attracted much interest. Turmeric, marigold flowers, saffron, cochineal, annatto, port wine, mustard seed and other agents rich in natural color are often used for this purpose, but it is doubtful whether they exert any real influence. So far as known all successful color foods have red pepper as a base. For a long time methods of preparing and feeding them were kept secret, but now they are outlined in many manuals on canary keeping.

Lizard Canary.

A standard color food may be prepared as follows: To the ordinary egg food (one hard-boiled egg chopped fine with an equal bulk of bread crumbs or unsalted cracker crumbs) add a teaspoonful of ground sweet red pepper. Mix until the food shows an even reddish tint throughout. Each bird to be experimented upon should receive one small teaspoonful daily. The quantity of pepper is increased gradually, until two heaping teaspoonfuls are used. Addition of a little brown sugar and a few drops of pure olive oil is beneficial, and a small quantity of hot red pepper gives a better flavor. The food should be prepared fresh each day. In mixing, allowance must be made for variation in the size of eggs used. In color feeding some canary breeders increase the proportion of sweet red pepper until four teaspoonfuls are added to the usual quantity of egg food. Half a teaspoonful of this concentrated food is allowed each bird. This method may be used during a short, quick molt.

Care of Feet and Bill.

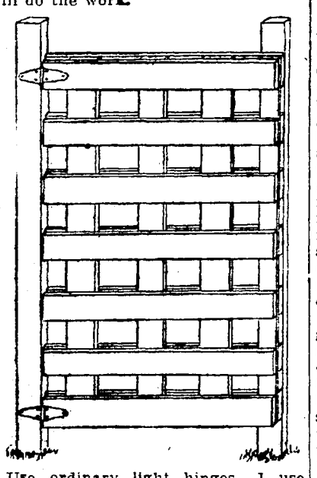
As a canary grows old it will be noticed that its claws get long and catch on the perches and wires as it hops about the cage. In a state of nature the activities of the bird as it moves about on the ground or among twigs and limbs keep the claws properly worn down. Confined in a cage, the canary is less active, and while the rate of growth of the claws remains the same they are subject to much less abrasion. It is necessary, therefore, to trim them with a pair of sharp scissors every few months. It is important to watch the condition of the claws carefully, as by catching they may cause a broken leg. In each claw a slender blood vessel extends well down toward the tip. This may be seen on close examination through the transparent sheath of the claw. In trimming cut well beyond this canal and take special care not to break the leg while handling the bird.

In cage birds the horny covering of the bill, as well as the claws, sometimes becomes distorted through growth without sufficient wear. The tips of the mandibles may be pared down with a sharp knife, but care must be taken not to cut deep enough to reach the quick.

Economical Farm Gate

Take board strips, one inch thick, three inches broad, and the proper length and width you want your gate, nail them across each other, making about three inch cracks.

Then take the same sized and width pieces and double the crosses, nailing securely. A half pound of No. 8 nails will do the work.



Use ordinary light hinges. I use seven cross pieces, and then by doubling these, which is absolutely necessary, you will have to use fourteen, with four pieces length-wise, making a total of eighteen pieces, a cheap and durable and economical gate.

In making the latch use any of several convenient methods.—Burdine Webb.

EROSION.

The farm practices that cause excessive erosion are continuous cultivation, shallow plowing, furrowing with the slopes, leaving the land bare in winter, neglect of gullies and the exhaustion of organic matter. Practices tending to control erosion are systematic rotation containing fewer cultivated crops and more hay and pasture crops, the gradual deepening of soil by occasional deep plowing, the use of barn yard and green manures, winter cover crops such as rye and wheat, and prompt attention to gullies and ditches. Terracing and contour farming are coming into favor as preventive practices as lands increase in value. Tiling poorly drained sloping lands such as spouty hillsides, helps by opening up the subsoil and carrying part of the water off through the tiles.

BEES.

A careful study of the bee and its life and habits and a little effort to adjust one's actions to those of the bees will soon make beekeeping both an interesting and profitable pursuit. Every farmer should produce his own supply of honey by keeping and properly caring for a few stands of bees.

Watch the hotbeds carefully on bright warm mornings. It does not take long for the heat to run up high enough to injure the plants.

YELLOW-FLOWERED ALFALFA NOT READY FOR GENERAL CULTIVATION

Hardy Species Brought From Europe and Asia By U. S. Department of Agriculture Not of Great Value in Present Form Under Cultivation—Will Be Valuable in Plant Breeding, It Is Believed.

After eight years of experimentation with the yellow-flowered alfalfa, known to botanists as Medicago falcata, plant specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture feel that the plant can not yet be recommended for general cultivation. They believe, however, that because of certain desirable characteristics, some strains of the species will be valuable for use in plant breeding and that from hybrids resulting from crossing this yellow-flowered alfalfa with the common alfalfa, hardy types more valuable than any now cultivated should be developed. With this end in view, the Department specialists will continue their experiments.

The yellow-flowered species, which grows wild from the Mediterranean to northern Siberia, was introduced because of the desire of the Department to find strains of alfalfa sufficiently hardy and drought-resistant to grow successfully in the cooler and drier portions of the United States. Most of the specimens introduced have been found to be relatively hardy and drought-resistant. The chief defects which make the species undesirable for general cultivation under present conditions are its failure to recover quickly after mowing, and its poor seeding habits. These characteristics, in most cases, make impossible the cutting of more than one crop of hay and make the harvesting of sufficient seed for planting purposes exceedingly difficult and costly.

In their plant-breeding experiments, the specialists will strive to produce a plant which will embody the good qualities of Medicago falcata but from which its defects have been eliminated.

As far back as mention of Medicago falcata can be traced in the history of agriculture it has almost invariably been referred to directly or indirectly as a noncultivated species. Incidentally it may be inferred from certain references by early writers that the plant was utilized in a very limited way for forage in some localities in Europe, but no hint is given that it was cultivated there for that or any other purpose. No attempt has been made to search the literature for information regarding its early utilization in Asia.

Probably the First Figure of Medicago Falcata Ever Published. It Appeared in Clusius, Historia, 1583 Edition.

The species was at least sufficiently well known to be mentioned in European literature more than three centuries ago, but up to the time of Linnaeus (1750-1790) no botanists or agriculturists apparently had ever recommended its domestication. About 1783 Le Blanc became interested in the plant, which he termed "Yellow Medick," on account of its ability to produce a good growth on poor soil. He conceived the idea of its domestication, but in the course of his investigations his attention was attracted to a hybrid of Medicago sativa and Medicago falcata, to which he gave the name "Variegated Medick." In his opinion, this plant was superior to either the common lucern or the yellow medick, and therefore he discontinued his efforts to domesticate the latter.

The literature of the past century contains many references to the cultivation of Medicago falcata, but outside of limited localities in India, China and southern Russia, where it is reported to be cultivated to some extent, it is not grown under cultivation except for experimental purposes. It is a significant fact that regardless of the relationship of Medicago falcata to common alfalfa, the early recognition of its value, and the numerous attempts to domesticate it, the plant is still an uncultivated species. However, it must be said that it is probably utilized at the present time more than ever before in Europe and Asia, but wholly as a wild plant on the ranges and in pastures. According to Hansen, it is attracting attention as a range plant in European Russia. Meyer is authority for the statement that the Kalmucks and Sarts in Chinese Turkestan gather it, together with other wild plants, as hay for horses and cattle. Nilsson indicates that it is utilized quite abundantly in Sweden as a wild pasture plant on dry, sandy land. It is reasonable to conclude, therefore, that its value has long been recognized in the agriculture of Europe and Asia.

VALUE AND PRESERVATION OF HEN MANURE.

According to the Maine station, the droppings should be collected daily and mixed with substances which will (1) prevent loss of nitrogen, (2) add sufficient potash and phosphoric acid to make a better balanced fertilizer, and (3) improve the mechanical condition of the manure so that it can be applied to the land with a manure spreader.

This can be done as follows: To each thirty pounds of the manure add ten pounds of sawdust, good dried loam, or peat, sixteen pounds of acid phosphate, and eight pounds of kainit. Such a mixture will contain about 1.25 per cent of nitrogen, 4.5 per cent of phosphoric acid, and two per cent of potash, which, used at the rate of two tons per acre would furnish fifty pounds of nitrogen, 185 pounds of phosphoric acid, and eighty pounds of potash, and at the present price of fertilizing ingredients is worth about $10 per ton. The mixture would furnish a well-balanced stable fertilizer, which, although not fine enough to work well in drills, can be successfully applied with a manure spreader. The treated manure should be well sheltered until time to apply to the land—that is shortly before plowing.

MILKING MACHINES.

Men who understand something of machinery and a great deal about cows are in most cases obtaining excellent returns through the use of the milking machine.

FOR SHOT-HOLE BORER.

One gallon of commercial lime sulfur to eight gallons of water as used for the San Jose scale during the dormant season is quite effective. An oil spray as recommended for the scale is also beneficial. Stiff whitewash with a pint of crude carbolic acid added to each 10 gallons, is also used. These washes may be applied as sprays before the buds open, but where it is necessary to repeat the application after the leaves appear they can be applied to the trunk and main limbs with a brush. The best and cheapest remedy is prevention by keeping all trees vigorous.

In the case of apple, pear, and other trees which do not exude gum to any extent, it is a question of judgment whether it will be possible to save trees attacked by this insect. If the infestation is rather severe, it usually indicates that the tree is beyond hope of saving. Individual branches on trees may often show attack by this insect and should be promptly removed and burned to prevent further increase and spread of the borer.

HOME PRESERVED EGGS.

Housewives will often find it advantageous to preserve their own eggs in the home, purchasing them when the supply is abundant and packing them in a solution of water-glass or lime water, or covering them with paraffin or varnish. Such eggs can be kept in good condition for a number of months. For current use fresh eggs usually can be kept satisfactorily for two or three weeks without such treatment, in a refrigerator or dry, cool cellar. If infertile, such eggs may be kept still longer.

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD SEED BED AND CULTIVATION.

The conservation of soil moisture is the most important reason for cultivating crops. The two other principal things accomplished by cultivation are the killing of weeds which draw moisture and plant food from the crops, and the aeration of the soil.

Too much stress can not be laid on the preparation of a good seed bed. A seed bed of fine tilth—made so by deep plowing, careful harrowing, and fining of the soil—is the foundation of good gardening. It is essential for the proper germination and growth of young plants. The soil must be friable and free from clods. A clod can hold no plant food in solution, the only form in which it is available for the plant. Good soil and fine tilth insure an excellent root system to plants. Upon the fine, hairy, fibrous, feeding roots, which are possible only in well-tilled soil, the plant depends for its stockiness and growth. The careful gardener will regard his whole garden as a seed bed and will cultivate and fertilize it accordingly.

KEEPING HONEY.

Many housekeepers do not know the right place in which to store honey and unthinkingly put it in the cellar or a dark, cool place. On the contrary, honey should always be kept in a dry, warm place, even at 100 degrees. If kept in a damp place the "cappings" of the comb become watery and the honey oozes through, but if the comb is kept where the air is warm and dry it will remain in more perfect condition.

MORE WHOLESOME LIVING.

It is the cheerful custom of our times to urge what amounts to improvidence and insist that the liberal spending of our money is for the best, not only for ourselves, but for everybody. Every effort to reduce living expenses is frowned on and considered as a mean and underhanded attack on some industry which ought to be encouraged. If we do not wear gold rings, we are not treating the gold miners right, nor are we giving the jewelers a fair shake in business. How can we expect the jeweler to buy our pork and sauer kraut if we do not buy his gold rings? We are hurried on to make more that we may spend more with others, so that they may spend more, and so on, and so on.

There is no end to this sort of thing, and there is no health in this kind of hectic existence. The principle of making more that we may spend it faster is not a worthy basis for our philosophy.

A little economy would be a wholesome thing for all of us and would help amazingly in the matter of the high cost of living.—Idaho Farmer.

WHAT WE GROW IN THE U. S.

The United States produces, on an average, about three-fourths of the world's corn crop, one-fifth of the wheat crop, one-fourth of the oats crop, one-eighth of the barley crop, one fiftieth of the rye crop, one sixteenth of the potato crop, three-fifths of the cotton crop, one-third of the tobacco crop, one-fourth of the hops crop, and one-tenth of the sugar crop. In rank of production the United States is first for corn, wheat, oats, cotton, tobacco, and hops; second for barley and flaxseed; fourth for sugar, and fifth for rye and potatoes.

HINTS FOR THE HOME GARDENER.

The gardener who merely wishes to raise vegetables for his own family will do well, especially this year, to choose the crops he will grow from those which previously have done best in his special locality. The market gardener must bear this fact in mind, but also must study the market and anticipate its usual demand and determine as far as he can how this demand will be affected by any untoward weather conditions which may have occurred in his section.

Those who desire to produce early crops should bear in mind that a warm, sandy loam will produce an earlier crop than a heavier soil that retains more water and less heat. Frost is less apt to injure vegetables planted on high ground than those planted in low places or valleys into which the heavier cold air commonly settles. The garden should be fairly level, but well drained. The crop will mature more rapidly on land that has a sunny, southern exposure than in other plots.

ANILINE DYE INDUSTRY.

A laboratory for research work in the possibilities of coal tar products is to be established at Johns Hopkins university, with the co-operation of gas companies of Philadelphia and Baltimore. The purpose is to develop the aniline dye industry.

PLOWING.

Plowing is the first operation in the production of all common farm crops; and if not well done it is hardly logical to expect good results, even though the other operations are well performed.

A Choice Flower

Of all plants the most indifferent to all conditions and environments, soil and care, none yields the product that the Iris does, and with high culture it is just that much more satisfactory for the added attention.

The German Iris is in many ways an especially desirable plant. It never fails as a plant for Memorial Day purposes in the northern states, (it blooms much earlier in the southern states), and is a very desirable garden flower or for cutting, as they keep especially well in the hot sun.

For all varieties of Iris, there should be a heavy coat of manure in the fall, the fresher the better. If the soil is very poor apply it several inches thick—if good, give only an inch in thickness. This should be well incorporated with the soil by raking. When the ground is in good shape in spring, spade up and pulverize the soil, making it soft and pliable. For German Iris plant the roots deeply. This also applies to the Japan Iris. Cover the bulbs very lightly.

All the culture they need is to have the soil kept free of weeds and hoed very lightly or raked just so the crust is broken and kept loose. Never allow weeds to get a start in the beds as the Iris cannot resist the encroachments of rapid, strong-growing weeds.—C. Bestcher.

CARE AND MANAGEMENT OF OUR FEATHERED PETS, CANARIES

Among the Birds Kept for Household Pets None is So Common or So Well Known as the Canary—So Simple Are Its Requirements in the Way of Food and Care That It Needs Little Attention, and Because of Its Pleasing Songs and Interesting Habits it is a Universal Favorite—Readily Adaptable to Cage Life, Canaries Display Little of the Fear Shown By Wild Birds in Captivity, and the Ease With Which They May Be Induced to Nest and Rear Young Adds to Their Popularity.

By ALEXANDER WETMORE.

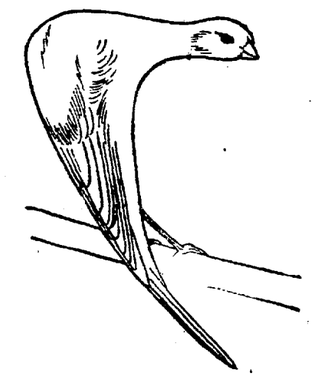
Canaries have been domesticated for several hundred years and, though more common in western Europe and the United States than elsewhere, have been carried over practically the entire civilized world. In England and Germany there are hundreds of canary breeders and many agricultural societies. Several periodicals dealing solely with cage birds are published there, and in the larger cities bird exhibitions are held annually. In the United States there are comparatively few fanciers as yet, so that, though numbers of canaries are reared here, a large part of the stock is secured from abroad. More than three and one-quarter millions of canaries have been brought into the United States during the last 10 years, an average of more than 300,000 birds each year. Most of these have come from Germany, but some are imported from England.

Canaries seem to thrive in any climate where not exposed to too severe weather conditions, and in spite of the long period they have been protected and held in captivity they are capable of enduring a surprising degree of cold when hardened to it. In England it is not unusual to find them in outdoor aviaries throughout the year. They seem able to establish themselves again in a wild state under favorable conditions. In 1909, a brood of domestic canaries was released on Midway Island, a small sandy islet in the Hawaiian group. By 1914 they had increased until it was estimated that they numbered about 1,000.

The actual origin of the canary as a cage bird is as obscure as is the early history of other domesticated animals. It seems probable that captive canaries were first secured from the Canary Islands, a group with which they have long been popularly associated. There are in the Old World, however, two closely allied forms from which the domesticated canary may have come. One of these, the bird now recognized as the "wild canary," is found in the Canary Islands (with the exception of the islands of Fuerteventura and Lanzarote), Madeira, and the Azores. The other form, the serin finch, ranges through southern Europe and northern Africa, extending eastward into Palestine and Asia Minor. In a wild state these two forms are very similar in color and to a novice are hardly distinguishable.

If, as is supposed, the original supply of canaries came from the Canary Islands, it may be considered doubtful that the stock thus secured has furnished the ancestors of all our canaries. The slight differences in color between the serin finch and the canary would probably have passed unnoticed by early ornithologists and bird lovers. With bird catching a widespread practice in middle and southern Europe, the serin would often be made captive and be accepted without question as a canary. In this way serins and wild canaries may have been interbred until all distinguishable differences were lost.

The original canary, whether serin or true wild canary, in its native haunt was much different in color from its modern pure-bred descendant. The back of the wild bird is, in general, gray tinged with olive-green, especially on the rump, with dark shaft streaks on the feathers. Underneath it is yellowish, streaked on sides and flanks with dusky. Wild canaries from the Canary Islands, the Azores, and Madeira differ from the continental serins in being slightly grayer with less of yellowish green in the plumage above. In addition, the rump is duller yellow and the bill is distinctly larger. All of the wild birds have the feet and legs (tarsi) horn brown, the upper half of the bill dark brown or horn color, and the lower half paler.



Scotch Fancy Canary.

Both of the wild varieties inhabit vineyards, thickets, and more open country where bordered by trees. At times during fall and winter great flocks are found together. The birds feed upon various seeds and occasionally eat figs or other small fruits in season. In a wild state they nest early in spring and again later, rearing two broods. The nest, made of plant stems and grasses and lined with hair and plant downs, is placed in bushes or low trees. The eggs are clear green in color, spotted and clouded with deep wine red and reddish brown. From three to five eggs are deposited.

Variation among domesticated canaries began early, as Hernandez, in 1587, speaks of the canary as wholly yellow in color save for the tips of the wings. The various forms have had their origin in distinct geographic areas, and though some are almost extinct at present, all at one time or another have had a devoted following of fanciers. At present at least 14 distinct strains, with a large number of varieties, are known.

The common canary is reared primarily for its song, and from it probably came the roller, or song canary, a great favorite in Germany and more recently, in England. In rearing song canaries attempt is made to produce males with clear, soft, pleasing songs with long rolls or trills, and no attention whatever is paid to other characters. These birds, therefore, are usually nondescript as regards color and appearance, but care is taken in mating to secure males that are good singers and females from good stock. The young birds when fledged are put in rooms with birds noted for their soft song, and here, through imitation, they develop their own vocal powers. Careful watch is kept over them, and any bird developing harsh notes is removed at once to prevent his corrupting the purity of tone in the song of his brothers. A mechanical instrument known as a bird organ, that produces liquid trills, is frequently utilized in training, usually when the adult birds are silent during molt. Ordinarily the room where these birds are kept is darkened, and frequently the cages containing the young birds are screened with cloth to lessen a tendency to objectionable loudness of song. In six months or less their education completed, these songsters may be sold or in their turn utilized in training others still younger. It is common to teach these birds some simple strain or air, through its constant reptition by whistling or by means of an instrument.

Well-trained birds bring high prices, and a fair number of these find their way each year into this country.

In the great class of exhibition birds perhaps none is more striking than the Belgian canary. Formerly known as the "king of the fancy," it was reared extensively in Belgium, but of late years its popularity has been on the decline. In 1911 it was said that few pure-bred Belgians were to be found, and under present war conditions it may never recover its own. The typical Belgian canary is a large bird with a small head, long, slender neck, large shoulders, and a long, tapering body. It is primarily a bird of "position." When examined it hops up on a perch and throwing its shoulders up brings the head down well below their level. The back and tail form a perpendicular line and the feet are held close together.

Another bird of position is the Scotch fancy canary. This variety resembles the Belgian, but when in position throws the tail in under the perch until its outline in profile is almost a semicircle.

Another well-marked variety is the cinnamon canary, one of the earliest forms to appear, but one whose origin is wholly unknown. Its true color is a dun or dull brown that has been likened to cinnamon. In exhibition birds the color is usually intensified by color feeding. In addition to the body color the cinnamon canary is peculiar in possessing red or pink eyes, a character that denotes cinnamon blood even in a yellow or buff bird. The cinnamon inheritance is transmitted only by the male: young reared from a cinnamon mother and a male of any other form lacking cinnamon blood never shows signs of their cinnamon parentage.

Among the old-established varieties that now are in decadence none is more striking than the lizard canary. Lizard canaries are known as gold or silver according as the body color is yellow or silvery gray. The wings and tail are black and the back is spangled with numerous somewhat triangular black spots. The crown in pure-bred birds is unspotted and light in color.

The crested canary is another unusual form, with a long crest extending down around the head below the level of the eyes. The frill or Dutch frill canary is a large bird with long curling feathers. The Lancashire is the largest of known varieties of the canary, standing head and shoulders above all others. These "giant" canaries may be crested or smooth headed. Other forms that may be mentioned are the border fancy, a small bird, and the Norwich, or Norwich plain head, from which come many of the common canaries.

It must not be supposed that the number of varieties of canaries enumerated covers the entire field. For each of the main forms there are almost endless groups or divisions that have been developed on color peculiarities. To obtain pure-bred birds requires constant care and supervision, and with any slackness of method a host of mongrels appear. Interbreeding between the various forms, differing so widely in color, results in reversion to the original type, which was a spotted or striped greenish bird, certain proof of the common origin of all.

That the color of canaries may be deepened or intensified by certain color foods given during the molt is well known and has attracted much interest. Turmeric, marigold flowers, saffron, cochineal, annatto, port wine, mustard seed and other agents rich in natural color are often used for this purpose, but it is doubtful whether they exert any real influence. So far as known all successful color foods have red pepper as a base. For a long time methods of preparing and feeding them were kept secret, but now they are outlined in many manuals on canary keeping.

Lizard Canary.

A standard color food may be prepared as follows: To the ordinary egg food (one hard-boiled egg chopped fine with an equal bulk of bread crumbs or unsalted cracker crumbs) add a teaspoonful of ground sweet red pepper. Mix until the food shows an even reddish tint throughout. Each bird to be experimented upon should receive one small teaspoonful daily. The quantity of pepper is increased gradually, until two heaping teaspoonfuls are used. Addition of a little brown sugar and a few drops of pure olive oil is beneficial, and a small quantity of hot red pepper gives a better flavor. The food should be prepared fresh each day. In mixing, allowance must be made for variation in the size of eggs used. In color feeding some canary breeders increase the proportion of sweet red pepper until four teaspoonfuls are added to the usual quantity of egg food. Half a teaspoonful of this concentrated food is allowed each bird. This method may be used during a short, quick molt.

Care of Feet and Bill.

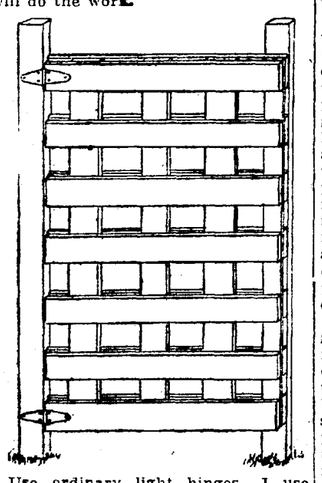
As a canary grows old it will be noticed that its claws get long and catch on the perches and wires as it hops about the cage. In a state of nature the activities of the bird as it moves about on the ground or among twigs and limbs keep the claws properly worn down. Confined in a cage, the canary is less active, and while the rate of growth of the claws remains the same they are subject to much less abrasion. It is necessary, therefore, to trim them with a pair of sharp scissors every few months. It is important to watch the condition of the claws carefully, as by catching they may cause a broken leg. In each claw a slender blood vessel extends well down toward the tip. This may be seen on close examination through the transparent sheath of the claw. In trimming cut well beyond this canal and take special care not to break the leg while handling the bird.

In cage birds the horny covering of the bill, as well as the claws, sometimes becomes distorted through growth without sufficient wear. The tips of the mandibles may be pared down with a sharp knife, but care must be taken not to cut deep enough to reach the quick.

Economical Farm Gate

Take board strips, one inch thick, three inches broad, and the proper length and width you want your gate, nail them across each other, making about three inch cracks.

Then take the same sized and width pieces and double the crosses, nailing securely. A half pound of No. 8 nails will do the work.



Use ordinary light hinges. I use seven cross pieces, and then by doubling these, which is absolutely necessary, you will have to use fourteen, with four pieces length-wise, making a total of eighteen pieces, a cheap and durable and economical gate.

EROSION.

The farm practices that cause excessive erosion are continuous cultivation, shallow plowing, furrowing with the slopes, leaving the land bare in winter, neglect of gullies and the exhaustion of organic matter. Practices tending to control erosion are systematic rotation containing fewer cultivated crops and more hay and pasture crops, the gradual deepening of soil by occasional deep plowing, the use of barn yard and green manures, winter cover crops such as rye and wheat, and prompt attention to gullies and ditches. Terracing and contour farming are coming into favor as preventive practices as lands increase in value. Tiling poorly drained sloping lands such as spouty hillsides, helps by opening up the subsoil and carrying part of the water off through the tiles.

BEES.

A careful study of the bee and its life and habits and a little effort to adjust one's actions to those of the bees will soon make beekeeping both an interesting and profitable pursuit. Every farmer should produce his own supply of honey by keeping and properly caring for a few stands of bees.

Watch the hotbeds carefully on bright warm mornings. It does not take long for the heat to run up high enough to injure the plants.

Hardy Species Brought From Europe and Asia By U. S. Department of Agriculture Not of Great Value in Present Form Under Cultivation—Will Be Valuable in Plant Breeding, It Is Believed.

After eight years of experimentation with the yellow-flowered alfalfa, known to botanists as Medicago falcata, plant specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture feel that the plant can not yet be recommended for general cultivation. They believe, however, that because of certain desirable characteristics, some strains of the species will be valuable for use in plant breeding and that from hybrids resulting from crossing this yellow-flowered alfalfa with the common alfalfa, hardy types more valuable than any now cultivated should be developed. With this end in view, the Department specialists will continue their experiments.

The yellow-flowered species, which grows wild from the Mediterranean to northern Siberia, was introduced because of the desire of the Department to find strains of alfalfa sufficiently hardy and drought-resistant to grow successfully in the cooler and drier portions of the United States. Most of the specimens introduced have been found to be relatively hardy and drought-resistant. The chief defects which make the species undesirable for general cultivation under present conditions are its failure to recover quickly after mowing, and its poor seeding habits. These characteristics, in most cases, make impossible the cutting of more than one crop of hay and make the harvesting of sufficient seed for planting purposes exceedingly difficult and costly.

In their plant-breeding experiments, the specialists will strive to produce a plant which will embody the good qualities of Medicago falcata but from which its defects have been eliminated.

As far back as mention of Medicago falcata can be traced in the history of agriculture it has almost invariably been referred to directly or indirectly as a noncultivated species. Incidentally it may be inferred from certain references by early writers that the plant was utilized in a very limited way for forage in some localities in Europe, but no hint is given that it was cultivated there for that or any other purpose. No attempt has been made to search the literature for information regarding its early utilization in Asia.

Probably the First Figure of Medicago Falcata Ever Published. It Appeared in Clusius, Historia, 1583 Edition.

The species was at least sufficiently well known to be mentioned in European literature more than three centuries ago, but up to the time of Linnaeus (1750-1790) no botanists or agriculturists apparently had ever recommended its domestication. About 1783 Le Blanc became interested in the plant, which he termed "Yellow Medick," on account of its ability to produce a good growth on poor soil. He conceived the idea of its domestication, but in the course of his investigations his attention was attracted to a hybrid of Medicago sativa and Medicago falcata, to which he gave the name "Veriegated Medick." In his opinion, this plant was superior to either the common lucern or the yellow medick, and therefore he discontinued his efforts to domesticate the latter.

The literature of the past century contains many references to the cultivation of Medicago falcata, but outside of limited localities in India, China and southern Russia, where it is reported to be cultivated to some extent, it is not grown under cultivation except for experimental purposes. It is a significant fact that regardless of the relationship of Medicago falcata to common alfalfa, the early recognition of its value, and the numerous attempts to domesticate it, the plant is still an uncultivated species. However, it must be said that it is probably utilized at the present time more than ever before in Europe and Asia, but wholly as a wild plant on the ranges and in pastures. According to Hansen, it is attracting attention as a range plant in European Russia. Meyer is authority for the statement that the Kalmucks and Sarts in Chinese Turkestan gather it, together with other wild plants, as hay for horses and cattle. Nilsson indicates that it is utilized quite abundantly in Sweden as a wild pasture plant on dry, sandy land. It is reasonable to conclude, therefore, that its value has long been recognized in the agriculture of Europe and Asia.

VALUE AND PRESERVATION OF HEN MANURE.

According to the Maine station, the droppings should be collected daily and mixed with substances which will (1) prevent loss of nitrogen, (2) add sufficient potash and phosphoric acid to make a better balanced fertilizer, and (3) improve the mechanical condition of the manure so that it can be applied to the land with a manure spreader.

This can be done as follows: To each thirty pounds of the manure add ten pounds of sawdust, good dried loam, or peat, sixteen pounds of acid phosphate, and eight pounds of kainit. Such a mixture will contain about 1.25 per cent of nitrogen, 4.5 per cent of phosphoric acid, and two per cent of potash, which, used at the rate of two tons per acre would furnish fifty pounds of nitrogen, 185 pounds of phosphoric acid, and eighty pounds of potash, and at the present price of fertilizing ingredients is worth about $10 per ton. The mixture would furnish a well-balanced stable fertilizer, which, although not fine enough to work well in drills, can be successfully applied with a manure spreader. The treated manure should be well sheltered until time to apply to the land—that is shortly before plowing.

MILKING MACHINES.

Men who understand something of machinery and a great deal about cows are in most cases obtaining excellent returns through the use of the milking machine.

FOR SHOT-HOLE BORER.

One gallon of commercial lime sulfur to eight gallons of water as used for the San Jose scale during the dormant season is quite effective. An oil spray as recommended for the scale is also beneficial. Stiff whitewash with a pint of crude carbolic acid added to each 10 gallons, is also used. These washes may be applied as sprays before the buds open, but where it is necessary to repeat the application after the leaves appear they can be applied to the trunk and main limbs with a brush. The best and cheapest remedy is prevention by keeping all trees vigorous.

In the case of apple, pear, and other trees which do not exude gum to any extent, it is a question of judgment whether it will be possible to save trees attacked by this insect. If the infestation is rather severe, it usually indicates that the tree is beyond hope of saving. Individual branches on trees may often show attack by this insect and should be promptly removed and burned to prevent further increase and spread of the borer.

HOME PRESERVED EGGS.

Housewives will often find it advantageous to preserve their own eggs in the home, purchasing them when the supply is abundant and packing them in a solution of water-glass or lime water, or covering them with paraffin or varnish. Such eggs can be kept in good condition for a number of months. For current use fresh eggs usually can be kept satisfactorily for two or three weeks without such treatment, in a refrigerator or dry, cool cellar. If infertile, such eggs may be kept still longer.

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD SEED BED AND CULTIVATION.

The conservation of soil moisture is the most important reason for cultivating crops. The two other principal things accomplished by cultivation are the killing of weeds which draw moisture and plant food from the crops, and the aeration of the soil.

Too much stress can not be laid on the preparation of a good seed bed. A seed bed of fine tilth—made so by deep plowing, careful harrowing, and fining of the soil—is the foundation of good gardening. It is essential for the proper germination and growth of young plants. The soil must be friable and free from clods. A clod can hold no plant food in solution, the only form in which it is available for the plant. Good soil and fine tilth insure an excellent root system to plants. Upon the fine, hairy, fibrous, feeding roots, which are possible only in well-tilled soil, the plant depends for its stockiness and growth. The careful gardener will regard his whole garden as a seed bed and will cultivate and fertilize it accordingly.

KEEPING HONEY.

Many housekeepers do not know the right place in which to store honey and unthinkingly put it in the cellar or a dark, cool place. On the contrary, honey should always be kept in a dry, warm place, even at 100 degrees. If kept in a damp place the "cappings" of the comb become watery and the honey oozes through, but if the comb is kept where the air is warm and dry it will remain in more perfect condition.

MORE WHOLESOME LIVING.

It is the cheerful custom of our times to urge what amounts to improvidence and insist that the liberal spending of our money is for the best, not only for ourselves, but for everybody. Every effort to reduce living expenses is frowned on and considered as a mean and underhanded attack on some industry which ought to be encouraged. If we do not wear gold rings, we are not treating the gold miners right, nor are we giving the jewelers a fair shake in business. How can we expect the jeweler to buy our pork and sauer kraut if we do not buy his gold rings? We are hurried on to make more that we may spend more with others, so that they may spend more, and so on, and so on.

There is no end to this sort of thing, and there is no health in this kind of hectic existence. The principle of making more that we may spend it faster is not a worthy basis for our philosophy.

A little economy would be a wholesome thing for all of us and would help amazingly in the matter of the high cost of living.—Idaho Farmer.

WHAT WE GROW IN THE U. S.

The United States produces, on an average, about three-fourths of the world's corn crop, one-fifth of the wheat crop, one-fourth of the oats crop, one-eighth of the barley crop, one fiftieth of the rye crop, one sixteenth of the potato crop, three-fifths of the cotton crop, one-third of the tobacco crop, one-fourth of the hops crop, and one-tenth of the sugar crop. In rank of production the United States is first for corn, wheat, oats, cotton, tobacco, and hops; second for barley and flaxseed; fourth for sugar, and fifth for rye and potatoes.

HINTS FOR THE HOME GARDENER.

The gardener who merely wishes to raise vegetables for his own family will do well, especially this year, to choose the crops he will grow from those which previously have done best in his special locality. The market gardener must bear this fact in mind, but also must study the market and anticipate its usual demand and determine as far as he can how this demand will be affected by any untoward weather conditions which may have occurred in his section.

Those who desire to produce early crops should bear in mind that a warm, sandy loam will produce an earlier crop than a heavier soil that retains more water and less heat. Frost is less apt to injure vegetables planted on high ground than those planted in low places or valleys into which the heavier cold air commonly settles. The garden should be fairly level, but well drained. The crop will mature more rapidly on land that has a sunny, southern exposure than in other plots.

ANILINE DYE INDUSTRY.

A laboratory for research work in the possibilities of coal tar products is to be established at Johns Hopkins university, with the co-operation of gas companies of Philadelphia and Baltimore. The purpose is to develop the aniline dye industry.

PLOWING.

Plowing is the first operation in the production of all common farm crops; and if not well done it is hardly logical to expect good results, even though the other operations are well performed.

A Choice Flower

Of all plants the most indifferent to all conditions and environments, soil and care, none yields the product that the Iris does, and with high culture it is just that much more satisfactory for the added attention.

The German Iris is in many ways an especially desirable plant. It never fails as a plant for Memorial Day purposes in the northern states, (it blooms much earlier in the southern states), and is a very desirable garden flower or for cutting, as they keep especially well in the hot sun.

For all varieties of Iris, there should be a heavy coat of manure in the fall, the fresher the better. If the soil is very poor apply it several inches thick—if good, give only an inch in thickness. AT THE MAJESTIC NEXT SATURDAY, MATINEE AND NIGHT.

to be the fate of her unborn child?" is really the problem of this wonderful human play. The author shows great modesty in the handling of the delicate theme, yet at the same time portraying vividly and emphatically a play teeming with purpose and appeal.

"Her Unborn Child" comes to the Majestic theater for an engagement, Saturday matinee and night with the endorsement of medical societies, nonsectarian clubs and thinking men and women everywhere. It tells the truth about birth control, for it is the theory of the author that by the education of the masses the slaughter of innocent unborn babes will stop.

Because of the sacredness of motherhood and out of courtesy to the ladies, the matinee performance of "Her Unborn Child" will be reserved exclusively for the ladies. Gentlemen will be admitted to the evening performance.

AT THE PALACE

"A HOLLAND ROMANCE."

Dick Wainwright and W. H. White at the Palace.

A beautiful little love story of the land of dikes, floods, neutrality, cheeses, ovens and pottery, "A Holland Romance" will be unfolded as the super attraction on the bill for the first portion of the week at the New Palace. Dick Wainwright, the musical comedy tenor, and William H. White, whose basso voice won him merited recognition in the comic opera world, assisted by a clever company of artists will present the dainty little study. George Botsford conceived this lovely one-act opera.

The Three Mori Brothers, Jap specialty artists, whose tricks in equilibristics, juggling and acrobatics have been the talk of the vaudeville world for several seasons; the Lunette Sisters; the Whirling Geisha Girls, whose perilous gyrations in mid air are breath taking thrillers; Morris and Campbell in their diversion, "The Avi-Ate-Her;" the lovely Transfield Sisters in a dainty musical number, and Harry Coleman, the American ventriloquist, are among the other favorites whom this bill will present to Fort Wayne's army of vaudeville goers.

Mr. Inquisitive, the lively little novelty number with its unique setting in the office of a girl dentist, is the big scream of the current bill which closes tonight. It is being offered by Earle Cavanaugh assisted by Ruth Tompkins and a group of the prettiest girls that ever graced a miniature musical farce in this man's town. Not only its uniqueness commends it but also its dash and go and the pleasing pictures the girls afford.

Wood, Melville and Phillips, a singing, dancing and kidding trio including two women and a girl, are easy to like, especially Miss Phillips, whose Russian dance is a spirited and graceful number. Johnny Eckert and Billy Parker as the "Golf Players;" Jack Baxley, the singing monologuist, Weber and Redford, the comedy jugglers, and Rose and Ellis, team of comedy barrel jumpers complete this bill.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"Flora Bella," Thursday, Musical Treat.

John Cort's beautiful production of "Flora Bella," the New York Casino theater Russian musical comedy success, book by Felix Doermann, revised and adapted by Cosmo Hamilton and Dorothy Donnelly, lyrics by Percy Waxman, and score by Charles Cuvillier and Milton Schwarzwald, with Miss Eleanor Henry and a select cast and picked chorus, will come to the Majestic Thursday.

The story is a typical Russian arrangement, with a real plot of absorbing interest, abounding in clean cut, brilliant comedy. The play is constructed along new lines to amuse and entertain from the ascent of the curtain to the finale of the last act, and in this the authors and composers of both book and score have been highly successful. Probably no musical comedy in the past ten years, productive as they have been in this direction, is comparable with "Flora Bella," in the profusion of clever dialogue, sparkling tunes and trippling melodies, and if you have a heart and a mind for brilliant musical inspirations to set your feet going, "Flora Bella" should be your mecca.

The costuming of the play is the most pretentious undertaking by musical comedy producers in years. The gowns worn by Miss Eleanor Henry are the most stunning and costly Parisian creations of the theatrical season, a goodly sum being invested in Miss Henry's gowns alone.

The costumes worn by the chorus as well as the principals are not duplicataes, but stunning, handsome creations of French design and workmanship.

In scenic production, which is by Joseph Urban, and electrical effects, "Flora Bella" will outrival any other musical comedy of this season.

"Her Unborn Child" Returns to Majestic.

"If I have brought a message of hope to some one, if I have kept the feet of youth from wandering into the streets of vacillation, then I have accomplished much."

It was with these words that the author of "Her Unborn Child," a purposeful play, dealing with one of the questions of the hour, birth control, introduces his play to the theatergoing public.

It is by these words that the serious intent of a big, modern play is shown. "Her Unborn Child" is the work of Howard McKent Barnes, a brilliant young American dramatist. The play was written after months of research work in the laboratories of the leading physicians and the material of the big human story is an actual happening discovered during the tour of inspection.

The gripping heart story of "Her Unborn Child" deals with a youthful couple who love not wisely but too well. In her greatest need the bewildered girl seeks aid from the gentle old physician who brought her into the world.

An Appreciation.

(By Kay Spencer.)

Any one who attended the concert at the Majestic theater on Thursday evening must have been impressed by the thought that in those who formed the orchestra and in Mr. Bouillet, as an enthusiastic and capable conductor, was the nucleus for a fine symphony orchestra, one which, if given encouragement and financial support, would be an organization of which Fort Wayne might be proud. The orchestra, which included children of Mr. Bouillet's class, who are just beginning their musical careers, up to several professional instrumentalists, played with fine intelligence and precision, with an appreciation of the interpretive side of music, which was remarkably displayed in the last two numbers. The accompaniment by the full orchestra of forty to the famous Bach-Guonod "Ave Maria," was surprisingly beautiful and satisfactory. It is unfortunate that the Majestic was not packed, but the large audience manifested the greatest appreciation. Perhaps Mr. Bouillet could be persuaded to repeat the concert.

The leaving out of a letter or a word in printing can change a sentence from the sublime to the ridiculous. "A battle-scarred veteran" came out in a certain paper as a "battle-scared veteran"—a vastly different thing—while a misprint, usually attributed to the London Times is "them asses" instead of "the masses."

TO ANSWER LATER FOR HEADLIGHTS

Business Folk Gladly Agree to Postponement of Cases.

Six victims of the police order that the "no glaring headlights" ordinance must be enforced, will be tried on Monday morning. The five men and one woman, all of whom were halted on Fairfield avenue, Friday evening, were in police court Saturday morning. City Attorney Colerick stated that he would like to continue the cases over the week-end. The defendants gladly agreed as a part of the men have business obligations which are especially pressing on Saturday.

Patrolmen Lininger and B. Smith were the motor cops who held up the citizens charged with traveling with gleaming headlight. A part of the defendants at least will plead guilty to the charge. Those who are charged with bearing beacon lamps, and the point at which they were halted, are: A. H. Keplinger, 119 Thieme drive, stopped at Fairfield avenue and Williams street. Albert Buuck, 827 Madison street, stopped at Meyer avenue and Fairfield avenue. E. J. Pauley, stopped at Fairfield avenue and Williams street. Mrs. George Tibits, stopped at Fairfield avenue and Williams street. George L. Eby stopped at Fairfield avenue and Williams street. Ben Friedman, 520 Madison street, stopped at Pontiac street and Fairfield avenue.

Police Chief Lenz states that while the ordinance forbidding glaring headlights is in effect in Fort Wayne he expects to have the law enforced. He has ordered his men to bring in all violators of the traffic rule.

Other Police Court Cases.

Robert Bracken, long haired and wearing a matted growth of beard, was taken from the Pennsylvania limited express Friday night. He pleaded guilty to a train climbing charge. He has been in Mexico at work for some time, he told, but was unable to collect his wages. He wants to go to Pittsburg, he says. He will be held until Thursday.

George Reed and Earl Kratz were convicted of train climbing. Kratz wants to get to Wyoming in time to see his sister graduate from high school, he said. They were released.

Theodore Gebhart was released from an assault and battery charge into the care of Capt. Ray McAdams, of Company E. The boy had abused his mother, it was claimed.

John Amoway, convicted of loitering, and William Hoffman, who pleaded guilty to an intoxication charge, were released.

FLAG IS RAISED AT PARNELL AVENUE

E. V. Emrick delivered a rousing address at the raising of a community flag above the Parnell avenue school, Friday evening. The speaker called attention to the principals involved in the present war and the fact that it is the German autocracy and not the German people as a race that we oppose in this conflict.

The flag was raised by Franklin Emrick, son of the county prosecutor, Frank Emrick. The banner which is 9 by 5 feet was made by Mrs. Emrick. The little daughter, Katherine Mary, recited "The Star Spangled Banner." Other children of the neighborhood joined in singing "America."

The firing of the salute was presided over by John Wemp and Clement Roach fired the cannon, an old relic owned by Doc Adams in 1886. The light was flashed on Old Glory by Walter Kintz. The saluters were M. Delagrange, Frank Emrick, Professor Eagleman, Charles Pichon, Carl Miller, William Miller, Edward Meyers and Joseph Curdes, sr.

FOUR MAKE TRY FOR LIFE STATE LICENSE

Four teachers of northern Indiana made a try for a life state license in the old high school building Saturday. The four applicants were given the examination under the direction of Prof. Justin N. Study, head of the Fort Wayne public schools. This examination is given but once a year. Three of the applicants are college graduates, while the other one took the regular life state license examination.

There are now registered in California more than 200,000 motor cars, or one for every fifteen people.

THE MARETS

Lacks But Ten Cents in Attack on Three Dollar Mark Now.

At the close of the week in market circles here wheat lacked but 10c of making the $3 mark which it has been aiming at for the last few days. An increase of 12c in quotations Saturday morning sent the grain scurrying along in the upward direction.

Of course flour advanced with the wheat and $15 is now about the lowest price at which a barrel can be purchased. One local dealer did not advance his quotation on flour but will have to do so Monday in all probability.

The local market was slightly under market Saturday, receipts being light and none of the dealers reporting any rush of business. Twenty-one loads were weighed on the city scales, one dozen of them being hay, six corn and the other three oats. The hay dropped 50c from its top price and sold at $14 to $16 per ton. Corn ranged from $1.60 to $1.67 a bushel, while oats picked up several cents and sold at 75c to 77c.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, April 28.—Excited trading and greatly higher prices were brought about in the wheat market today largely as a consequence of Washigton and London dispatches that pointed to increasing need of rushing food supplies to the entente allies. early all commission houses were on buying side. Opening prices, which ranged from 1½c to 12½c higher, with May at $2.74 to $2.75, and July at $2.29 to $2.36, were followed by decided further gains in May and September, the latter month ascending for the first time to $2.

The close was demoralised, ranging from 2½c net lower to 7c advance, with May at $2.74 to $2.74½ and July at $2.25 to $2.26.

Corn was governed entirely by the bullish action of wheat. After opening ¾c to 1¾c higher the market ascended all around to about 3c above yesterday's finish.

The market closed unsettled, ¾c lower to 1c up, as compared with yesterday's latest figures.

Unusual activity developed in oats. Advances of about 2½c were scored.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, April 28.—Stocks opened today at slight recessions, strengthening irregularly on a spirited rise in Utah Copper, Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies and a few other issues of less prominence, but soon fell back on concerted professional selling. Declines ran from one to four points. United States Steel fell over a point from its early high of 116⅜, Utah forfeited the greater part of its 2⅝-point gain and Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies lost alll its rise of over two points. Dealings became stagnant on the decline, the market cosing with a heavy tone. Saes approximated 275,000 shares. Bonds were ower.

First quotations were mostly at lower levels, except metals and shippings, particularly Utah Copper and Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, Maxwell second preferred, Goodrich preferred and Corn Products common and preferred were included among the few strong specialties, these being counter balanced by further heaviness in General Motors and Studebakers, Central Leather, Texas company, Crucible Steel and American Smelting. United States Steel lost a mere fraction at the outset, but hardened immediately. A one-point rise in Illinois Central and the loss of as much by Lehigh Valley were the sole features among the rails.

High pressure covers northern districts, but in the west gulf states and the southern plateau region the pressure is low. During the last 24 hours precipitation occurred in northeastern sections, the Ohio valley and quite generally in the districts to the westward of the Mississippi river. The weather is generally unsettled in the central valleys and in the southwest. Snow is falling quite generally in the eastern slope of the Rockies and there is rain in portions of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys. Moderate temperatures prevail in the gulf states, but the weather is generally colder than the seasonal average elsewhere, the deficiency of temperature being marked in parts of the Rocky mountain region.

BRITISH HAVE LAUNCHED A NEW DRIVE

HAIG GAINS ON LONG FRONT IN A FRESH SMASH

Heavy Fighting Develops in New Advance Toward Lens and Germans Use New Divisions.

MAYDAY IS DREAD OF THE CENTRAL ALLIES

Another smashing drive by the British on the French front was begun today. General Haig reports an advance on an extended front north of the Scarpe.

The attack already has scored good progress and is continuing. Heavy fighting has developed, the Germans throwing fresh divisions into the fray. The field of the new push lies within the ten mile front from the Scarpe to the coal city of Lens, which the British have had under their guns on three sides for nearly two weeks.

Gneral Haig already had pushed a deep wedge into the German line three miles north of the Scarpe at Gavrelle and was fighting today to enlarge this opening. Every yard he gains there is making the German front between that point and Lens more difficult to hold. A considerable part of the force of the present heavy attack seems to be aimed at this part of the line.

At two points along this stretch the British are reported to have advanced more than a mile, as far as Arleux and Oppy, but definite possession of these villages apparently was a question for the furious fighting of the day to settle.

While the British apparently are thus giving the Germans more than they can successfully cope with in the northern sector of the great battlefield the French are keeping up a heavy artillery fire south from St. Quentin all around the curve in the line into the Champagne.

The French seemingly have completed the count of the prisoners and booty taken in the recent fighting on these fronts. They captured 175 cannon of all calibres, 412 machine guns and 119 trench guns. The prisoners total 20,780.

All the far-reaching power of the German censorship is unable to suppress the fact that the greatest and gravest discontent is seething in the Washington, April 28.—America's big unnaturalized alien population is likely to supply large numbers of soldiers for foreign legions in the war with Germany, reports reaching the war department indicate, if congress passes pending legislation to permit allied nations to recruit their nationals in this country.

Adjutant General McCain said today he had received many letters from aliens begging opportunity to be of service to the United States in the war. Some are reservists of their nations, and a large proportion have had previous military training.

Cannot Join Army.

The government has been unable to deal officially with these offers as unnaturalized foreigners cannot be admitted to the United States army nor have officials been able to sanction the subrosa organization of alien residents who hope eventually to form mutual units and go to European battle fronts under their own colors. The bill under consideration by congress is expected to open the way for recruiting and training of these men.

Secretary Baker said today some arrangement could be made to train aliens as officers for these foreign legions in the regular army training camps although the problem had not yet been considered formally by the department.

The adjutant general has been notified by prominent French citizens in the United States that a quiet campaign of unofficial recruiting has been carried on among Alsatian Frenchmen living in this country and that

COLONEL FACES BUSY DAY WITH CHICAGO FOLK

Chicago, April 28.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, on his arrival here today, found a busy program mapped out for him by the National Security league, under whose auspices he is to make two speeches. A platoon of mounted police, a detail from the great lakes naval training station and three companies of Illinois guard escorted Col. Roosevelt from the railroad station to his hotel. The former president is to deliver an address at a luncheon in a down town hotel and in the evening the principal speech in the amphitheater at the stock yards.

NOTED U-BOAT COMMANDER IS LOST IN FIGHT

Copenhagen, April 28.—Lieutenant-Commander Petz, one of the most successful of the German submarine commanders, has perished in the submarine campaign. The newspapers of his home town, Koenigsberg, carry an official death notice although the admiralty has said nothing of the loss of his boat. Commander Petz was mentioned in dispatches in February as being in charge of a submarine which destroyed 52,000 tons of shipping in one day.

After that date no Americans will be allowed to leave but those remaining will not be interned unless they commit offenses.

Petrograd, April 28.—(Via London.) Minister of Justice Kerensky gave to a representative of The Associated Press today a clear presentation of the present status of political and economic affairs in the country, and with the aid of concrete facts, contradicted the assertions and rumors of all disorganization in the armies and factories generally, circulated and credited in Petrograd in the last few weeks. The minister declared that not only is the army better prepared and more willing to fight than before the revolution, but that the factories are putting out more ammunition than at any previous stage of the war. He continued:

REPRISALS ARE PROMISED FROM THE PRUSSIANS

Copenhagen, April 28.—(Via London.)—Announcement was made before the reichstag main committee in Berlin yesterday that Germany will adopt the sharpest reprisals if German prisoners are embarked on hospital ships of the allies and exposed to the danger of torpedoes.

The sinking by the Germans of the British hospital ship Lanfranc last week caused the death of fifteen German wounded who were being transported to England. The British admiralty announced that inasmuch as the Germans were sinking hospital ships without any regard to international law the distinctive markings of these vessels had been removed and furthermore that virtually all the hospital ships had on board German wounded who would be exposed to submarine attacks. The French government announced that on account of Germany's policy German prisoners would be embarked on French hospital ships.

RANKS OF POTATO GROWERS FILLED

Recruiting for the ranks of potato growers in the great contest in Allen county has been stopped. The ranks became completed Saturday morning, when there was a big rush for eleventh hour candidates. Saturday morning there were places for twelve more boys and about ten minutes after County Agent A. J. Hutchins opened his office, the filing case had been filled with the necessary number. Due to the wet ground, not much work has been done in cultivating the twenty acres of ground east of the city. However, this tract will be ready for planting within the next few days.

WHEAT GOES TO NEW MARK THEN TAKES TUMBLE

Chicago, April 28.—High price record smashing continued today in the wheat market. Opening trades showed a maximum jump of 12½ cents a bushel, July options touching $2.36 as against $2.23½ to $2.24½ at yesterday's finish. May wheat went to $2.75, a rise of five cents above yesterday's top most price.

Sensational breaks in prices here resulted later from drastic action taken by the Winnipeg exchange to put a stop to speculation. May wheat at Winnipeg fell fifteen cents after notice had been given that any member of the Winnipeg exchange would be suspended for trading without orders and that the British government was not in the market for futures. Quotations in Chicago dropped ten cents from early high figures.

Liquidating sales became general as the result of the Winnipeg news and were increased by word that in Omaha no more trades in May wheat would be cleared except the closing out of old contracts. Before the day ended the collapse of prices here was extended to 15½c for July, which dropped to $2.20. The close was wild at a range varying from 2½c net loss to 7c advance, as compared with twenty-four hours before, last quotations today being $2.74 to $2.74½ for May and $2.25 to $2.26 for July.

HOUSE STRIKES OUT VOLUNTEER SYSTEM PLAN

ASSURES ENACTMENT OF THE MEASURE

Washington, April 28.—The administration bill to raise a big army by selective draft was taken up in both houses of congress today for final disposition with almost assured prospects of its enactment by substantial majorities despite last minute efforts of opponents of the draft system.

In the house the leaders planned to reach a vote by six o'clock and in the senate it had been agreed to vote before adjournment tonight.

Administration forces overthrew opponents of the administration selective conscription bill in the house on the first vote today and struck the volunteer amendments from the measure.

The vote came on an amendment by Representative Kahn, who has led the fight for the administration bill, moving to strike out the volunteer amendments inserted by a majority of the military committee against the protests of the president and army war college. It assured the passage of the bill as drawn by the army experts.

The vote to sustain the provisions of the administration bill was 279 to 98.

Vote Without Record.

As today's vote in the house was in committee of the whole it was taken by the tellers and without record. The record vote comes later on passage of the bill. While the administration supporters were winning their victory in the house the debate was proceeding on the bill in the senate. The chances of the administration bill have been considered better in the senate than they were in the house and for that reason the administration forces planned to pass the senate bill first.

PROSPECT OF LABOR TROUBLE IS SHOWN BY GERMAN PRESS

Copenhagen, April 28.—(Via London.)—The prospect of grave labor troubles throughout Germany on May-day overshadows everything else in the German press.

General Groener's address to the reichstag committee, the manifesto of the Federation of Labor against strikes and editorial appeals to the same purport predominate in the newspapers, the news of the great battle of Arras and the general military situation being very much subordinated.

Where there is so much smoke there evidently must be some fire. The manifesto of the Metal Workers' union, the organization which took the leading part in the previous strike, is worded in a curiously dubious manner. While ostensibly directed against agitators it gives the impression of being a very half-hearted document. The manifesto argues that a general strike is unnecessary because stoppage of work in the iron works, munitions plants and transportation systems would be sufficient to immeasurably increase the difficulties of the situation.

It adds that the decision to strike can, according to the constitution of the union, only be taken by the executive officers after amicable solution has failed. One of the methods by which the agitators are apparently working is the spread of rumors of a further impending reduction of rations. The Berlin city authorities have appealed to the public to report persons spreading these rumors to the police.

SAYS WORK WILL NOT CEASE.

Amsterdam, April 28.—Via London, 5 p. m.—The Berlin socialist newspaper, Vorwaerts, publishes a declaration of the general committee of trades unions asserting that the German working classes will not cease work on May 1, and deploring the circulation of fly sheets inciting the workers to a political or revolutionary strike on that day. These fly sheets, says the declaration, do not emanate from the social democratic party, but from persons who have nothing in common with the labor movement. It concludes: "Strikes for purposes of political demonstrations are at present irresponsible and must be sharply condemned."

GUATEMALA HAS CUT RELATIONS WITH GERMANY

Washington, April 28.—Guatemala has broken off diplomatic relations with Germany; handed to the German minister his passports and cancelled the exequaturs of German consuls there.

GERMAN MINISTER QUITS RIO.

Rio Janeiro, April 28.—Adolf Pauli, German minister to Brazil, left Rio Janeiro last night with his staff for Uruguay. The Dutch minister took charge of the German interests in Brazil.

The Brazilian government had offered to send Herr Pauli to a neutral port on board a Brazilian-Lloyd liner together with his staff and all German consuls and their families. The British and French authorities refused, however, to issue safe conducts unless the ship sailed for a Scandinavian port and put into an allied harbor for examination similar to that submitted to by the vessel which carried the German ambassador from the United States.

The German government, however, declared that it was impossible to warn all its naval units in time to assure a safe voyage through the danger zones. It was consequently decided that Herr Pauli should go to Uruguay, giving him the choice of traveling by sea or land. The minister decided that he preferred to make the journey by land and was accommodated with a special train to the Uruguayan frontier.

Congress to Decide War Issue.

The decision as to whether Brazil will follow up her breach of relations with Germany by a declaration of war will be made by the Brazilian congress when it convenes on May 3. The administration has decided it has fulfilled its duty in decreeing a cessation of diplomatic relations and further action lies in the province of the congress. This decision, it is stated in high official quarters will not be altered except in the case of a fresh attack on Brazilian interests by Germany. Congress will be asked to declare that a state of war has been created by the act of Germany. If this action is taken it will be followed by the seizure of German ships in Brazilian ports, the opening of these ports to warships of the allies and other measures taken of a military character.

Amsterdam, April 28.—Via London, 5 p. m.—The Berlin socialist newspaper, Vorwaerts, publishes a declaration of the general committee of trades unions asserting that the German working classes will not cease work on May 1, and deploring the circulation of fly sheets inciting the workers to a political or revolutionary strike on that day. These fly sheets, says the declaration, do not emanate from the social democratic party, but from persons who have nothing in common with the labor movement. It concludes: "Strikes for purposes of political demonstrations are at present irresponsible and must be sharply condemned."

YANKEE "TANK" IN ACTION AMAZES WESTERNERS.

(Staff Special.)

San Francisco, Cal., April 2 —The terrifying stunts performed by a "tank" in actual warfare were demonstrated by companies of the coast artillery corps, National Guard, in a mimic battle on the sand dunes off the Pacific ocean, near here, the other day, before an amazed audience of patriots.

Spectators of the mock battle stared in astonishment as the ponderous tractor ambled its way into action with an attacking force, proceeding against entrenched troops.

The monster plowed its way through all obstacles, clambering easily through dense underbrush, crashing through barbed wire entanglements and crushing wooden houses with all of the startling efficiency of the British type that bewildered the Germans in France.

The Yankee "tank" consisted of a 14-ton caterpillar traction engine, encased in a lighter weight model of the armor plate used in real war. Two rapid fire one-pound guns were mounted in the conning tower which revolved to sweep the entire field.

Seven men were in the crew which operated the big machine during the engagement. One man attended to the steering and was warned of immediate obstacles by two lookouts on enclosed running boards on each side of the engine. One man took care of the engine and the other three operated the "one-pounders" in the protected conning tower.

The "battle" ended in a complete tactical victory for the attackers. The troops in the trench were routed when the big "tank" straddled their defense and theoretically killed or vanquished all of the defenders.

WARRIOR OF FRANCE HERO

Joffre's Chief of Staff Attracts Attention in Washington.

COL. FABY'S LIFE FULL OF THRILLS

Stories of Gallantry in War Bring Crowd to His Heels.

Washington, April 28—Lieut.-Col. Jean Fabry, Marshal Joffre's chief of staff, attracted almost as much attention in the streets of Washington today as his superior when stories of his gallantry in action became known.

"The blue devil of France," as he is known in his own country, probably has experienced as many thrills as any man in the French army.

As commander of a battalion of Alpine chausseurs he led his men into battles of the Marne, Ypres, Dixmude, Arras and in the Vosges. In a gallant action in which his battalion carried by assault a position on the height of Reichacherkopf, Lieut.-Col. Fabry lost a leg.

Wears a Wooden Leg.

M. Hovelaque speaking of him today, said: "The 'blue devil of France' is grateful to America for the wooden leg he is wearing, but he is not so grateful at the price he had to pay for it. Col. Fabry is a remarkable man. He has been wounded several times, and has seen some of the most dreadful things that have occurred in the war. Here is what happened at the Yser:

"Fabry, in command of about 1,600 men, defended a long line for a week against German line after German line that sought to break through. The earth was soft, so soft, in fact, that the only parapet that could stand had to be made out of some other substance. He used the dead bodies of Germans and when they decomposed he would discard them and would throw out a hook and haul up more bodies for the same purpose.

Buries Friend; Fights On

His best friend was killed beside him. Because of the nature of the earth it was possible to dig down only a foot before striking water. He buried the man and then for days lived and fought for France with only a foot of earth separating him from the body of his friend. Terrible hardships were experienced. Food and ammunition had to be brought up with great danger under cover of darkness and it was impossible to move the body until some time later. The Germans, it might be added, did not break through the lines held by the "Blue Devil of France."

Russians Will Fight.

Leaders of Russian citizens in the United States have told the adjutant general they will be able to enlist large numbers of their countrymen. Italians and Rumanians sent similar word. Armenians and Syrians have taken up with the department the question of how they might quietly enroll members for a military unit to fight Germany. Their case presents a difficult problem, inasmuch as they are subjects of Turkey, with which the United States is not at war. Not being American citizens they could not fight under the American flag and for them to go to a battle front under a Turkish flag would cause the odd situation of subjects of Germany's ally acting on the enemy side. Many of them are said to want to fight Turkey in retaliation for Turkey's abuse of Armenians and Syrians in their own country and believe they can accomplish something to the same effect by striking at Turkey indirectly through her German ally.

force or rigid authority. For instance, we might have arrested Lenine but we have accomplished far more by allowing him absolute freedom of speech and action. The result is that he is fully discredited and has actually done an unintentional service to his country by the reduction of the views of himself and his adherents to absurdity.

"You hear stories of the tremendous number of deserters from the front as if desertion was a new and unheard of crime in Russia. Yet before the revolution more than one million cases of desertion were reported every year. Compare that with the present facts. Just after the revolution a number of soldiers did leave their positions and return home, but desertion has now ceased and telegrams have been received from all points in Russia that large bodies of deserters are asking permission to return to the front and protect the country against the possibility of a German advance.

Gaps Long Ago Filled.

"Gaps in the ranks were long ago filled with returning soldiers who went back not because they were compelled to, but because the spirit which directed the revolution was a desire to save the country. The army is now actually stronger than ever and it is moved by new impulses—enthusiasm and a desire to fight."

Minister Kerensky then turned to a consideration of conditions in the factories. He said that despite all assertions to the contrary the factories were putting out more ammunition than before the revolution. Regarding peace the minister said:

"Russia wants peace on the terms proposed by President Wilson. The revolution and the entrance of the United States into the war have somewhat changed the objects for which we are fighting. We want peace restored without annexation or indemnity and favor a conference with the allies to determine how this can be attained."

Opponents Stunned.

The volunteer sponsors were astounded at the tremendous strength developed by the administration forces. When the members lined up to pass the tellers, it looked almost as if the whole house was about to vote for conscription.

Chairman Dent, of the military committee, heading the volunteer forces, finally gave up counting the votes. Miss Rankin, the Montana member, voted for the volunteer amendments, as did Speaker Clark and Chairman Padgett, of the naval committee. Republican Leader Mann voted for conscription.

Democratic leader Kitchin, busy with revenue legislation, did not vote. When Representative Saunders, of Virginia, pressing, announced the Kahn amendment had carried, 279 to 98, there were thunderous applause from the floor and the crowded galleries.

Debate in the Senate.

The senate met at 10 a. m. after a session that lasted until early this morning during which a number of senators, including Mr. LaFollette, spoke on the bill. Several senators still were to be heard today.

Debate in the senate today was begun by Senator Harding, of Ohio, in support of the administration bill, and also his amendment to permit Colonel Roosevelt to raise four divisions of volunteers for immediate service abroad. Senator Harding said the amendment was not to be misconstrued as inimical to the general plan of conscription which he endorsed. "It does not underestimate the impressiveness of our deliberate preparation of any army of a million men," he said, "while laying the foundation of ten million more if need be, to say that an immediate force of American volunteers would put new life in every allied trench and a new glow in every allied camp fire on every battlefront in Europe."

Would Send Roosevelt.

Senators Curtis, republican of Kansas, and Smith, republican, of Michigan, also endorsed the Roosevelt plan. Senator Lodge spoke at length in its favor.

"I can see no reason why men over 25, who earnestly desire to fight for their country in France, if physically fit, should not be permitted to offer their lives if they want to. It cannot injure the principle of universal compulsory service," said Senator Lodge. "The one man who would be able to raise these divisions alone would be Colonel Roosevelt. He is known in Europe as is no other American. His presence there would be a help and encouragement for the soldiers of the allied nations.

Marshal Joffre, if he could express an opinion, would favor the Roosevelt expedition, Senator Lodge predicted. "It is impossible for me to conceive why the administration or congress should refuse to Col. Roosevelt and his volunteers the opportunity to give their lives to the country if they so desire," said the Massachusetts senator. "Colonel Roosevelt does not seek their command unless as a subordinate officer. He would have the expedition under a regular army officer. It is not personal self-seeking. For heaven's sake, is there any reason why he should not be given an opportunity to give his life for what he regards as the most sacred of all causes?" asked Mr. Lodge.

Sulzer Would Raise Division.

Senator Stone, of Missouri, suggested that former Governor Sulzer, of New York, also desired to raise a division.

"If any man by his own personal influence or weight in his community can raise a division under this amendment," Senator Lodge replied, "I shall be glad to see him do it."

Senator Williams, of Mississippi, said he favored allowing Col. Roosevelt to recruit a volunteer expedition, but not to command it.

"He is competent to command a regiment, but by no means a division," said Senator Williams. "I would like to see him there, but not as commander-in-chief. I also would like to see ten thousand American regulars; they would show those European folks something, just like the Canadians. I have no personal objection to Col. Roosevelt going."

Registering his approval of conscription, Senator Williams said he favored it for one reason, because it will "weed out loyal and disloyal Americans."

"There are one million traitors in America, including a considerable number of German spies," he said. "I want to weed out that element. If they resist the draft they will be interned. This conscription will separate the loyal and disloyal Americans."

Senate Bars Booze From Camps.

In its first vote on the administration army bill today the senate adopted a most drastic prohibition amendment making it unlawful to sell or give any liquor, wine or beer to any officer or man in uniform or knowingly furnish liquors to any person in the army.

ranks of the German workers and the government is haunted by the fear that May day, the great international socialist holiday, may see an outbreak which will shake the whole imperial fabric.

The general strike planned by the socialist radicals is not confined to Germany but includes Austria-Hungary as well, is indicated by one of the rare dispatches which have come through from Vienna. The Arbiter Zeitung, organ of the Austrian socialists, accepts it as granted that a strike will occur throughout the dual monarchy on May 1, and urges the workers to limit the demonstration to that day and return to work on May 2.

The situation in Germany appears to be that the empire is divided into three great factions with the feeling between the three growing rapidly in bitterness.

First comes the old junker class, which still talks of a victorious war ending in annexations and indemnities.

Second is the socialist majority, which is exerting all its influence to force the government into a declaration that it desires neither the money nor the land of Germany's foes.

The third party is headed by the radical socialists and includes an unknown but apparently considerable body of the workers, sick of the war, disheartened by the diminishing food rations and demanding that peace be obtained at once whatever the cost.

The only point in common between the three parties seems to be to make Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg the target of all their shafts.

The majority socialists appear to have the inner track at present. An incident of possible significance has occurred in connection with the visit of Talait Bey, Turkish vizier to Berlin. After conferences with the chancellor, the Turkish premier is quoted in a Berlin dispatch as saying that Turkey was ready to make peace and desired no annexation.

After days of disconcerting and dubious report from Russia, more reassuring news has been received. The general scrapping of generals on the fighting line has taken place, and Minister Kerensky declares the army is in better shape that ever before, and resolute to continue the war.

FRENCH RAID AT VERDUN.

Paris, April 28.—Noon—Heavy artillery fighting occurred last night between St. Quentin and the Oise, and in the Champagne, the war office reports.

On the Verdun front the French raided German trenches west of the Meuse and brought back prisoners from the sector of hill 304. Since April 16, the French have captured 175 cannon of all calibres, 412 machine guns and 119 trench mortars. The number of prisoners has reached 20,780.

NEW BRITISH ATTACK.

London, April 28.—The British have opened an attack along several miles along the front of the Scarpe river, according to an official announcement issued by the war office today. The British troops are making good progress in the face of considerable opposition, the announcement says. The fighting continues.

ANOTHER ATTACK LAUNCHED.

British Headquarters in France, April 28.—Via London, 2:30 p. m.—(From a staff correspondent of the Associated Press.)—Another attack was launched by the British early this morning. The blow was struck on the front between the Scarpe river and Lens, on the ground over which some of the most desperate fighting has occurred since the British inaugurated their offensive on Easter Monday. The struggle now in progress is very bitter. The Germans, in anticipation of another British effort, had brought up reinforcements. Fresh German divisions have been identified by the British.

In today's drive the British faced a well organized trench system, protected by wire entanglements and held by strong forces of Germans. The artillery preparations, which had been in progress for several days, did much damage to the defense works, but there remained many troublesome strong points between Rouex, just north of the Scrape and Gavrelle.

North of Gavrelle satisfactory progress was made so far as could be judged and early in the day prisoners were being brought back. South of this place the British got on toward Greenland hill, taking a trench north of Monchy.

It is reported that the British have occupied the town of Arleux and half of Oppy, but furious German counter attacks are developing and the situation is one of surging changes.

The fiercest imaginable fight is under way for the wood west of Rouex. The weather is favorable. The airmen are very active.

and revealed the fact that the total enrollment has reached the large figure of 824. Of this number 134 attend the day school and 690 the evening school.

In the boys' day school, the courses are two years in length and each subject is taught by one teacher. The enrollment in the courses are as follows: Auto repairing, 17; cabinet work, 15; electrical wiring, 24; machine shop, 14; printing, 10; commercial, 18.

Three teachers are employed in instructing the class in homemaking in the girls' day school, in which class thirty-six are enrolled. Four are enrolled in the dressmaking class.

In each of the seventeen courses available at the night school one teacher does the instructing. With the exception of gymnastics, drafting and mechanics for machinists, which are taught but once a week the classes convene two evenings a week. The first four classes named are for women and all the remainder are for men. They are as follows:

Cookery, 180; dressmaking, 104; millinery, 38; gymnastic, 30; architectural drafting, 18; auto construction, 33; mat for machinists, 32; drafting for machinists, 18; mechanics for machinists, 18; English for foreigners, 40; auto repairing, 30; carpentry, 20; air brake practice, 15; printing, 30; electrical, 16; machinists, 24; commercial, 45.

found "five or six" bodies early today but had removed none. One hundred and nineteen men were entombed.

Rescue Crews Go Slowly.

The same official, asked if there was hope for any of the others being alive, said:

"We always hope."

The rescue crews are unable to make their way on the main mine slope, but by working along the air ways have "gone considerable distance into it," according to a mine company official.

The working in which the men are entombed is a running tunnel opening from the main mine entrance. Above this, also opening from the main entrance, is an almost level tunnel, abandoned some time ago. For several years this has been an fire. Since it was abandoned, however, and the fire was only smouldering, it was sealed off from the rest of the mine with an air tight wall and work continued much as usual in the other sections.

Air ducts run into the stope where the men were trapped and large amounts of air have been pumped into these ever since the fire was discovered, in the hope that it might keep the men from suffocating.

Chance Looks Poor.

The fact that smoke continues to pour from the mine led company officials to fear that the air ducts have been broken and the steady current of air being forced through them is only fanning the flames. The mine officials are in a quandary. If they continue to force air into the mine, they may only fan the flames to greater fierceness, and fire or smoke may destroy all chances of the men to escape. On the other hand, the current of air may be all that enables some living miners to avoid suffocation in the smoke. It is snowing in Delagua canyon, where the mine is located, and large numbers of miners' wives and children stand waiting at the mine mouth in the cold. The work of rescue, it was said, was halted at midnight by the smoke at the fifth entry, but early today the crews, refreshed and reinforced, reentered the mine in an effort to penetrate to the main workings, where it is believed most of the men were caught."

CHOKE BOOZE SAYS COLONEL

the navy and asserted that an expeditionary force should be sent to France at once.

Present conscription plans he said would deny service to many men who wished to volunteer. He remarked that when England adopted conscription she did not decline the service of volunteers from Canada and Australia.

Col. Roosevelt will deliver his principal address tonight at the stock yards pavilion, which seats 13,000 persons. On his arrival today Mr. Roosevelt was given a reception reminiscent of the days when he was president.

Would Abolish Booze.

In his luncheon speech Mr. Roosevelt said: "The world is faring a shortage of food. Soon we in this country shall face a shortage of food. Therefore let us use all the grain we have for food and not for intoxicants. Now that the war is on let us forbid any grain or corn being used in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors. Let the government help the farmer by mobilizing labor if necessary and tell our young men that it is a case of farm and arm.

"During the last two years and a half of peace we have been foolish enough not to prepare for war; now that we are at war, let us avoid the further folly of failure to prepare for the great tasks of peace, the tasks with which we will have to deal now while we are at war, and which will be of overwhelming importance as soon as the war is over. As yet our people are not waked up to the vital significance of this war.

"This is because at the moment we are safe behind the British fleet. In the papers yesterday I saw statements from England indicating the greatest alarm by the English over the submarine menace. I do not believe that Germany will be able to make her submarine warfare a success. But there is always a possibility, and if she did succeed it would mean that we would be a helpless victim to Germany.

Three Great Military Needs.

"I appeal primarily for the instant meeting by this nation of the three great military needs of the situation.

"1—We should immediately institute, not only for this war, but as our permanent national policy, the system of universal, obligatory military training and service for all our young men.

"2—We should at the earliest moment strike hard and aggressively at Germany, and this can be done only by sending abroad at the earliest moment an expeditionary force. At least a division should be put in France within the next few weeks, and then put on the firing line as quickly as the allied generals say it is ready; and its numbers kept filled. As rapidly as other divisions can be gotten ready they should be sent over beside; until without an hour's unnecessary delay we accumulate at the front a formidable fighting army, trained in actual service conditions and therefore so far as possible, receiving its intensive training near the fighting lines.

"3—To proceed at once to do everything for the upbuilding of the navy, capital ships, submarines, auxiliaries, cargo ships, everything.

Ready to Fight.

"I believe in universal service so emphatically that I wish to include myself and the men who are anxious to come into the division I desire to help raise. If we are denied this chance, most of us will be denied the chance of all service, under the obligatory system. If two years and a half ago when this war broke out we had introduced as (nothing but our blindness prevented) the principle of universal, obligatory service we would now have had an ample force of trained men."

CHARLES SNELL ENDS LIFE WITH REVOLVER

Well Known Auburn Man Commits Suicide While in Fit of Despondency.

Auburn, Ind., April 28.—After lying four hours with a gaping bullet wound in his head, Charles Snell passed away at 5 o'clock Friday evening at the home of his mother, Mrs. Sophia Snell, of East Seventeenth street. Mr. Snell who has been in failing health for some time, was left alone a few moments Friday afternoon when his mother stepped into a neighbor's. He took advantage of the opportunity and with a bull dog revolver sent a bullet into his brain. When his mother returned she found him lying on the bed with an ugly wound in his head. Physicians were called at once and everything possible done to save him but he died three hours later without having gained consciousness. Mr. Snell had worked in Garrrett for several years. He has been suffering for some time with a double hernia and owing to his great weight he feared an operation. He knew that he would have to submit to the knife before his health would improve and this thought worried him continually, and is undoubtedly the cause of his committing suicide. Funeral arrangements have not been made. He was 39 years old and leaves his mother and a brother.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

ETNA GREEN MAN HELD FOR ASSAULT

Merl Reggin is Arrested for Alleged Attack on Ella Elder With Murderous Intent.

Warsaw, Ind., April 28.—Merl Reggin, of Etna Green, was brought to Warsaw Friday morning by Marshal Charles Moon and lodged in the juvenile department of the jail, following an affidavit sworn to by Peter Edler, of Etna Green, that the said Merl Reggin Thursday attacked his wife, Ella Elder, with a brick and stove poker with premeditated malice to kill and murder.

The accused is only sixteen years of age and is now under a parole from Plainfield.

There is considerable excitement in and around Etna Green over the affair. The condition of Mrs. Elder, however, is not considered at all critical.

YANKEE "TANK" IN ACTION AMAZES WESTERNERS.

(Staff Special.)

San Francisco, Cal., April 2 —The terrifying stunts performed by a "tank" in actual warfare were demonstrated by companies of the coast artillery corps, National Guard, in a mimic battle on the sand dunes off the Pacific ocean, near here, the other day, before an amazed audience of patriots.

Spectators of the mock battle stared in astonishment as the ponderous tractor ambled its way into action with an attacking force, proceeding against entrenched troops.

The monster plowed its way through all obstacles, clambering easily through dense underbrush, crashing through barbed wire entanglements and crushing wooden houses with all of the startling efficiency of the British type that bewildered the Germans in France.

The Yankee "tank" consisted of a 14-ton caterpillar traction engine, encased in a lighter weight model of the armor plate used in real war. Two rapid fire one-pound guns were mounted in the conning tower which revolved to sweep the entire field.

Seven men were in the crew which operated the big machine during the engagement. One man attended to the steering and was warned of immediate obstacles by two lookouts on enclosed running boards on each side of the engine. One man took care of the engine and the other three operated the "one-pounders" in the protected conning tower.

The "battle" ended in a complete tactical victory for the attackers. The troops in the trench were routed when the big "tank" straddled their defense and theoretically killed or vanquished all of the defenders.

WARRIOR OF FRANCE HERO

Joffre's Chief of Staff Attracts Attention in Washington.

COL. FABY'S LIFE FULL OF THRILLS

Stories of Gallantry in War Bring Crowd to His Heels.

Washington, April 28—Lieut.-Col. Jean Fabry, Marshal Joffre's chief of staff, attracted almost as much attention in the streets of Washington today as his superior when stories of his gallantry in action became known.

"The blue devil of France," as he is known in his own country, probably has experienced as many thrills as any man in the French army.

As commander of a battalion of Alpine chausseurs he led his men into battles of the Marne, Ypres, Dixmude, Arras and in the Vosges. In a gallant action in which his battalion carried by assault a position on the height of Reichacherkopf, Lieut.-Col. Fabry lost a leg.

Wears a Wooden Leg.

M. Hovelaque speaking of him today, said: "The 'blue devil of France' is grateful to America for the wooden leg he is wearing, but he is not so grateful at the price he had to pay for it. Col. Fabry is a remarkable man. He has been wounded several times, and has seen some of the most dreadful things that have occurred in the war. Here is what happened at the Yser:

"Fabry, in command of about 1,600 men, defended a long line for a week against German line after German line that sought to break through. The earth was soft, so soft, in fact, that the only parapet that could stand had to be made out of some other substance. He used the dead bodies of Germans and when they decomposed he would discard them and would throw out a hook and haul up more bodies for the same purpose.

Buries Friend; Fights On

His best friend was killed beside him. Because of the nature of the earth it was possible to dig down only a foot before striking water. He buried the man and then for days lived and fought for France with only a foot of earth separating him from the body of his friend. Terrible hardships were experienced. Food and ammunition had to be brought up with great danger under cover of darkness and it was impossible to move the body until some time later. The Germans, it might be added, did not break through the lines held by the "Blue Devil of France."

The uniform of officers of the Alpine chausseurs is blue.

Russians Will Fight.

Leaders of Russian citizens in the United States have told the adjutant general they will be able to enlist large numbers of their countrymen. Italians and Rumanians sent similar word. Armenians and Syrians have taken up with the department the question of how they might quietly enroll members for a military unit to fight Germany. Their case presents a difficult problem, inasmuch as they are subjects of Turkey, with which the United States is not at war. Not being American citizens they could not fight under the American flag and for them to go to a battle front under a Turkish flag would cause the odd situation of subjects of Germany's ally acting on the enemy side. Many of them are said to want to fight Turkey in retaliation for Turkey's abuse of Armenians and Syrians in their own country and believe they can accomplish something to the same effect by striking at Turkey indirectly through her German ally.

force or rigid authority. For instance, we might have arrested Lenine but we have accomplished far more by allowing him absolute freedom of speech and action. The result is that he is fully discredited and has actually done an unintentional service to his country by the reduction of the views of himself and his adherents to absurdity.

"You hear stories of the tremendous number of deserters from the front as if desertion was a new and unheard of crime in Russia. Yet before the revolution more than one million cases of desertion were reported every year. Compare that with the present facts. Just after the revolution a number of soldiers did leave their positions and return home, but desertion has now ceased and telegrams have been received from all points in Russia that large bodies of deserters are asking permission to return to the front and protect the country against the possibility of a German advance.

Gaps Long Ago Filled.

"Gaps in the ranks were long ago filled with returning soldiers who went back not because they were compelled to, but because the spirit which directed the revolution was a desire to save the country. The army is now actually stronger than ever and it is moved by new impulses—enthusiasm and a desire to fight."

Minister Kerensky then turned to a consideration of conditions in the factories. He said that despite all assertions to the contrary the factories were putting out more ammunition than before the revolution. Regarding peace the minister said:

"Russia wants peace on the terms proposed by President Wilson. The revolution and the entrance of the United States into the war have somewhat changed the objects for which we are fighting. We want peace restored without annexation or indemnity and favor a conference with the allies to determine how this can be attained."

HOUSE STRIKES OUT VOLUNTEER SYSTEM PLAN

Opponents Stunned.

The volunteer sponsors were astounded at the tremendous strength developed by the administration forces. When the members lined up to pass the tellers, it looked almost as if the whole house was about to vote for conscription.

Chairman Dent, of the military committee, heading the volunteer forces, finally gave up counting the votes. Miss Rankin, the Montana member, voted for the volunteer amendments, as did Speaker Clark and Chairman Padgett, of the naval committee. Republican Leader Mann voted for conscription.

Democratic leader Kitchin, busy with revenue legislation, did not vote. When Representative Saunders, of Virigina, presiding, announced the Kahn amendment had carried, 279 to 98, there were thunderous applause from the floor and the crowded galleries.

Debate in the Senate.

The senate met at 10 a. m. after a session that lasted until early this morning during which a number of senators, including Mr. LaFollette, spoke on the bill. Several senators still were to be heard today.

Debate in the senate today was begun by Senator Harding, of Ohio, in support of the administration bill, and also his amendment to permit Colonel Roosevelt to raise four divisions of volunteers for immediate service abroad. Senator Harding said the amendment was not to be misconstrued as inimical to the general plan of conscription which he endorsed. "It does not underestimate the impressiveness of our deliberate preparation of any army of a million men," he said, "while laying the foundation of ten million more if need bd, to say that an immediate force of American volunteers would put new life in every allied trench and a new glow in every allied camp fire on every battlefront in Europe."

Would Send Roosevelt.

Senators Curtis, republican of Kansas, and Smith, republican, of Michigan, also endorsed the Roosevelt plan. Senator Lodge spoke at length in its favor.

"I can see no reason why men over 25, who earnestly desire to fight for their country in France, if physically fit, should not be permitted to offer their lives if they want to. It cannot injure the principle of universal compulsory service," said Senator Lodge. "The one man who would be able to raise these divisions alone would be Colonel Roosevelt. He is known in Europe as is no other American. His presence there would be a help and encouragement for the soldiers of the allied nations.

Marshal Joffre, if he could express an opinion, would favor the Roosevelt expedition, Senator Lodge predicted. "It is impossible for me to conceive why the administration or congress should refuse to Col. Roosevelt and his volunteers the opportunity to give their lives to the country if they so desire," said the Massachusetts senator. "Colonel Roosevelt does not seek their command unless as a subordinate officer. He would have the expedition under a regular army officer. It is not personal self-seeking. For heavens sake, is there any reason why he should not be given an opportunity to give his life for what he regards as the most sacred of all causes?" asked Mr. Lodge.

Sulzer Would Raise Division.

Senator Stone, of Missouri, suggested that former Governor Sulzer, of New York, also desired to raise a division.

"If any man by his own personal influence or weight in his community can raise a division under this amendment," Senator Lodge replied, "I shall be glad to see him do it."

Senator Williams, of Mississippi, said he favored allowing Col. Roosevelt to recruit a volunteer expedition, but not to command it.

"He is competent to command a regiment, but by no means a division," said Senator Williams. "I would like to see him there, but not as commander-in-chief. I also would like to see ten thousand American regulars; they would show those European folks something, just like the Canadians. I have no personal objection to Col. Roosevelt going."

Registering his approval of conscription, Senator Williams said he favored it for one reason, because it will "weed out loyal and disloyal Americans."

"There are one million traitors in America, including a considerable number of German spies," he said. "I want to weed out that element. If they resist the draft they will be interned. This conscription will separate the loyal and disloyal Americans."

Senate Bars Booze From Camps.

In its first vote on the administration army bill today the senate adopted a most drastic prohibition amendment making it unlawful to sell or give any liquor, wine or beer to any officer or man in uniform or knowingly furnish liquors to any person in the army.

ranks of the German workers and the government is haunted by the fear that May day, the great international socialist holiday, may see an outbreak which will shake the whole imperial fabric.

The general strike planned by the socialist radicals is not confined to Germany but includes Austria-Hungary as well, is indicated by one of the rare dispatches which have come through from Vienna. The Arbiter Zeitung, organ of the Austrian socialists, accepts it as granted that a strike will occur throughout the dual monarchy on May 1, and urges the workers to limit the demonstration to that day and return to work on May 2.

The situation in Germany appears to be that the empire is divided into three great factions with the feeling between the three growing rapidly in bitterness.

First comes the old junker class, which still talks of a victorious war ending in annexations and indemnities.

Second is the socialist majority, which is exerting all its influence to force the government into a declaration that it desires neither the money nor the land of Germany's foes.

The third party is headed by the radical socialists and includes an unknown but apparently considerable body of the workers, sick of the war, disheartened by the diminishing food rations and demanding that peace be obtained at once whatever the cost.

The only point in common between the three parties seems to be to make Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg the target of all their shafts.

The majority socialists appear to have the inner track at present. An incident of possible significance has occurred in connection with the visit of Talait Bey, Turkish vizier to Berlin. After conferences with the chancellor, the Turkish premier is quoted in a Berlin dispatch as saying that Turkey was ready to make peace and desired no annexation.

After days of disconcerting and dubious report from Russia, more reassuring news has been received. The general scrapping of generals on the fighting line has taken place, and Minister Kerensky declares the army is in better shape that ever before, and resolute to continue the war.

FRENCH RAID AT VERDUN.

Paris, April 28.—Noon—Heavy artillery fighting occurred last night between St. Quentin and the Oise, and in the Champagne, the war office reports.

On the Verdun front the French raided German trenches west of the Meuse and brought back prisoners from the sector of hill 304. Since April 16, the French have captured 175 cannon of all calibres, 412 machine guns and 119 trench mortars. The number of prisoners has reached 20,780.

NEW BRITISH ATTACK.

London, April 28.—The British have opened an attack along several miles along the front of the Scarpe river, according to an official announcement issued by the war office today. The British troops are making good progress in the face of considerable opposition, the announcement says. The fighting continues.

ANOTHER ATTACK LAUNCHED.

British Headquarters in France, April 28.—Via London, 2:30 p. m.—(From a staff correspondent of the Associated Press.)—Another attack was launched by the British early this morning. The blow was struck on the front between the Scarpe river and Lens, on the ground over which some of the most desperate fighting has occurred since the British inaugurated their offensive on Easter Monday. The struggle now in progress is very bitter. The Germans, in anticipation of another British effort, had brought up reinforcements. Fresh German divisions have been identified by the British.

In today's drive the British faced a well organized trench system, protected by wire entanglements and held by strong forces of Germans. The artillery preparations, which had been in progress for several days, did much damage to the defense works, but there remained many troublesome strong points between Rouex, just north of the Scrape and Gavrelle.

North of Gavrelle satisfactory progress was made so far as could be judged and early in the day prisoners were being brought back. South of this place the British got on toward Greenland hill, taking a trench north of Monchy.

It is reported that the British have occupied the town of Arleux and half of Oppy, but furious German counter attacks are developing and the situation is one of surging changes.

found "five or six" bodies early today but had removed none. One hundred and nineteen men were entombed.

Rescue Crews Go Slowly.

The same official, asked if there was hope for any of the others being alive, said:

"We always hope."

The rescue crews are unable to make their way on the main mine slope, but by working along the air ways have "gone considerable distance into it," according to a mine company official.

The working in which the men are entombed is a running tunnel opening from the main mine entrance. Above this, also opening from the main entrance, is an almost level tunnel, abandoned some time ago. For several years this has been on fire. Since it was abandoned, however, and the fire was only smouldering, it was sealed off from the rest of the mine with an air tight wall and work continued much as usual in the other sections.

Air ducts run into the stope where the men were trapped and large amounts of air have been pumped into these ever since the fire was discovered, in the hope that it might keep the men from suffocating.

Chance Looks Poor.

The fact that smoke continues to pour from the mine led company officials to fear that the air ducts have been broken and the steady current of air being forced through them is only fanning the flames. The mine officials are in a quandary. If they continue to force air into the mine, they may only fan the flames to greater fierceness, and fire or smoke may destroy all chances of the men to escape. On the other hand, the current of air may be all that enables some living miners to avoid suffocation in the smoke. It is snowing in Delagua canyon, where the mine is located, and large numbers of miners' wives and children stand waiting at the mine mouth in the cold. The work of rescue, it was said, was halted at midnight by the smoke at the fifth entry, but early today the crews, refreshed and reinforced, reentered the mine in an effort to penetrate to the main workings, where it is believed most of the men were caught."

CHOKE BOOZE SAYS COLONEL

the navy and asserted that an expeditionary force should be sent to France at once.

Present conscription plans he said would deny service to many men who wished to volunteer. He remarked that when England adopted conscription she did not decline the service of volunteers from Canada and Australia.

Col. Roosevelt will deliver his principal address tonight at the stock yards pavilion, which seats 13,000 persons. On his arrival today Mr. Roosevelt was given a reception reminiscent of the days when he was president.

Would Abolish Booze.

In his luncheon speech Mr. Roosevelt said: "The world is facing a shortage of food. Soon we in this country shall face a shortage of food. Therefore let us use all the grain we have for food and not for intoxicants. Now that the war is on let us forbid any grain or corn being used in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors. Let the government help the farmer by mobilizing labor if necessary and tell our young men that it is a case of farm and arm.

"During the last two years and a half of peace we have been foolish enough not to prepare for war; now that we are at war, let us avoid the further folly of failure to prepare for the great tasks of peace, the tasks with which we will have to deal now while we are at war, and which will be of overwhelming importance as soon as the war is over. As yet our people are not waked up to the vital significance of this war.

"This is because at the moment we are safe behind the British fleet. In the papers yesterday I saw statements from England indicating the greatest alarm by the English over the submarine menace. I do not believe that Germany will be able to make her submarine warfare a success. But there is always a possibility, and if she did succeed it would mean that we would be a helpless victim to Germany.

Three Great Military Needs.

"I appeal primarily for the instant meeting by this nation of the three great military needs of the situation.

"1—We should immediately institute, not only for this war, but as our permanent national policy, the system of universal, obligatory military training and service for all our young men.

"2—We should at the earliest moment strike hard and aggressively at Germany, and this can be done only by sending abroad at the earliest moment an expeditionary force. At least a division should be put in France within the next few weeks, and then put on the firing line as quickly as the allied generals say it is ready; and its numbers kept filled. As rapidly as other divisions can be gotten ready they should be sent over beside: until without an hour's unnecessary delay we accumulate at the front a formidable fighting army, trained in actual service conditions and therefore so far as possible, receiving its intensive training near the fighting lines.

"3—To proceed at once to do everything for the upbuilding of the navy, capital ships, submarines, auxiliaries, cargo ships, everything.

Ready to Fight.

"I believe in universal service so emphatically that I wish to include myself and the men who are anxious to come into the division I desire to help raise. If we are denied this chance, most of us will be denied the chance of all service, under the obligatory system. If two years and a half ago when this war broke out we had introduced us (nothing but our blindness prevented) the principle of universal, obligatory service we would now have had an ample force of trained men."

CHARLES SNELL ENDS LIFE WITH REVOLVER

Well Known Auburn Man Commits Suicide While in Fit of Despondency.

Auburn, Ind., April 28.—After lying four hours with a gaping bullet wound in his head, Charles Snell passed away at 5 o'clock Friday evening at the home of his mother, Mrs. Sophia Snell, of East Seventeenth street. Mr. Snell who has been in failing health for some time, was left alone a few moments Friday afternoon when his mother stepped into a neighbor's. He took advantage of the opportunity and with a bull dog revolver sent a bullet into his brain. When his mother returned she found him lying on the bed with an ugly wound in his head. Physicians were called at once and everything possible done to save him but he died three hours later without having gained consciousness. Mr. Snell had worked in Garrett for several years. He knew that he would have to submit to the knife before his health would improve and this thought worried him continually, and is undoubtedly the cause of his committing suicide. Funeral arrangements have not been made. He was 39 years old and leaves his mother and a brother.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

Matt. 21:1-17.

1 And when they drew nigh unto Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto the mount of Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples,

2 Saying unto them, Go into the village over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me.

3 And if any man say aught unto you, ye shall say, The Lord hath need of them; and straightway he will send them.

4 All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying,

5 Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass.

6 And the disciples went, and did as Jesus commanded them,

7 And brought the ass, and the colt, and put on them their clothes, and they set him thereon.

8 And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way; others cut down branches from the trees, and strewed them in the way.

9 And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna to the Son of David: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest.

10 And when he was come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, Who is this?

11 And the multitude said, This is Jesus the prophet of Nazareth of Galilee.

Sunday, April 29—Luke 19:29-40.

29 And it come to pass, when he was come nigh to Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount called the mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples,

30 Saying, Go ye into the village over against you; in the which at your entering ye shall find a colt tied, whereon yet never man sat: loose him, and bring him hither.

31 And if any man ask you, Why ye loose him? thus shall ye say unto him, Because the Lord hath need of him.

32 And they that were sent went their way, and found even as he had said unto them.

33 And as they were loosing the colt, the owners thereof said unto them, Why loose ye the colt?

34 And they said, The Lord hath need of him.

35 And they brought him to Jesus: and they cast their garments upon the colt, and they set Jesus thereon.

36 And as he went, they spread their clothes in the way.

37 And when he was come nigh, even now at the descent of the mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoice and praise God with a loud voice for all the mighty works that they had seen;

38 Saying, Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord: peace in heaven and glory in the highest.

39 And some of the Pharisees from among the multitude said unto him, Master, rebuke thy disciples.

40 And he answered and said unto them, I tell you that, if these should hold their peace, the stones would immediately cry out.

The importance of increased food cultivation is shown impressively in the course of the grain markets. July wheat was almost to $2.25 and September wheat almost to $2 a bushel on the Chicago board Friday. It may be that the speculative character of that market has something to do with the price, but the fact that mills about here are paying about $2.75 a bushel for wheat shows the state of supplies on hand and the speculative figures in futures shows what is expected. The last government crop estimate was the most discouraging ever issued, not only in the matter of a blue outlook but in the matter of world conditions that make a short crop of American grain a calamity everywhere.

If there is anything that the grain prospect makes imperative it is that all other food crops be increased to the utmost. Grain must be supplemented with other foodstuffs to a degree never before necessary in the history of this country. Had America only herself to look out for, the wheat crop would be short if the forecasts should be verified by the harvest. With other nations to feed from our stores we must have much more food or eat less food. The grain crops can be adequately supplemented by other foodstuffs. Grain can be economically cultivated only on the farms, or on large tracts whose soil is adapted to the purpose. A great variety of vegetables can be grown to good purpose on tracts of any size—in backyards and on vacant lots.

Home gardens and vacant lot cultivation can achieve wonders toward overcoming the shortages in the American grainfields. It is with this in view that the nation-wide campaign for food-growing in backyards and on idle lands in and about cities where there are great numbers of people to cultivate them has been pressed. This great work can be made to insure not only enough for ourselves and surpluses for the world outside, but enough to keep the costs of living from going beyond the common reach.

The prediction that wheat will reach $4 a bushel before it ever drops again to $2 a bushel may be an exaggerated view, but the course of the market lately has been such as to make clear that bread certainly is not going to be cheap and may not be plentiful during the year that lies ahead. What the grainfields cannot do for us we must in some measure to do for ourselves. There are few who cannot do something.

After having been a month in Washington Representative Jeanette Rankin, of Montana, was unable to find anybody thereabouts who was supporting the administration's selective conscription bill. So the Honorable Rankin telegraphed out home for counsel by which to lay her course. She has received it—"for it, you bet, if you have to go it alone," or words to that effect. That is not surprising, but it is that Representative Rankin—the only lady member and with unexampled facilities for finding out things—should have been a month in Washington and able to encounter any of the men who constitute the majorities that are for the bill in house and senate. Does the Honorable Rankin court only the houn' dawg breed of society on capitol hill?

One perfervid writer, in a somewhat overdone panegyric of General Joffre, ascribes to that grizzled old hero the mission to help President Wilson and the army general staff pass the selective conscription bill. We assume that General Joffre has common sense and decent manners, besides knowing something of the history of his country, not excluding the incident of a certain Citizen Genet, who also came from France to America as an envoy and meddled with domestic political matters. Of all the things that General Joffre did not come to America to do, we suppose, none can be more conspicuously certain than that he did not come here to make an ass and an offense of himself and spill the beans for his country.

THE MYSTERY MYSTERIOUS.

Chapter Six.

Idaresay, the great detectuff, was speechless. "The flims! The flims!" he cried. "What about them? remarked Smyth, his genial assistant, as he folded a neat bow in his ready-made tie.

Idaresay shook from port to stern. At last his warble returned.

"After you retired I went into my experimenting room and worked till just now mixing up the developing chemicals." One could see by his boots and ear muffs he had been laboring madly. "And when I opened the camera to take out the flims," he continued, "they were gone," and he fell in a heap in the coal bucket.

Smyth dashed out, filled up a picher, came in blowing off the suds and pressed the handle to Idaresay's parched lips, then parted his own moustache and emptied the pitcher in two and a half hearty quaffs.

Idaresay started to breathe again, his eyes roamed around the room in an empty stare and his eyelids slowly opened. Regaining speech, he shrieked, "The flims! The flims!"

WOMAN VETERINARIN STARTS HOSPITAL FOR INVALID PETS.

Miss Clare Lamplugh, Ministering to One of the Patinets in Her Veterinary Hospital.

San Francisco, Cal., April 27.—Only woman veterinary surgeon in the west.

Thus titled to minister to the pets of kennel, warren and cage, Miss Clare Lamplugh, who came from London to California some time ago, is opening an animal hospital here to care for the dumb companions of the socially elect.

She has just completed a three-year course in animal surgery and now proudly writes "V. S." after her name.

A pet canine which won a place in her heart inspired Miss Lamplugh to study veterinary science. But much as she values th delstinction of being the only woman in the west to acquire this title in surgery, her greatest satisfaction lies in being able to ease animal suffering.

"They are all my friends," she said "dogs, cats and other pets, dear dumb pals. I am glad to have acquired the science that enables me to help them when they need it most."

The most lasting result of a printer's error is found in the word "cocoanut," which people often think has something to do with cocoa. The original word was coco-nut, from the Spanish word "coco," meaning "grin or grimace," a name bestowed upon the cocoanut owing to its resemblance to the face of a monkey. When Dr. Johnson was compiling his famous dictionary he included the word "cocoanut," but the compositor inserted an "a" instead of the hyphen, and the word appeared as "cocoanut," and has been written so ever since.

Millionaire Works on New Aeroplane

FRANK A. GARBUTT.

(Staff Special.)

Los Angeles, Cal., April 27.—Believing it will revolutionize aerial warfare, Frank A. Garbutt, southern California millionaire aviator and all around sport devotee, is working on an aeroplane motor for use in the coming conflict.

Garbutt, though wealthy, is a natural mechanic and was the first auto driving champion of the west.

Describing his motor, Garbutt says: "This new motor will, I am confident, run 24 hours a day for 30 days and show no appreciable signs of wear. The bearings are very generous, being from five to ten times larger than those of an automobile. The trouble with most air machines is their inability to stand wear and tear of a long flight."

Garbutt believes he can make the trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco, about 500 miles, and back in a day. This sort of air scouting, he says, will prove invaluable in war time.

Garbutt has for years ranked among the leading yachtsmen of the west and is planning to place his "Skid Bladner," a fine pleasure craft, at the service of the government as a submarine chaser. The vessel is capable of mounting light, three pound guns, and because of a shallow craft, would be a poor mark for the undersea boats.

Matt. 21:1-17.

1 And when they drew nigh unto Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto the mount of Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples,
2 Saying unto them, Go into the village over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me.
3 And if any man say aught unto you, ye shall say, The Lord hath need of them; and straightway he will send them.
4 All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying,
5 Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass.
6 And the disciples went, and did as Jesus commanded them,
7 And brought the ass, and the colt, and put on them their clothes, and they set him thereon.
8 And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way; others cut down branches from the trees, and strewed them in the way.
9 And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna to the Son of David: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest.
10 And when he was come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, Who is this?
11 And the multitude said, This is Jesus the prophet of Nazareth of Galilee.

Sunday, April 29—Luke 19:29-40.

29 And it came to pass, when he was come nigh to Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount called the mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples,
30 Saying, Go ye into the village over against you; in the which at your entering ye shall find a colt tied, whereon yet never man sat: loose him, and bring him hither.
31 And if any man ask you, Why ye loose him? thus shall ye say unto him, Because the Lord hath need of him.
32 And they that were sent went their way, and found even as he had said unto them.
33 And as they were loosing the colt, the owners thereof said unto them, Why loose ye the colt?
34 And they said, The Lord hath need of him.
35 And they brought him to Jesus: and they cast their garments upon the colt, and they set Jesus thereon.
36 And as he went, they spread their clothes in the way.
37 And when he was come nigh, even now at the descent of the mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoice and praise God with a loud voice for all the mighty works that they had seen;
38 Saying, Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord: peace in heaven, and glory in the highest.
39 And some of the Pharisees from among the multitude said unto him, Master, rebuke thy disciples.
40 And he answered and said unto them, I tell you that, if these should hold their peace, the stones would immediately cry out.

Vol. LXXXIV ..... No. 190

SATURDAY, APRIL 28, 1917.

Casting Shadows Before.

The importance of increased food cultivation is shown impressively in the course of the grain markets. July wheat was almost to $2.25 and September wheat almost to $2 a bushel on the Chicago board Friday. It may be that the speculative character of that market has something to do with the price, but the fact that mills about here are paying about $2.75 a bushel for wheat shows the state of supplies on hand and the speculative figures in futures shows what is expected. The last government crop estimate was the most discouraging ever issued, not only in the matter of a blue outlook but in the matter of world conditions that make a short crop of American grain a calamity everywhere.

If there is anything that the grain prospect makes imperative it is that all other food crops be increased to the utmost. Grain must be supplemented with other foodstuffs to a degree never before necessary in the history of this country. Had America only herself to look out for, the wheat crop would be short if the forecasts should be verified by the harvest. With other nations to feed from our stores we must have much more food or eat less food. The grain crops can be adequately supplemented by other foodstuffs. Grain can be economically cultivated only on the farms, or on large tracts whose soil is adapted to the purpose. A great variety of vegetables can be grown to good purpose on tracts of any size—in backyards and on vacant lots.

Home gardens and vacant lot cultivation can achieve wonders toward overcoming the shortages in the American grainfields. It is with this in view that the nation-wide campaign for food-growing in backyards and on idle lands in and about cities where there are great numbers of people to cultivate them has been pressed. This great work can be made to insure not only enough for ourselves and surpluses for the world outside, but enough to keep the costs of living from going beyond the common reach.

The prediction that wheat will reach $4 a bushel before it ever drops again to $2 a bushel may be an exaggerated view, but the course of the market lately has been such as to make clear that bread certainly is not going to be cheap and may not be plentiful during the year that lies ahead. What the grainfields cannot do for us we must in some measure to do for ourselves. There are few who cannot do something.

After having been a month in Washington Representative Jeanette Rankin, of Montana, was unable to find anybody thereabouts who was supporting the administration's selective conscription bill. So the Honorable Rankin telegraphed out home for counsel by which to lay her course. She has received it—"for it, you bet, if you have to go it alone," or words to that effect. That is not surprising, but it is that Representative Rankin—the only lady member and with unexampled facilities for finding out things—should have been a month in Washington and able to encounter any of the men who constitute the majorities that are for the bill in house and senate. Does the Honorable Rankin court only the houn' dawg breed of society on capitol hill?

One perfervid writer, in a somewhat overdone panegyric of General Joffre, ascribes to that grizzled old hero the mission to help President Wilson and the army general staff pass the selective conscription bill. We assume that General Joffre has common sense and decent manners, besides knowing something of the history of his country, not excluding the incident of a certain Citizen Genet, who also came from France to America as an envoy and meddled with domestic political matters. Of all the things that General Joffre did not come to America to do, we suppose, none can be more conspicuously certain than that he did not come here to make an ass and an offense of himself and spill the beans for his country.

THE MYSTERY MYSTERIOUS.

Chapter Six.

Idaresay, the great detectuff, was speechless. "The films! The films!" he cried. "What about them? remarked Smyth, his genial assistant, as he folded a neat bow in his ready-made tie.

Idaresay shook from port to stern. At last his warble returned.

"After you retired I went into my experimenting room and worked till just now mixing up the developing chemicals." One could see by his boots and ear muffs he had been laboring madly. "And when I opened the camera to take out the films," he continued, "they were gone," and he fell in a heap in the coal bucket.

Smyth dashed out, filled up a picher, came in blowing off the suds and pressed the handle to Idaresay's parched lips, then parted his own moustache and emptied the pitcher in two and a half hearty quaffs.

Idaresay started to breathe again, his eyes roamed around the room in an empty stare and his eyelids slowly opened. Regaining speech, he shrieked, "The films! The films!"

WOMAN VETERINARIN STARTS HOSPITAL FOR INVALID PETS.

Miss Clare Lamplugh, Ministering to One of the Patinets in Her Veterinary Hospital.

San Francisco, Cal., April 27.—Only woman veterinary surgeon in the west.

Thus titled to minister to the pets of kenhel, warren and cage, Miss Clare Lamplugh, who came from London to California some time ago, is opening an animal hospital here to care for the dumb companions of the socially elect.

She has just completed a three-year course in animal surgery and now proudly writes "V. S." after her name.

A pet canine which won a place in her heart inspired Miss Lamplugh to study veterinary science. But much as she values th deistinction of being the only woman in the west to acquire this title in surgery, her greatest satisfaction lies in being able to ease animal suffering.

"They are all my friends," she said—"dogs, cats and other pets, dear; dumb pals. I am glad to have acquired the science that enables me to help them when they need it most."

Abbott and Lucus, of Huntington, showed the audience the advantage of joining the battery, where they may be with friends in one unit. Dr. Koontz presided over the meeting. Eleven have shown their allegiance to the colors from this vicinity at present.

An operation was performed on Mrs. F. L. Wasmuth Wednesday afternoon for gall stones. Dr. Grayson, of Huntington, assisted by Dr. Koontz, did the surgical work, removing fourteen stones. Mrs. Wasmuth withstood the ordeal nicely and is resting well at the present time. The operation was performed at the home, as she was in too critical a condition to be removed to the hospital.

A meeting was held at the State bank, of Roanoke, Tuesday evening for the purpose of forming plans for the organization of a branch of the Red Cross society for Roanoke and Jackson township. George Stephen, of Huntington, was present and gave an outline of the wonderful work being accomplished and arranged for a large public meeting to be held at the Brethren church on next Tuesday evening, May 1, at which time all are urged to be present. Representatives of all the churches were present Tuesday evening and from the enthusiasm shown a large branch will be the result. The commencement exercises for the class of 1917, of the Roanoke high school will be held at the U. B. church on next Friday evening, May 4. Emerson E. Ballard will deliver the address. The Library club enjoyed a very interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Dinius Tuesday evening. The subject discussed was Trees, and the reciprocity paper read by Mrs. Dora VanArsdol was enjoyed by all. At this meeting it was decided to hold a homecoming some time during August. Further arrangements to be made later.

The most lasting result of a printer's error is found in the word 'cocoanut," which people often think has something to do with cocoa. The original word was coco-nut, from the Spanish word "coco," meaning "grin or grimace," a name bestowed upon the cocoanut owing to its resemblance to the face of a monkey. When Dr. Johnson was compiling his famous dictionary he included the word "cocoanut," but the compositor inserted an "a" instead of the hyphen, and the word appeared as "cocoanut," and has been written so ever since.

Millionaire Works on New Aeroplane

FRANK A. GARBUTT.

(Staff Special.)

Los Angeles, Cal., April 27.—Believing it will revolutionize aerial warfare, Frank A. Garbutt, southern California millionaire aviator and all around sport devotee, is working on an aeroplane motor for use in the coming conflict.

Garbutt, though wealthy, is a natural mechanic and was the first auto driving champion of the west.

Describing his motor, Garbutt says: "This new motor will. I am confident, run 24 hours a day for 30 days and show no appreciable signs of wear. The bearings are very generous, being from five to ten times larger than those of an automobile. The trouble with most air machines is their inability to stand wear and tear of a long flight."

Garbutt believes he can make the trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco, about 500 miles, and back in a day. This sort of air scouting, he says, will prove invaluable in war time.

Garbutt has for years ranked among the leading yachtsmen of the west and is planning to place his "Skid Bladner," a fine pleasure craft, at the service of the government as a submarine chaser. The vessel is capable of mounting light, three pound guns, and because of a shallow craft, would be a poor mark for the undersea boats.

SOCIETY

Many Fort Wayne friends are interested in the wedding of Mr. Alfred Miller Cressler, for many years a resident of this city, to Miss Jeannette Stacey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Stacey, which took place in the Episcopal church, Wyoming, Ohio, on Saturday, April 21, at half past 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The bride was attended by a maid of honor and a flower girl. Mr. George Cressler was best man and Mr. Kerr Murray Cressler and Mr. Wayne Stacey were two of the ushers. The church service was elaborate and beautiful with music by a vested choir and decorations of Easter lilies and palms. At the house, where a reception was held, many pink roses, hydranges, snapdragon blossoms and palms were used in decorating. Mr. and Mrs. Cressler will make their home in Wyoming.

Miss Ruth Lanternier and Miss Eileen Lanternier will be the bridesmaids at the wedding and two cousins to the bride, Rosella and Rosemary O'Conner, will be flower girls. Mr. Brown will have Clem Meyers as best man and Ray Racine and Bernard Mohl will be ushers.

MANY CHILDREN DO PRETTY WORK.

Older Girls Also Dance With Grace at Miss Larimore's Ballet.

Miss Muriel Larimore presented her pupils in esthetic, ballet and interpretative dancing at her fourth annual spring ballet, at the Majestic theater on Friday evening. To describe all the good points of grace, agility and acquired skill of each and all of the thirty pupils on the program with a description of their dainty costumes is impossible, but there was general excellence in toework in the teaching of which Miss Larimore excels, and in the stage settings, the costuming and the lack of self consciousness of the pupils there were beauty and loveliness. There were a number of pupils who in connection with their graceful dancing, caught the idea of expression particularly well. They were Margaret Whisler, Helen Pape, Evelyn Plumadore, Mary Louise Rhamy, Betty McCulloch, Helen Stillman, Esther Centlivre, Alice Saunders, Margaret Hosford and the Watson twins. Then there were others whose specialties depended less on their imagination and interpretation and more on their movements of grace, and skill in toe work. Such were Marian Woebbeking, Mary Hiser, Helen Strodel, Martha Canaday, Alice Beall, Geraldine Fredericks, Norvine Oddon, Lois Butler, Florence Merritt, Nellie Eggeman, Marcella Dike and again the Watson twins in a Spanish dance which was the nearest to a professional number on the program, with the exception of Miss Larimore's own skill and grace. There were several other children, who though they have not got to the point of solo work, contributed equally to the success of a delightful program and aided in making the entertainment a success in every way. They appeared in the minuet and the ballet of graces and included Eleanor McGuire, Ruth Taylor, Hildred Gruber, Helen Gaskins, Marcella Dike, Lillian Hans, Nellie Eggeman, Lois Butler, Norvine Oddou and Lois Schoenbeine, who sang and danced for the opening number and won applause enough to turn her little head if it could be done.

WITH THE STUDY CLUBS.

There will be a meeting of the Fortnightly club on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Niezer. Miss Lowry will read a paper on "The Drama." The annual election of officers will be held.

The South Side Reading club will meet with Mrs. Noah Zehr on Tuesday evening. The program is in charge of the social committee.

The fourteenth annual popular concert of the Morning Musical society will be given some time in May, the date already announced as May 8 having been cancelled because music ordered for a chorus has been delayed in its arrival. It will likely be about the middle of the month before the society is ready to present this attraction. The program at the Friday meeting of the society presented an entirely new phase in musical work before this club. The program was suggested by the songs of birds, and Miss Margaret Hanna, chairman, who has made a study of birds for a number of years, selected numbers relative to song birds, of which the great composers have written many. Miss Hanna also gave a short talk concerning four native birds, told how to know them by their plumage, imitated their calls and named many characteristics. The musical part of the program was given by Miss Maude Gwinn, who sings very well indeed. Miss Corinne Straus, Mrs. Sam Kraus, Miss Leah Gardner who all did admirable solo work, and Miss Gardner and Miss Helene Spindler, who played the Espana by Chabrier for two pianos, in a manner quite artistic. The audience was wholly delighted. There are to be two more active members' programs before the work closes for the season.

There will be a meeting of the Travel club on Monday afternoon with Mrs. McKeehan. There will be a book review and a reading.

Mrs. William Hahn, of West Berry street, will be hostess for the meeting of the Woman's Reading club next Tuesday. Mrs. Harding will present a paper on Paraguay.

Miss Elizabeth McCracken will be hostess for a meeting of the Nineteenth Century club on Tuesday afternoon. The club is studying South America, and Miss Sturgis will give a talk concerning laws and nations of that continent.

Les Causeries du Mardi will meet on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Smith, of the Hayden road.

Crepe and Filet Lace

New York, April 28.—The season's most exquisite variation of the lingerie dress is a sports blouse of Georgette crepe and filet lace.

The new garment is cut on the lines of a silk sweater-coat, but it is adapted by the filminess of the material, for wearing on the hottest mid-summer day.

A feature of this most desirable garment is the delicate hemstitching that outlines all the edges.

Blouses in Fifth-ave shops are bewilderingly dainty and fairly revel in variety.

But fashion always has a favorite, and her favorite in this respect is for filet lace.

It fairly abounds on the smartest blouses, and is seen on those of fine linen and of Georgette crepe alike.

Even the severely tailored suits of the season are relieved by collars of this lace, either in straight narrow shapes, or in sailor effects, in which case eyelet and embroidered linen and crepe is often introduced in combination with the filet.

WILL RAISE FLAG AT PATRIOTIC MEETING

Big Demonstration is Being Planned for Tuesday at Garrett.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Garrett, Ind., April 28.—A feature of the big patriotic meeting to be held here next Tuesday will be the big flag that is to be raised. This flag which is the largest ever raised in this city was made by the I-Yo-Ki-Li Camp-Fire Girls, Saturday at the city hall. Owing to the scarcity of flags and the exorbitant prices charged the camp-fire volunteered to impersonate the famous Betty Ross and consequently gathered at the city hall today and from the yards of material on hand reproduced "Old Glory" in all her beauty. The flag was designed by Miss Loretta Manion, assistant city clerk, and Mrs. F. M. McDonald, guardian of the camp-fire. The patriotic members of this organization are the Misses Betha Shamo, Esther Cobler, Mary Lantz, Vesta Marvin, Helen Comparette, Alda Orr, Myrtle Stahl, Margaret Roos, Lois Cobler, Florence Widmer, Zelia Shannon, Pauline Campbell, Bernlece Haverstick.

Mother's Day.

Mothers' Day will be observed at the Methodist church in this city Sunday, April 29, instead of the second Sunday in May. This change has been made on account of the big revival meeting that is in progress there. Members of the Sunday school and church are endeavoring to have a record-breaking attendance and expect to have 550 in the Sunday school. A request has been made that those whose mothers are living wear a colored flower and those who have lost their mothers should wear the white. Special music will be enjoyed at the morning church service and a sermon appropriate to the day is being observed.

DONS YOSAN SILK

BY BETTY BROWN.

New York, April 28.—Utility gowns of Yosan silk are among the elegances of vacation wardrobes. A creation worn by Mary Nash, popular actress, shows a unique arrangement of striped, bordered, kilted side-panels and pockets remarkable for their breadth rather than their depth. An intricately shirred parasol lining adds the needed touch of softness.

FASHION RESPONDS TO WAR START—FLAG APPEARS IN FEMININE TOGGERY.

HOW THE FLAG APPEARS IN LATEST FASHIONS. An eagle surmounts a veil now showing in New York, and there are three American flags placed in the meshes. Flags are embroidered in silk on white silk stockings. White kid gloves also bear the national emblem, embroidered on their backs.

New York, April 28.—Fashions have responded almost instantly to the declaration of war. Fifth avenue shops are full of dainty things for women to wear that will express the patriotism of the wearer. The red, white and blue dominates hats, veils, stockings, gloves and gowns. The Stars and Stripes have been woven into the fabric of the new spring fashions.

From top to toe, Milady of Fashion can find something nowadays to express her patriotism in her dress. The Knox company, at Fifth avenue and Fortieth street, displays new veil with the American eagle at the top, to be draped over the hat, and with three American flags embroidered into the mesh. The flags are embroidered into the lower portion of the veil, which is waist length.

The Franklin-Simon company is showing new white silk stockings, with a dainty silk flag woven into the fabrics and showing at the ankle.

New gloves, with the flag design woven into the back, in place of the usual row of black stitching, are also ready.

Military coats, approximating the olive drab of the army in color, are on exhibition.

Yet it is a little too soon to discover along Fifth avenue any patriotic resolve to dress with greater economy. The shops at the upper end of the district are as resplendent as ever, and conceal in their pearl and gray and white enameled fixtures such an array of rich silk coats and gowns of filmiest Georgette or resplendent cloth of gold and silver as would dazzle the eyes of Cinderella.

The use of heavy silk so richly brocaded with threads of silver or gold as to render the material almost like metal cloth has resulted in a new short, but richer close-fitting straight-lined skirt, hung in the back with a flat narrow train, hardly more than a great broad sash, or the whole skirt is stiffly draped, with a little fullness at the back and sides, but kept narrow around the bottom. This whole question of skirts, by the way, promises to be interesting pretty soon. There is a suspicious hint of tightness and a decided line of fullness at the knees or higher up, which leaves one wondering what the new line will be.

The length of skirts stays about the same, or perhaps creeps just an inch in the general direction of shoe tops. Rest assured they do not seem to go far below that, and the observer along the avenue counts herself fortunate indeed if most of them reach that far.

Many women seem to imagine fashion demands that they leave an ugly little strip of "neutral territory" below the hem of the skirt and above the top of the boot.

After a riotous wandering in the field of color, shoes have managed to come as near to finding a stopping place at the new dark shades of brown as anywhere. Lighter shades of brown also are popular, and pumps continue to appear in delicate gray and light sand color. But the smart shoes of the season is undoubtedly brown or a combination of two shades of brown.

Pumps are as plain as possible in cut; the dressier models are adorned with buckles of silver or cut steel, oval or rectangular, and fully two inches across.

PRACTICAL NEW DESIGNS FOR THE HOME DRESSMAKER.

Use of Chinese Pink Ribbon.

Fairway Silk Jacket Suit.

Style, taste and utility are all represented in the two designs of new gowns from the studio of Ora C'ne, South Calhoun street and displayed herewith. Number one is particularly attractive and appealing for its daptability to dressy as well as practical uses. It is made of Fairway silk, the skirt in simulated pleats and with a jacket of the same material. The jacket is bound and outlined in black satin folds. The simulated pleat is better described as a tuck every four inches sewed at the edge of a pleat on the outside. Aside from the good looking appearance it has the effect if placed on the outside, of making a two slender woman look better for the fullness of her skirt, but if placed on the underside, a woman who desires to present the appearance of her slim sister, will be aided by the closer fitting effect of the latter arrangement of pleats. Mrs. C'ne, who posed for the picture, is carrying a swagger stick and is wearing a military hat faced with Fairway silk and having directly in front a stunning motif in rattail braid and appliqued to the white hemp of which the hat proper is made. The braid is also used by appliquing it tightly, to create the visor brim, so much admired in military effect.

The other design, number two, is a combination costume of chiffon broadcloth and Chinese pink ribbon. Two bands of the ribbon encircle each side and form pockets, woman's delight just at present. Two straight bands of the ribbon form the sleeves and Mr. C'ne remarked that the top of the ribbon "just naturally wrinkles into place." Certainly that is comforting to the woman who finds putting in sleeves a bugbear. Ribbon forms the upper part of the simulated jacket. This dress is trimmed with six dozen brilliant green buttons. The coloring of the ribbon is a shadow lawn green and Chinese pink and in quality, is a brocade pompadour. The hat is copied in design from the top of a Peruvian vase, is faced with ribbon and is ornamented with outspread, man-made wings in Chinese pink.

Architectural Plans for Young Men's Christian Association Building to be Erected in This City

AT LAST, the committee and the architects of the new Y. M. C. A. building have made public their plan of arrangement of the eight floors of the imposing structure which is to occupy the site of the present Hope hospital at the southwest corner of Barr and Washington streets. The Sentinel today presents these plans, and asks a careful inspection of them. Such an inspection will suggest the reason for the seemingly long time which has been spent in perfecting them.

The building and site committee, composed of Arthur H. Perfect, chairman; Arthur F. Hall, vice chairman; W. N. Ballou, secretary; S. B. Bechtel, A. S. Coverdale, George P. Evans, E. E. Griest, F. S. Hunting and B. Paul Mossman, has been a very busy group of men since they were appointed just after the campaign last May.

The Committee's Task.

To them was delegated the difficult and important task of selecting and purchasing a site for the new building, having plans drawn under their supervision and a building erected with the fund at their disposal sufficient to house the varied activities of a Y. M. C. A. for the next decade or two.

Before the building can be finished and equipped they must also collect the pledges made by more than 10,000 people amounting to over $340,000 most of which pledges are being redeemed in five payments. This means dealing with between twenty-five and fifty thousand persons in making these collections alone.

Realizing fully the paramount importance of the selection of the right man to serve as the general secretary of the association, the committee entered upon the task with the determination to make no mistake. The selection of Edwin W. Peirce, who has been actively "on the job" since the 16th of October, 1916, and whose advice and co-operation has characterized every important move of the committee since that time, has convinced the committee and the friends of the association that the right choice had been made.

E. W. PEIRCE,
General Secretary.

Mr. Peirce is a native of Michigan. For nineteen years, he has devoted his attention to active Y. M. C. A. work, dating his efforts from his connection with the Detroit association in 1898. Following his experience in Detroit, he has been associated with the organizations in St. Louis, Missouri, and Keokuk, Iowa. He came to Fort Wayne from Boston, where he served for seven years as the secretary of the religious work department of the Boston association which enjoys the distinction of being the oldest and largest in America, with seven thousand members and a building worth $1,500,000.

Mr. Peirce already has scores of warm friends among the young men who will make the association a great center of activity when the equipment is ready for their use.

Progress Made.

The committee has given many hours to this work nearly every week since its appointment and is able now to make the following report of progress:

The aim of the committee from first to last is to produce the most durable building possible, so arranged and equipped as to contribute in the largest way to a successful work and making for economy of supervision and maintenance. In other words they are endeavoring to make the very best use of the money entrusted to them by the citizens of Fort Wayne.

Members of the committee or the general secretary have inspected and made a thorough study of association buildings in New York, Boston, Providence; Springfield and Brocton, Mass.; Philadelphia; Canton, Ohio; Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids, Mich.; Chicago, Anderson, Muncie and Indianapolis. They seek to avoid mistakes made in previous buildings and to combine in this building the newest features found in both small and large buildings of recent construction.

The Architects.

After thorough investigation they employed a group of architects with wide experience and recognized ability—Messrs. Shattuck & Hussey, of Chicago, and Charles R. Weatherhogg, of Fort Wayne. Shattuck & Hussey have designed nearly 150 Y. M. C. A. buildings, in this country and abroad. They are thorough students of such buildings and of the work to be done in them. In addition to the Fort Wayne building they are now designing or supervising the construction of buildings in New Brunswick, New Jersey; Lima, Ohio; Minneapolis, Minn.; Pueblo, Col.; Butte, Mont., and orders have recently come for plans for several additional building in China.

Charles R. Weatherhogg is one of Fort Wayne's best known and ablest architects and is now designing the coliseum, high school gymnasium, Hope hospital, Wolf & Dessauer department store and other large and valuable buildings. He is co-operating with Shattuck & Hussey and the committee, giving expert advice and counsel on all matters and will have special relation to the construction, finishing and equipment of this great new club house for Fort Wayne boys and men.

The International committee is very much interested in the successful erection of this building, and through the International Building bureau, of which Neil McMillan is secretary, is able to furnish the committee with the experience of all associations, in addition to the counsel given by Messrs. Stacy and Hanson, of the Indiana committee.

After studying and discarding many sets of plans the committee has approved the general arrangement of space as shown on the accompanying cuts and takes pleasure in presenting to the citizens of Fort Wayne the floor plans for the building as they will be worked out, in concrete, plaster, marble and wood, except for a few minor changes.

The committee, general secretary and architect will continue to study the plans throughout the construction period and will not be content until they have produced the best building possible with the knowledge and means at their command.

An Eight-Story Building.

These plans call for an eight-story building of re-inforced concrete and brick with stone and terra cotta trimmings. Three floors will be devoted to activities which contribute to the social, physical, mental and spiritual development of men and boys, with five floors above devoted entirely to living rooms for young men.

The committee expects this building to be complete in every detail, of full fire-proof construction and finished with durable materials. It will be well, but not extravagantly furnished; all features combining to produce a health, brain and character "factory," of which the city has long left a need, and of which each citizen will have reason to feel exceedingly proud.

It Will Surprise Many.

But few Fort Wayne people realize the size or elaborateness of a modern Y. M. C. A. building, because of the absence of one for so many years. This building it is believed will therefore be a delightful surprise to a majority of our men and women. The privileges and activities it will house will be within the reach of boys and men of whatever income and it is hoped the institution will become the most democratic and popular rendezvous of our men and boys.

The Location.

The site on the southwest corner of East Washington boulevard and Barr street commended itself to the committee because of its central location in relation to the business section, the most important street car lines, public buildings, amusement centers and high school. The lot is 150 feet square and was purchased at a very reasonable figure, as all other desirable places would have cost many thousands of dollars more for less land.

Hope Hospital to Move.

The committee feels that its progress with the building plans justifies it in arranging for the Hope hospital buildings to be vacated by June first and has notified the hospital to that effect.

Construction Begins July 1st.

These buildings will be razed during that month and the committee will bend all of its energies toward beginning work by July first, with the expectation that the building will be completed and ready for use September 1, 1918. Nothing but the prohibitive price of materials or labor should prevent these plans carrying through.

How Citizens Can Help.

However, the most important factor in the accomplishment of this great civic enterprise is the prompt payment of all subscriptions made by the people of Fort Wayne and vicinity to the building fund. The committee is much encouraged by the fact that a large majority of subscribers have made their first and second payments and nearly one thousand have paid their subscriptions in full.

The committee believes it only fair that every subscription of whatever amount should be paid on the same basis according to the wording of the pledge. It will greatly hinder and delay the progress of construction work unless all payments are made promptly and the committee asks the earnest co-operation of all citizen's in this matter that this great, new, mutual-benefit organization may be ready to open its doors on time.

First Floor Plan.

The cut of the ground floor shows the arrangement of space with an entrance on Barr street for boys and on East Washington boulevard for men. As one passes through the men's entrance he finds himself in a spacious and attractive lobby with the men's public office just in front on the left, and an inviting fireplace on the right. Turning directly to the right he enters a good-sized social room in which there will be placed easy chairs, piano and tables for small games, with a fireplace at the extreme right. Opening into this room but separated by a glass partition will be the billiard and pool room with six tables.

Turning directly to the left, one will find a quiet corner for newspaper and magazine reading and letter writing. At this side of the lobby will also be an elevator to the upper floors and a stairway up and down. At the left of the men's office the membership secretary will be located, and nearby a work room and consulting room to be used by any of the secretaries.

Crossing the lobby directly, a passage leads past the coat room on the left, and on the right, offices for the assistant secretaries in charge of social, religious, educational and vocational work. This passage leads also to the large gymnasium (50 by 75 feet with daylight on three sides) which will be used also as an assembly and banquet room for large events. The committee has reserved space for an auxiliary gymnasium, 45 by 60 feet, to be built on the southeast corner of the lot as soon as the need for it arises and funds are available.

At the left of this passage a stairway for the accommodation of visitors leads directly to the swimming pool. At the left of the stairway is found the office and examination room of the physical director, from which he has direct control of the gymnasium and private exercise room. A stairway near by leads to the men's and boys' dressing rooms below.

As one enters the boys' lobby from Barr street he will be greeted by a clerk at the public office, the boys' secretary being located just beyond. At the left will be large social, reading and club rooms for younger boys and at the right similar rooms for older boys with coat rooms for each group conveniently located.

Basement Floor Plan.

As one descends the stairway he finds himself in a small lobby surrounded by many interesting rooms. Directly in front the cafeteria and kitchen adjoining. At the right a private dining room, barber shop and general toilet room; also the entrance to the bowling alleys, provision having been made for spectators and bowlers' lockers. At the left he will find a refreshment counter where soft drinks, candy, and supplies of all kinds may be purchased.

Passing through to the left he finds the locker room attendant who will have supervision of all gymnastic suits, towels, etc. After receiving his basket, the member will pass into the boys, young men or business men's locker room (according to age) where he will find commodious lockers for street clothing. From the locker room he may ascend the stairway to the gymnasium or go into the shower bath room, and after a thorough bath into the swimming pool. This pool will be sunlighted by means of a skylight and windows, beautifully finished in tile, and will have spectator space of ten feet on either side and at one end. It is expected that the swimming pool will be one of the most popular features of the building.

Space on this floor has also been provided for the heating plant, fuel, repair and storage rooms. When the auxiliary gymnasium is built the committee plans to have just beyond the bowling alleys a large community boys' club room.

Second Floor Plan.

Ascending to the second floor the corridor leads past the general secretary's office and board of director's room, with the business office and stenographers' room adjoining. Further along the corridor on the right will be a lecture and banquet room which may be divided into four smaller rooms. At the end of the corridor at the left will be a serving room with dumb waiters and stairway from the kitchen. Across the corridor are rooms for classes and clubs, all of which rooms may be used interchangeably for educational, Bible study or physical department classes or club meetings.

A passage leads from this corridor to the running track and spectators' gallery with a handball court adjoining. Passing to the left the corridor leads to club and class rooms for boys, reached by a stairway from their social rooms; and at the extreme left of this floor seven double dormitory rooms are provided which may later on be converted into educational class rooms.

One of the Five Dormitory Floors.

One cut ... shows the plan of the five floors above the three just described. On each of these floors there will be thirty-seven outside living rooms, together with trunk storage, linen closets and toilet and bath rooms. There will therefore be on the six floors 192 living rooms with 204 beds. On one of these floors a room will be devoted to the use of the matron, and near by a sick-room where a house member who is ill may be cared for conveniently.

Your Own Garden

BY A GARDENER.

I received another letter telling about a vegetable that takes up too much room in the writer's small backyard:

"Tomatoes occupy so much space I have decided to buy ours and use that space for something else," the writer says.

For him and others who may be in the same frame of thought I am going to suggest "barrel gardening." That will enable them to have nice fresh tomatoes, sue has can't be obtained at any store, for store tomatoes are usually picked while green and allowed to ripen on the way to market.

Use any vacant corner, preferably on the south side of the house or shed or fence. That insures plenty of sunshine, which is absolutely necessary for such a tropical plant as the tomato.

In this corner, or corners, "plant" a barrel. A common rain barrel is the best, good and strong. In the bottom place a nice collection of bricklats or clinkers, say about a foot or two in depth.

On this put enugh earth to cover well, fill half of the remaining distance with well rotted manure, or well rotted compost, now fill with good rich garden soil, and firm the whole. In the center plant a good, healthy tomato plant. Keep it well watered and as the soil sinks down add more.

The vine can fall over the side of the barrel.

On this vine tomatoes will grow until late in the fall, later than in the open garden, for it is protected from fall winds because it has only southern exposure.

The barrel must have a leaky bottom. If it hasn't punch two or three small holes in it near the bottom, so surplus water may drain.

This barrel must be watered frequently all season.

General Electric Co. Plans 199 Foot Extension of Store House.

The immense storehouse building erected on the eastern part of the General Electric company's factory ground two or three years ago, which at that time was believed to be large enough to meet the demands upon it for a number of years, is inadequate and will be enlarged. Next week teams and men will begin excavating for an addition on the south end of the building, carrying out the present style of construction 199 feet and the same width as the present building. The addition will be four stories and a basement and when completed will make the combined structure 350 feet long. Next week, or soon thereafter, the work of tearing down the old frame warehouse, designated as the "old No. 6," will start and the ground it occupies will probably be the site of a larger and better building. The company has not let the contract for the erection of the store building addition, but will probably do so soon. In the meantime the excavation will be made and everything arranged so that construction need not be delayed when the work of building commences.

REDUCING WORKING HOURS.

Nine Hours Work and Ten Hours Pay.

Commencing May 1, the owners of the O. K. machine shop, located on the corner of Fairfield avenue and Poplar street, will reduce the working hours from ten to nine per day, or to fifty hours per week, without a reduction in the wages. Over time work schedules will be the same as those in force in other organized machine shops in the city. The new schedule will be nine hours per day for the first five days and five hours for Saturday. The company, which is composed of G. W. and N. Fries and L. J. Johnson, made the above proposition voluntarily to show their appreciation of the hearty co-operation and good work of their employes. They have on the pay rolls at present thirty men, but the force is inadequate and must be increased, which will be done as soon as a new shop can be erected back of the present one. The company began business five years ago in a barn on Lincoln avenue, with only one lathe. Their business had a wonderful growth, however, and it soon became necessary to get a larger plant and the present shop was erected.

COLLISION ON SIDING.

G. R. & I. Locomotives Meet and Are Derailed.

The Pennsylvania wreck car and crew was summoned to Kendallville this morning to put two G. R. & I. locomotives on the tracks. They came together head-on on a siding north of that city. One was a work train which had taken a siding to let a southbound merchandise train pass and through error, the work train brakeman threw the switch as the freight was approaching and its course was diverted and the collision resulted. Both engines were derailed and damaged slightly, but nobody was injured and as the accident happened on a siding, the main track was not blocked.

PATRIOTIC LADIES.

Knitting Room Employes Have Patriotic Demonstration.

A number of flags have been dedicated at the Wayne Knitting mills, but it remained for Carl Rogge to raise the first flag in the knitting rooms, which was accomplished Thursday afternoon. Walter Ehrman gave a short talk and the young ladies who work for Mr. Ehrman, and Mr. Rogge sang the "Star Spangled Banner." Among those interested in the patriotic demonstration and who furnished the money to purchase the flag were the Misses Alice Moushey, Marie Enslen, Fern Morris and Helen Haag.

SHOP LEAGUE MEETNG.

There will be a meeting of the managers of the teams in the shop league at the home of Fred Rabus, 539 West Third street, at 8 o'clock tonight when the number of clubs in the league will be decided. The Western Gas works being practically closed, the ball team there has been abandoned and dropped from the league. It is now necessary to get another team or to reduce the number of teams in the league to four. It is quite likely the latter plan will be adopted.

PUNCH DEPARTMENT MOVED.

With the exception of the office fixtures and some of the appurtenances of the machine shop, the punch press department of the General Electric works is now located in the first floor building 26, on Wall street. Among the equipment moved were eighty of the biggest kind of punch presses. Foreman Joseph Schwartzkopf said this morning that he expected to have the entire department in operation early next week. Moving has been in progress for two weeks.

INSPECTED G. R. & I. TRACKS.

FREIGHT TRUCKMEN QUIT.

News from Toledo is that the truckmen in the Wabash freight house, through freight department, at Toledo, quit work yesterday without warning and failed to show up since. There is no detailed news of the walk-out accessible here, but it is stated that the situation is not serious. E. A. Sollitt, division superintendent, went to Toledo yesterday and is still there in an effort to fix up matters.

BROTHER SHOT ACCIDENTALLY.

C. C. Chambers, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, left last night for Cleveland to join his wife, who went there the day before, and will attend the funeral of her brother, who was accidentally shot by a young lady while she handled a revolver which was not supposed to be loaded. The deceased was a soldier, employed in guarding a munitions plant.

GONE TO BROTHER'S FUNERAL.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Sawyer and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gaskill left today for Nappanee, Ind., where they will attend the funeral of the brother of Mr. Sawyer and Mrs. Gaskill, who died following a surgical operation at a hospital. The particulars of the cause of death were not given in the dispatch announcing the death of Mr. Sawyer.

FOUR YOUNG MEN WHO HAVE RESPONDED TO THEIR COUNTRY'S CALL.

E. HUSTON KIRKLAND.

CLIFTON ROSS.

ROBERT P. PORTER.

J. ROSS PARNIN.

All Fort Wayne people are patriotic and loyal to country and some are imbued with so deep a love of country and the desire to serve that they are induced to encourage their patriotic sons in enlisting and going to the "front." In proportion to their numbers, no class is more patriotic than the railway agents of Fort Wayne and this statement is substantiated by the fact that nearly all have sons who have either enlisted or are preparing to enlist. In the above group are portraits of four young men who have responded to the call of their country whose fathers are agents of Fort Wayne lines. E. Huston Kirkland is a son of Agent E. H. Kirkland, of the Pennsylvania freight department; J. Ross Parnin is a son of Frank P. Parnin, district passenger agent of the Nickel Plate; Robert P. Porter is a son of Freight Agent Charles P. Porter, of the Wabash, and Clifton Ross is a son of Passenger Agent John E. Ross, of the Pennsylvania. Robert Casey, a son of R. E. Casey, trainmaster of the Grand Rapids and Indiana, has also joined the signal corps and with the others will go to the "front" when the call comes. Huston Kirkland is a student; Ross Parnin is an electrician and for a year or two was employed in the testing department of the General Electric works. He resigned last week and Thursday night left for Fort Thomas, Ky.; to train in the cavalry department; Robert P. Porter has been employed since he left school at the office of the Lincoln Life Insurance company. Young Parnin was a member of the Radio club and is quiet well informed in wireless telegraphy. He was not able to get in that department and was barred from the coast artillery because of not coming up to the requirements in the way of avoirdupoise. Ross Kirkland and Porter have joined the signal corps.

Think That Dickering With City Coliseum is Waste.

Citizens who are objecting to the board of works attempting to have the proposed city coliseum built, when only $180,000 will be available for its construction, may petition the board, at its next session, not to proceed farther with the coliseum project this year.

Principal objection would be that the preliminary steps of advertising for bids will be an unwarranted expense to the city. By allowing the coliseum matter to rest quietly at this time Fort Wayne would be saved that money, which might be used to good advantage later, it is thought. Several city officials have said that it is useless to expend money for preliminary steps when there is no hope of a reliable contractor offering to construct the coliseum from first class materials for the amount now at hand.

This of all times is the moment when action should not be taken towards building the auditorium with the limited funds available, it is argued. War conditions have made the steel market, and other markets of building materials, very uncertain. Few definite deliveries can be promised, it is claimed. Prices are excessive, it is stated, and are soaring higher every day of the war. After there is a drop in price of materials would be the logical time to erect a city coliseum, such as Fort Wayne should have, it is claimed. Owing to the delay in delivering materials to the drained market and war conditions, there can be no hope of completing the coliseum this year, say men who have studied the markets.

A few citizens have discussed the matter of requesting the board of works to ask for a new set of drawings, especially for the exterior structure of the coliseum. The state that an attempt has been made to lavish unnecessary ornateness on the building. A part of the elaborate architectural designing for the exterior of the structure is unnecessary and costly, it is said. A less ornamented building might be constructed for less money and be just as staple as the unduly adorned affair now asked, it is believed.

NAMES OF ABOUT FIFTY APPLICANTS SENT IN

Much Interest is Taken in Camp for Officers' Reserve Corps.

Between forty and fifty applicants for the officers' reserve corps' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, were forwarded Saturday to the headquarters at Chicago by the local examining board, of which Captain E. H. Kilbourne is chairman.

These young men passed on here will be notified direct from the war department within the next few days if they are acceptable and will be directed to report to Captain George L. Byroade at the Elks' temple for further examination. Several already accepted by the department have been examined by Captain Byroade.

Interest in the officers' reserve corps has been most gratifying to the local committee, members of which are devoting much of their time, even to the neglect of their own business affairs, to the work. That Fort Wayne will make a splendid showing is now assured and the type of men accepted are high class in every respect and from the best families in northwestern Indiana. Only those who come up to the qualifications required by the department are accepted. Meetings of the board are held at the Commercial club each evening from 7 to 9, for examination of applicants.

Meetings of the advisory committee, of which A. A. Serva is chairman, were held Friday evening and Saturday at noon at the Commercial club.

Letters Are Sent Out.

The advisory committee has sent out the following letter to employers: "At a meeting of the advisory committee of the Northeastern Indiana District of the Military Training Camps association, central department, U. S. A., held at the Commercial club on the evening of April 27, 1917, the following resolution was passed:

" 'Be it resolved, That this committee recommend that those making application in the officers' reserve corps of the United States army and accepted by the advisory committee be restored to their present positions by their employers providing they fail in securing a commission after going through the training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison.'

"Will you as an employer subscribe to the above resolution? If so you will kindly indicate by filling in the enclosed blank and return same immediately by mail to the secretary of this committee, care the Commercial club."

dealer. Perhaps one of the most effective means of enforcing the provisions of the weights and measures laws and also educating the purchasing public to its requirements is the placing of a reweighing scale on our municipal market. This market is a center where a varied business is carried on by many people and where products that most largely enter into daily life are sold. Also a knowledge of the presence of a reweighing device will, in a large measure, cause one dishonestly inclined to respect the law.

"On our municipal market, at the north section at Wayne street, one of these scales has been installed for the benefit of the public and the gardeners and the weights and measures department sincerely hopes that all concerned will take advantage of it. I shall be on the market every market morning and in the event of any discrepancies in weights same will be immediately investigated and properly adjusted.

"I know of no other single feature of the weights and measures law that guards and protects the public from being defrauded by short weight comparable to this one. As heretofore expressed the law can do its perfect work only when all of its provisions are enforced, and I deem this one feature of enforcing the law worthy of the public's earnest thought and consideration."

WHY PUBLIC SCALES.

City Sealer Tolan Sets Out Their Benefits.

Because of what seems to be a distrust of use of the public scales in the market place, City Sealer Tolan has prepared the following article setting out the benefits of the registered scales in the city market:

"Since the Indiana weights and measures have become generally known, the question, 'How much does it cost?' usually asked by the purchaser is followed by the question, 'How much does it weigh?' And the purchaser is within his legal rights in asking these questions. These questions are no reflection on the honest

GET RID OF TEN TO SIXTY POUNDS.

To be excessively fat is very mortifying. People who are too stout are usually sensitive on this subject. Style and fat folks are strangers. Therefore, people who are carrying around a burden of unhealthy and unsightly fat will be glad to know that they may reduce their weight without starvation diet or tiresome exercise.

If you want to become thinner in a simple, safe and reliable way, here is a test worth trying. Spend some time daily in the open air, and get from the druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night. Also follow the other simple directions that come with the box.

Weigh yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight, and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take and costs little. A testing sample, with book, will be mailed free, in a plain envelope, if you write to Korein Company, 160 E. Arcade, East 28th Street, New York, N. Y.

Even a few days' treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, with the flesh firm, the skin smooth and the general health improved.

If you are ten to sixty pounds over normal weight, you should give this treatment a trial. You will likely find it is just what you need.—Advertisement.

Hart of Los Angeles and Cyrillis Nunmacher of Whittier. There are seven grandchildren and one great grandchild.

"Mrs. Nunmacher's parents were great Americans, her grandfather being a soldier of the Revolution, her father a soldier in the war of 1812, her brother and nephew soldiers of the war of '60, and her grandson died when serving in the Spanish-American war.

"Funeral services were held at the home of a daughter, Mrs. George Richards, of North Milton avenue on Tuesday afternoon. Interment took place in the North Whittier Heights cemetery. Rev. W. S. FORT WAYNE MEN AT Y. M. C. A. WAR COUNCIL

E. L. Mogge is Recommended as Executive Secretary for This State.

One hundred and fifty representative citizens of Indiana took dinner together Friday noon in the Riley room of the Claypool hotel at Indianapolis. These men had responded to a hurried call from the state office of the Young Men's Christian association to attend a "war council" regarding the service which the association might render the state and federal troops at their mobilization camps during the next eight months.

Fort Wayne was represented by Judge O. N. Heaton, B. Paul Mossman, E. E. Griest, George P. Evans and Edwin W. Peirce. Governor James P. Goodrich presided and called upon every man present to do his duty during the present national crisis. He prophesied, that within the next two weeks, every citizen would be notified to register for such military service for which his age, training or occupation might best fit him, saying that Indiana had never failed to do its duty as an integral part of the nation and he believed she would not fail to do her utmost at this time. He spoke in the highest terms of the service the Y. M. C. A. had been able to render Indiana and other troops on the Mexican border, emphasizing the importance of this larger work in safeguarding the physical, moral and spiritual life of our sons as they will be gathered in the twelve great army camps over the country.

Fairbanks Makes Address.

Addresses were also made by former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, a life-long friend and adviser of the Young Men's Christian association, and Albert E. Roberts, international Y. M. C. A. secretary of New York. Mr. Roberts reviewed, briefly, Y. M. C. A. work among the men of the army and navy during the Spanish-American war, the Russo-Japanese war, emphasizing particularly the eagerness with which the governments of Europe and Asia had accepted the service of the association to the men under arms, to those in the trenches and in the prison camps in the armies, save those of Turkey. He also stated that the work among one million men soon to be mobilized require the service of one thousand secretaries, physical directers and assistants and a fund of $3,000,000 to finance the work during the next eight months.

Indiana Pledges $150,000.

At the conclusion of the dinner resolutions were unanimously adopted, expressing the conviction that Indiana citizens will gladly help this work, determining to raise a fund of $150,000 before May 31 as Indiana's share of the expense fund. Illinois has already raised $219,000 toward a fund of $300,000; Michigan will raise $250,000 and Ohio also $250,000. A state war work council of seventy-five men will be organized at once to supervise all phases of this work and the conference recommended that E. L. Mogge be made executive secretary of this council.

The state will be divided into nine districts, each district undertaking to raise its share of this state fund during the week of May 20th. Fort Wayne will doubtless be the headquarters of District No. 3, which includes Steuben, Dekalb, Whitley, Allen, Huntington, Wells, Adams and Blackford counties.

BY A GARDENER.

I received another letter telling about a vegetable that takes up too much room in the writer's small backyard:

"Tomatoes occupy so much space I have decided to buy ours and use that space for something else," the writer says.

For him and others who may be in the same frame of thought I am going to suggest "barrel gardening." That will enable them to have nice fresh tomatoes, suc has can't be obtained at any store, for store tomatoes are usually picked while green and allowed to ripen on the way to market.

Use any vacant corner, preferably on the south side of the house or shed or fence. That insures plenty of sunshine, which is absolutely necessary for such a tropical plant as the tomato.

In this corner, or corners, "plant" a barrel. A common rain barrel is the best, good and strong. In the bottom place a nice collection of brickbats or clinkers, say about a foot or two in depth.

On this put enough earth to cover well, till half of the remaining distance with well rotted manure, or well rotted compost, now fill with good rich garden soil, and firm the whole. In the center plant a good, healthy tomato plant. Keep it well watered and as the soil sinks down add more.

The vine can fall over the side of the barrel.

On this vine tomatoes will grow until late in the fall, later than in the open garden, for it is protected from fall winds because it has only southern exposure.

The barrel must have a leaky bottom. If it hasn't punch two or three small holes in it near the bottom, so surplus water may drain.

This barrel must be watered frequently all season.

General Electric Co. Plans 199 Foot Extension of Store House.

The immense storehouse building erected on the eastern part of the General Electric company's factory ground two or three years ago, which at that time was believed to be large enough to meet the demands upon it for a number of years, is inadequate and will be enlarged. Next week teams and men will begin excavating for an addition on the south end of the building, carrying out the present style of construction 199 feet and the same width as the present building. The addition will be four stories and a basement and when completed will make the combined structure 350 feet long. Next week, or soon thereafter, the work of tearing down the old frame warehouse, designated as the "old No. 6," will start and the ground it occupies will probably be the site of a larger and better building. The company has not let the contract for the erection of the store building addition, but will probably do so soon. In the meantime the excavation will be made and everything arranged so that construction need not be delayed when the work of building commences.

REDUCING WORKING HOURS.

Nine Hours Work and Ten Hours Pay.

Commencing May 1, the owners of the O. K. machine shop, located on the corner of Fairfield avenue and Poplar street, will reduce the working hours from ten to nine per day, or to fifty hours per week, without a reduction in the wages. Over time work schedules will be the same as those in force in other organized machine shops in the city. The new schedule will be nine hours per day for the first five days and five hours for Saturday. The company, which is composed of G. W. and N. Fries and L. J. Johnson, made the above proposition voluntarily to show their appreciation of the hearty co-operation and good work of their employes. They have on the pay rolls at present thirty men, but the force is inadequate and must be increased, which will be done as soon as a new shop can be erected back of the present one. The company began business five years ago in a barn on Lincoln avenue, with only one lathe. Their business had a wonderful growth, however, and it soon became necessary to get a larger plant and the present shop was erected.

COLLISION ON SIDING.

G. R. & I. Locomotives Meet and Are Derailed.

The Pennsylvania wreck car and crew was summoned to Kendallville this morning to put two G. R. & I. locomotives on the tracks. They came together head-on on a siding north of that city. One was a work train which had taken a siding to let a southbound merchandise train pass and through error, the work train brakeman threw the switch as the freight was approaching and its course was diverted and the collision resulted. Both engines were derailed and damaged slightly, but nobody was injured and as the accident happened on a siding, the main track was not blocked.

PATRIOTIC LADIES.

Knitting Room Employes Have Patriotic Demonstration.

A number of flags have been dedicated at the Wayne Knitting mills, but it remained for Carl Rogge to raise the first flag in the knitting rooms, which was accomplished Thursday afternoon. Walter Ehrman gave a short talk and the young ladies who work for Mr. Ehrman, and Mr. Rogge sang the "Star Spangled Banner." Among those interested in the patriotic demonstration and who furnished the money to purchase the flag were the Misses Alice Moushey, Marie Enslen, Fern Morris and Helen Haag.

SHOP LEAGUE MEETNG.

There will be a meeting of the managers of the teams in the shop league at the home of Fred Rabus, 539 West Third street, at 8 o'clock tonight when the number of clubs in the league will be decided. The Western Gas works being practically closed, the ball team there has been abandoned and dropped from the league. It is now necessary to get another team or to reduce the number of teams in the league to four. It is quite likely the latter plan will be adopted.

PUNCH DEPARTMENT MOVED.

With the exception of the office fixtures and some of the appurtenances of the machine shop, the punch press department of the General Electric works is now located in the first floor building 26, on Wall street. Among the equipment moved were eighty of the biggest kind of punch presses. Foreman Joseph Schwartzkopf said this morning that he expected to have the entire department in operation early next week. Moving has been in progress for two weeks.

Gaskill left today for Nappanee, Ind., where they will attend the funeral of the brother of Mr. Sawyer and Mrs. Gaskill, who died following a surgical operation at a hospital. FENCE AROUND G. E. WORKS.

Material for an eight-foot iron fence around the General Electric company's plant, which is not otherwise protected, arrived on the grounds this morning and will soon be erected. It will be chiefly on the east side of the property, with an entrance gate at the northeast corner where the walk from Fairfield avenue enters the grounds.

FOUR YOUNG MEN WHO HAVE RESPONDED TO THEIR COUNTRY'S CALL.

E. HUSTON KIRKLAND.

CLIFTON ROSS.

ROBERT P. PORTER.

J. ROSS PARNIN.

All Fort Wayne people are patriotic and loyal to country and some are imbued with so deep a love of country and the desire to serve that they are induced to encourage their patriotic sons in enlisting and going to the "front." In proportion to their numbers, no class is more patriotic than the railway agents of Fort Wayne and this statement is substantiated by the fact that nearly all have sons who have either enlisted or are preparing to enlist. In the above group are portraits of four young men who have responded to the call of their country whose fathers are agents of Fort Wayne lines. E. Huston Kirkland is a son of Agent E. H. Kirkland, of the Pennsylvania freight department; J. Ross Parnin is a son of Frank P. Parnin, district passenger agent of the Nickel Plate; Robert P. Porter is a son of Freight Agent Charles P. Porter, of the Wabash, and Clifton Ross is a son of Passenger Agent John E. Ross, of the Pennsylvania. Robert Casey, a son of R. E. Casey, trainmaster of the Grand Rapids and Indiana, has also joined the signal corps and with the others will go to the "front" when the call comes. Huston Kirkland is a student; Ross Parnin is an electrician and for a year or two was employed in the testing department of the General Electric works. He resigned last week and Thursday night left for Fort Thomas, Ky., to train in the cavalry department; Robert P. Porter has been employed since he left school at the office of the Lincoln Life Insurance company. Young Parnin was a member of the Radio club and is quiet well informed in wireless telegraphy. He was not able to get in that department and was barred from the coast artillery because of not coming up to the requirements in the way of avoirdupoise. Ross Kirkland and Porter have joined the signal corps.

Think That Dickering With City Coliseum is Waste.

Citizens who are objecting to the board of works attempting to have the proposed city coliseum built, when only $180,000 will be available for its construction, may petition the board, at its next session, not to proceed further with the coliseum project this year.

Principal objection would be that the preliminary steps of advertising for bids will be an unwarranted expense to the city. By allowing the coliseum matter to rest quietly at this time Fort Wayne would be saved that money, which might be used to good advantage later, it is thought. Several city officials have said that it is useless to expend money for preliminary steps when there is no hope of a reliable contractor offering to construct the coliseum from first class materials for the amount now at hand.

This of all times is the moment when action should not be taken towards building the auditorium with the limited funds available, it is argued. War conditions have made the steel market, and other markets of building materials, very uncertain. Few definite deliveries can be promised, it is claimed. Prices are excessive, it is stated, and are soaring higher every day of the war. After there is a drop in price of materials would be the logical time to erect a city coliseum, such as Fort Wayne should have, it is claimed. Owing to the delay in delivering materials to the drained market and war conditions, there can be no hope of completing the coliseum this year, say men who have studied the markets.

A few citizens have discussed the matter of requesting the board of works to ask for a new set of drawings, especially for the exterior structure of the coliseum. The state that an attempt has been made to lavish unnecessary ornateness on the building. A part of the elaborate architectural designing for the exterior of the structure is unnecessary and costly, it is said. A less ornamented building might be constructed for less money and be just as staple as the unduly adorned affair now asked, it is believed.

NAMES OF ABOUT FIFTY APPLICANTS SENT IN

Much Interest is Taken in Camp for Officers' Reserve Corps.

Between forty and fifty applicants for the officers' reserve corps' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, were forwarded Saturday to the headquarters at Chicago by the local examining board, of which Captain E. H. Kilbourne is chairman.

These young men passed on here will be notified direct from the war department within the next few days if they are acceptable and will be directed to report to Captain George L. Byroade at the Elks' temple for further examination. Several already accepted by the department have been examined by Captain Byroade.

Interest in the officers' reserve corps has been most gratifying to the local committee, members of which are devoting much of their time, even to the neglect of their own business affairs, to the work. That Fort Wayne will make a splendid showing is now assured and the type of men accepted are high class in every respect and from the best families in northwestern Indiana. Only those who come up to the qualifications required by the department are accepted. Meetings of the board are held at the Commercial club each evening from 7 to 9, for examination of applicants.

Meetings of the advisory committee, of which A. A. Serva is chairman, were held Friday evening and Saturday at noon at the Commercial club.

Letters Are Sent Out.

The advisory committee has sent out the following letter to employers: "At a meeting of the advisory committee of the Northeastern Indiana District of the Military Training Camps association, central department, U. S. A., held at the Commercial club on the evening of April 27, 1917, the following resolution was passed:

" 'Be it resolved, That this committee recommend that those making application in the officers' reserve corps of the United States army and accepted by the advisory committee be restored to their present positions by their employers providing they fail in securing a commission after going through the training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison.'

"Will you as an employer subscribe to the above resolution? If so you will kindly indicate by filling in the enclosed blank and return same immediately by mail to the secretary of this committee, care the Commercial club."

WHY PUBLIC SCALES.

City Sealer Tolan Sets Out Their Benefits.

Because of what seems to be a distrust of use of the public scales in the market place, City Sealer Tolan has prepared the following article setting out the benefits of the registered scales in the city market:

"Since the Indiana weights and measures have become generally known, the question, 'How much does it cost?' usually asked by the purchaser is followed by the question, 'How much does it weigh?' And the purchaser is within his legal rights in asking these questions. These questions are no reflection on the honest dealer. Perhaps one of the most effective means of enforcing the provisions of the weights and measures laws and also educating the purchasing public to its requirements is the placing of a reweighing scale on our municipal market. This market is a center where a varied business is carried on by many people and where products that most largely enter into daily life are sold. Also a knowledge of the presence of a reweighing device will, in a large measure, cause one dishonestly inclined to respect the law.

"On our municipal market, at the north section at Wayne street, one of these scales has been installed for the benefit of the public and the gardeners and the weights and measures department sincerely hopes that all concerned will take advantage of it. I shall be on the market every market morning and in the event of any discrepancies in weights same will be immediately investigated and properly adjusted.

"I know of no other single feature of the weights and measures law that guards and protects the public from being defrauded by short weight comparable to this one. As heretofore expressed the law can do its perfect work only when all of its provisions are enforced, and I deem this one feature of enforcing the law worthy of the public's earnest thought and consideration."

Clerk to Return.

GET RID OF TEN TO SIXTY POUNDS.

To be excessively fat is very mortifying. People who are too stout are usually sensitive on this subject. Style and fat folks are strangers. Therefore, people who are carrying around a burden of unhealthy and unsightly fat will be glad to know that they may reduce their weight without starvation diet or tiresome exercise.

If you want to become thinner in a simple, safe and reliable way, here is a test worth trying. Spend some time daily in the open air, and get from the druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night. Also follow the other simple directions that come with the box.

Weigh yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight, and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take and costs little. A testing sample, with book, will be mailed free, in a plain envelope, if you write to Korein Company, 160 E. Arcade, East 28th Street, New York, N. Y.

Even a few days' treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, with the flesh firm, the skin smooth and the general health improved.

"Funeral services were held at the home of a daughter, Mrs. George Richards, of North Milton avenue on Tuesday afternoon. Interment took place in the North Whittier Heights cemetery. Rev. W. S. FORT WAYNE MEN AT Y. M. C. A. WAR COUNCIL

E. L. Mogge is Recommended as Executive Secretary for This State.

One hundred and fifty representative citizens of Indiana took dinner together Friday noon in the Riley room of the Claypool hotel at Indianapolis. These men had responded to a hurried call from the state office of the Young Men's Christian association to attend a "war council" regarding the service which the association might render the state and federal troops at their mobilization camps during the next eight months.

Fort Wayne was represented by Judge O. N. Heaton, B. Paul Mossman, E. E. Griest, George P. Evans and Edwin W. Peirce. Governor James P. Goodrich presided and called upon every man present to do his duty during the present national crisis. He prophesied, that within the next two weeks, every citizen would be notified to register for such military service for which his age, training or occupation might best fit him, saying that Indiana had never failed to do its duty as an integral part of the nation and he believed she would not fail to do her utmost at this time. He spoke in the highest terms of the service the Y. M. C. A. had been able to render Indiana and other troops on the Mexican border, emphasizing the importance of this larger work in safeguarding the physical, moral and spiritual life of our sons as they will be gathered in the twelve great army camps over the country.

Fairbanks Makes Address.

Addresses were also made by former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, a life-long friend and adviser of the Young Men's Christian association, and Albert E. Roberts, international Y. M. C. A. secretary of New York. Mr. Roberts reviewed, briefly, Y. M. C. A. work among the men of the army and navy during the Spanish-American war, the Russo-Japanese war, emphasizing particularly the eagerness with which the governments of Europe and Asia had accepted the service of the association to the men under arms, to those in the trenches and in the prison camps in the armies, save those of Turkey. He also stated that the work among one million men soon to be mobilized require the service of one thousand secretaries, physical directors and assistants and a fund of $3,000,000 to finance the work during the next eight months.

Indiana Pledges $150,000.

At the conclusion of the dinner resolutions were unanimously adopted, expressing the conviction that Indiana citizens will gladly help this work, determining to raise a fund of $150,000 before May 31 as Indiana's share of the expense fund. Illinois has already raised $219,000 toward a fund of $300,000; Michigan will raise $250,000 and Ohio also $250,000. A state war work council of seventy-five men will be organized at once to supervise all phases of this work and the conference recommended that E. L. Mogge be made executive secretary of this council.

The state will be divided into nine districts, each district undertaking to raise its share of this state fund during the week of May 20th. Fort Wayne will doubtless be the headquarters of District No. 3, which includes Steuben, Dekalb, Whitley, Allen, Huntington, Wells, Adams and Blackford counties.

WOMAN SEEKS CITY OFFICE

WOULD REPRESENT THE FIRST WARD

On List of Socialist Candidates Which Were Filed Saturday.

All hail to Fort Wayne's first candidate for councilwoman.

The first woman to step bravely forward and demand a seat in the midst of a body commonly called "the city fathers," is Mrs. Jennie Soughan, 1121 Elmwood avenue. She considers that women have as good a right to hold office as they have to vote and furthermore, she adds with the zest of a real politician, "I expect to be elected."

Fort Wayne's pioneer councilwoman candidate is running on the socialist ticket. She filed her name with City Clerk Gustave W. Boerger on Saturday morning, along with nine other socialists who seek office next fall, and who have entered their names for places on the ticket.

The election law states that political parties which have not polled enough votes to be represented in the primary shall file the list of their candidates before the registration board convenes on May 6. The socialist party has filed nearly all its candidates at this time.

Declines to Get Excited.

The woman standard-bearer on the city ticket refused to show any signs of elation when her attention was called by the reporter to the unique position she had chosen for herself. She is on the ticket because she feels it a duty, she states. She has several reforms in mind for the First ward, which she seeks to represent, she says, and one of these is the beautification of the river bank. She will support the socialist city platform which calls loudly for municipal ownership of all utilities, she gives out.

Mrs. Soughan, who is a widow, will make no public addresses unless invited by organizations to speak on special occasions. She has lived in Fort Wayne for four years, since the death of her husband, although for the past twenty-five years she has lived near the city, she says. She is now starting to make a special study of local conditions to fit herself for taking her office, she explained.

Has Been Suffragist.

The woman candidate is employed in the Foster shirtwaist factory. She has a son six years old. She is a well educated woman who has been an earnest advocate of woman's suffrage for years.

Mrs. Soughan calls attention to the fact that she will be out but little money, even if she looses the fight for a council seat. Her campaign so far has cost her nothing, as the socialist picked their leaders in a meeting of the most ardent advocates of public ownership, several days ago. Mrs. Soughan will give her time in distributing literature rather than giving her money, she states.

Other socialist candidates for the city campaign, which have been registered with the clerk are: Philip H. Doty, for mayor; Max Klaren, for city judge; Carl H. Becker, for clerk; Walter Eickmeyer, for councilman-at-large; Mrs. Jennie Soughan, councilwoman from First ward; W. H. DeCamp, councilman, Second ward; A. J. Wraight, councilman, Fifth ward; N. B. Holdsworth, councilman, Sixth ward; John Hisler, councilman, Ninth ward, and Bryce McIntosh, councilman, Tenth ward.

GOVERNMENT WANTS STENOGRAPHERS NOW

Fort Wayne has been asked by federal authorities to secure as many candidates as possible for examinations for stenographers and typewriters to be conducted at the postoffice building, every Tuesday until the ranks for war needs are filled. Part of the communication to W. J. Hess, in charge of the examination department, reads:

"Greatly increased demands for stenographers and typewriters in the United States government service at Washington, D. C., owing to the present emergency, require frequent examinations. Appointments in large numbers are to be made as soon as eligibles are available. It is the manifest duty of citizens with this special knowledge to use it at this time where it will be of most value to the government.

"For the present, examinations for the department service, both men and women, will be held every Tuesday, in 400 of the principal cities of the United States, and applications may be filed with the commissioner at Washington, D. C., at any time.

"The entrance salary ranges from $900 to $1,200 a year. Advancement of capable employes is reasonably rapid.

For full particulars address W. J. Hess, Fort Wayne.

Emma Berry, seven years old, who has been critically ill with pneumonia, is greatly improved at her home, on Boone street.

Mrs. Edith Darby and daughters, Nina and Naomi, will leave Sunday morning for Waterloo to attend the funeral of Dr. A. B. Darby.

231 ARTILLERY MEN ARE MUSTERED IN

Solemn Scenes Surround Ceremony of Taking Oath of Allegiance.

Two hundred and thirty-one young men who enlisted in the battery organizations of this city were sworn into service Friday evening at the court house. Solemn scenes surrounded the ceremony as the young men held up their right hand and swore that they would defend the Stars and Stripes.

Of this number of men 137 compose the new battery which has been organized here. This leaves room for many more who can still be used in this artillery organization. A campaign for new recruits will begin at once.

The two batteries and Company E will participate in the flag-raising at Weisser park Sunday afternoon. All members are urged to be present at the court house an hour before the time for the ceremonies so that they can march to the scene in a body.

Organize a Drill Squad.

A number of the members of the Fort Wayne Rifle and Revolver club are organizing a drill squad for the purpose of acquiring some knowledge of drill regulation and military practice. The organization of this drill squad is not being officially handled by the Rifle club, but is being taken care of by the club members as individuals.

A meeting of all Rifle club members is to be held in the assembly room of the court house Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock for the purpose of organizing. About 150 members have already signified their decsire to take up this practice.

WILL MEAN MORE WORK FOR POLICE

Conscription Will Place Extra Duty on Cities, Mayor Says.

It may be the war duty of the police to go out and bring in for registration many of the young men of the city when the conscription bill passes, Mayor W. J. Hosey states. The mayor returned home from Indianapolis Friday evening, where he met with thirty other mayors of the state in regard to the food situation and was in consultation with Governor Goodrich on the subject of action to be taken after the draft bill passes.

Young men coming within the age limits of the conscription measure will have to register, Governor Goodrich plans. He expects to have every county register all its available young men. Cities of over 30,000 population will carry out their own registration. When young men do not voluntarily register the police will be ordered to bring them in by force, Goodrich states.

As soon as the proposed draft law passes Mayor Hosey is to be informed by the governor of the duty expected of Fort Wayne as a city.

Zurich, Switzerland, April 28.—(Via Paris.)—The German-Swiss frontier has been strictly closed to all travelers and postal service. No German newspapers have arrived since Wednesday. This is usually the prelude to an important military move.

Berlin, April 28.—(Via London, 6:00 p. m.)—A submarine has successfully bombarded the harbor works, important for troops, near Gouraya, west of Algiers, says an official statement issued today. One loading bridge was demolished and another badly damaged. Gouraya lies on the Algerian Mediterranean coast, sixty miles west of Algiers.

Paris, April 28.—The Matin says that news has been received at British headquarters that Lieut. Wm. Lee Robinson, who destroyed a Zeppelin, is not dead but a prisoner in Germany. Lieutenant Robinson's gasoline ran out and he was obliged to land within the German lines.

HE WARNS AMERICA OF GOING IN UNPREPARED

Gen. Joffre Says Enormous Loss Can Be Escaped Only by Being Ready.

Washington, April 28.—The military section of the French mission, headed by Marshal Joffre, during conferences continued today with representatives of the war department, warned the United States that active participation in the war without absolute preparation and previous contact with field operations would invite enormous losses. This became known today after Emile Hovelaque, general counsellor, speaking for the mission, had outlined a statement to be made tomorrow by Marshal Joffre to the American press.

"Marshal Joffre will tell you," said Mr. Hovelaque, "why he has come to the United States, without of course revealing any of the negotiations with the American government which must be regarded as confidential. He will tell you about the French army, conditions in France and how the United States can best co-operate in a military way with the armies of France in this war. He'll make clear the fact that this is a war of constant changes of conditions. From week to week everything on nearly every front is altered and moved. An army is like a lot of ants, moving, moving, moving—working to strike the first blow.

"You must realize that Americans cannot be trained in this country to play at war. They should be there on the field. Americans should know these things first hand and what war really is before they go into it on a large scale. Unless America has accurate knowledge of real war conditions instead of play war, it may cost you much.

"You will be surprised to learn how rapidly the conditions change. Lieut. Col. Remond, who probably knows more about artillery than any man in France, said to me only yesterday, 'I am afraid of getting stale before I get back to France.'"

candidategM af or aftraft of trehiet

Amsterdam, April 28.—(Via London, 5:45 p. m.)—According to the account given by the Tageblatt, of Berlin, of the statement regarding submarine warfare, made to the Reichstag main committee by Vice Admiral von Capelle, minister of the navy, the Germans in the first two months of unrestricted submarine operations lost only six U-boats, a number which in the same period was surpassed several times by new construction.

The admiral said neither the British nor their allies dared public the names and tonnages of ships sunk. He referred to the numerous reports and the monthly compilations prepared by the German admiralty regarding the booty. Being questioned regarding the abandoning of submarine warfare the minister expressed the opinion that the day was not far off when Great Britain must declare her readiness to enter into peace negotiations.

Washington, April 28.—Lord Northcliffe, the noted British publisher, has offered the output of his print paper mills in northeastern Canada to American newspaper publishers to relieve the print paper situation. TRADING IN FUTURES BARRED IN WINNIPEG

Wheat Takes Far Tumble When Gambling in It is Stopped.

Winnipeg, April 28.—Announcement was made at the Winnipeg grain exchange today that no trading in futures would be permitted in the pit hereafter without sanction of a censoring committee composed of the secretary, Dr. Robert Magill; the manager of the clearing house, F. O. Fowler, and Thomas Brodie, representing the floor committee.

After a conference of the council of the exchange, President J. G. Gage, of the exchange, read the following message signed by J. G. Stewart, for the royal wheat commission: "This is your authority to announce that no buying of Winnipeg wheat futures has taken place by the allied governments during the last forty odd cents advance and that we have sufficient bought for present requirements."

Another session of the council then was held and President Gage announced the prohibition of trading in futures. This action, he said, had been deemed necessary in view of the critical condition of the market. He expressed the belief that the action would maintain trade along legitimate lines, notwithstanding the fact that information before the council would indicate that the holdings in the market were almost entirely for the account of the British government and Canadian millers and that the Canadian millers had assured the exchange their holdings were for present requirements only. A desk was placed in the pit and three censors began operations. The almost immediate effect was the lowering of the market which in fifteen minutes sold off 20 cents for May. Minneapolis May declined 16 to 18 cents in the same period.

CHICAGO MAYOR MAY ANSWER TO FEDERAL COURT

Chicago, Ill., April 28.—Utterances of Mayor William Hale Thompson, of Chicago, relative to the war and including statements criticizing conscription were called to the attention of the federal authorities today by a volunteer committee of three citizens. The committee visited District Attorney C. F. Clyne and is said to have demanded that some action be taken by the government.

Mayor Thompson stated his opposition to conscription during an interview regarding the proposal that he invite members of the French mission to Chicago

French and British Commissions Meet Washington Officials.

Washington, April 28.—American officials today met members of the British and French commissions in the second day's series of conferences devoted entirely to discussing and decided definite problems of the war without the preliminary groping after bases of mutual understanding. The day promised to develop rapid progress in the solution of what the United States is to do to aid the allied nations most efficiently in beating Germany.

The morning was devoted to business talks among Americans, British and French behind closed doors at a number of government departments, with various experts paired off to work over particular phases assigned to each.

Food and financial problems loomed large as the conferences progressed and the former is dependent largely on America's ability to furnish ships to keep a stream of supplies moving from this country to Europe. In this connection Germany's recent increasing effectiveness with her submarine blockade was given serious consideration, particularly by Foreign Minister Balfour and the other British commissioners.

Cabinet dinners were on the program for tonight by Attorney General Gregory for M. Viviani; Secretary Baker for Marshal Joffre, and Secretary Daniels for Admiral Chocheprat. The dinners were to be followed by a reception for the mission at the Army and Navy club by Secretaries Baker and Daniels.

Tomorrow British and French visitors will sail down the Potomac on the president's yacht, Mayflower, to visit Mount Vernon as guests of Secretary Daniels.

MR. TAFT URGES NEED OF MONEY FOR RED CROSS

Washington, April 28.—Former President Taft conferred with Secretary Baker today about the military units being trained at Yale university. Later he went to the white house to discuss Red Cross affairs with the president.

Mr. Taft dined last night with British Foreign Minister Balfour and outlined to President Wilson plans of the Red Cross for raising a large sum of money to finance its war activities. "We must get down to a war basis," said Mr. Taft. "Many things which are proper in peace time are not efficient with the nation at war. The Red Cross is preparing to do its part in the war."

Mr. Taft declared that the need in the United States at present was to awaken the people to the seriousness of the situation. Many do not realize, he said, that the nation is at war. It is very necessary, he declared, for the people to get down to a war basis quickly.

London, April 28.—The Huns are now fighting for their lives against the irresistible pressure of the "contemptible little British army," said one of the British generals today, as quoted by Reuters correspondent at British headquarters. The conflict is proceeding fiercely. By means of prisoners already taken, several fresh German divisions have been identified.

The Wednesday evening testimony meeting is at 8 o'clock. The reading room, at 824 Ewing street, for the free use of the public, is open every afternoon except Sundays and holidays, from 12 to 5 and also Saturday evening from 7 to 9 p. m.

ANOTHER SPANISH SHIP SUNK.

Madrid, Via Paris, April 28.—Premier Prieto has announced that he has received official confirmation of an attack by a German submarine on the Spanish steamer Triana and has addressed a strong protest to Germany.

Details of the incident show that a few minutes after a shell had been fired at the Triana the commander of the submarine boarded the steamer and offered excuses, insisting that he only fired after the steamer had ignored a blank shot.

BALL PLAYERS DRILLING.

New York, April 28.—President Johnson, of the American league, who is in this city, said today that while he had no assurances from government or army officials he has reason to believe that if the proposed conscription law becomes operative it will not be applied to the players on his circuit until the season ends in October. "All of the American league teams," said the executive, "with the exception of the Boston Red Sox, have become proficient in military tactics."

SERVICES AT MISSION.

Saturday night there will be an old-time praise and song service. Sunday afternoon, Sunday school at 3 p. m., and in the evening the regular evangelistic service, in which Mr. J. A. Nipper will speak. Special music.

EXPERT NURSE LEAVES TODAY

She Has Been Here Preparing Teachers for Hospital Supply Classes.

WILL BE SENT TO ST. LOUIS NEXT

Effort is Being Made to Interest Parent-Teacher Associations.

Miss Mary Johnson, expert nurse, who has been here for the past three weeks teaching Fort Wayne women how to become teachers in the making of hospital supplies for the Red Cross society, will leave Saturday evening for Chicago. From Chicago she expects to be sent to St. Louis next week.

An effort is being made to interest the members of the various parent-teacher associations. The president of each of these associations will be taught the work and they will be expected to organize classes among the various organizations. In this manner the work can be carried on in every part of the city, in the opinion of officials of the local chapter.

There were no classes at headquarters Saturday, the day being devoted to wrapping the various articles that have already been made.

Supply Committee Meets.

The Red Cross supply committee held a meeting at headquarters on East Berry street, Friday afternoon, to arrange for the instruction of the new classes coming in next week. There will be special tables for the regular classes, also tables will be available at all hours for those who are unable to take the work regularly but wish to drop in when possible and work for a few hours. These irregulars have been listed as transients and will have an instructor any time they can come to do the work.

Miss Mary Johnson, who has had the entire responsibility of instructing the two classes for teachers, during the past three weeks, leaves Sunday for Chicago, where there is urgent need of her services. Miss Johnson was requested to come before the committee with any final suggestion which she might be able to give. She spoke at length and said in part as follows:

"Since the war gauze has lost its regulation thirty-six-inch width so we cannot hold strictly to dimensions except along the selvage. Therefore, do your work well and as nearly to dimensions as possible.

"The work turned out here has gone so far beyond my expectations that when I look at that beautiful lot of supplies I feel constrained to grab them up and take them with me to Chicago. I feel that I am leaving teachers who are well qualified by reason of their earnest and conscientious application, to give the work. I am not at all concerned about the result because I know what it will be and Fort Wayne will be watched very carefully by both Chicago and Washington as they have so long desired the work taken up here.

Things to Remember.

"I especially urge the teachers to remember present conditions, be careful to label all cut pieces of gauze and above all waste no material. Do not, in giving instruction, insist upon an individual doing the work just as you do it. Result is what counts and another may go about making the supplies in another way than your way, but if finished neatly and according to instructions that is the important thing. Be considerate of pupils, instill into each woman that she is expected to do her part. Make the instructions definite, but as briefly and concisely as possible. Insist upon quiet in class, do not permit the noise of one disorderly class to hinder the progress of another. Watch the stock carefully and make up different lines of supplies proportionately. Work toward a system and keep up the standard of the work. I shall run in on you unannounced this summer and I expect to see the same grade of stock on the shelves."

The ladies of the class expressed their thanks and appreciation to Miss Johnson for her untiring efforts to which she responded with feeling.

WAR QUOTA OF NAVY IS ALMOST ATTAINED

Full war quota for the navy is rapidly being attained, and barriers which were taken down a month ago are now being replaced. Word to the Fort Wayne station, on Saturday, states that the age for apprentice seamen, when they may be excused from waivers, is raised from 16 years to 17 years. The requirements had been lowered a month ago when navy recruiting was at its height.

Officers at the Fort Wayne station believe the navy ranks will be filled to full capacity in a few more days. From that time on the waiting list for seamen will be maintained.

ENTERTAIN'S MEN CLASS.

H. E. Stephens delightfully entertained the members of the Men's Bible class of the Wayne Street M. E. Sunday school, Friday evening at his home, 3302 South Broadway. Prof. F. M. Price, teacher of the class, and Mr. Stephens served as chief cooks, L. L. Miller is president of the class and F. Y. Cross, chairman of the social committee.

THORPE'S GREATEST AMBITION MAY BE REALIZED BY HIS TRANSFER TO CINCINNATI.

(By Paul Purman.)

*With Milwaukee. Other years with the Giants.

One of the most surprising baseball transfers of the year was consummated when Jim Thorpe, Giant outfielder and all-round athlete, was sold by McGraw to Cincinnati.

It is surprising because Thorpe gave promise early this season of having his best year in baseball.

When I visited the Giants at Marlin early in the training season the universal verdict was that Thorpe had at last "arrived."

He has developed into a dangerous hitter and his fielding has improved wonderfully.

With a handful of clever outfielders and facing the twenty-two player limit, McGraw probably reasoned that he could better afford to sell Jim than to send him back to the minors again this year.

Thorpe should develop into a great ball player under Mathewson's tutelage, and his extra base clouts should be of great value to the Cincinnati Reds.

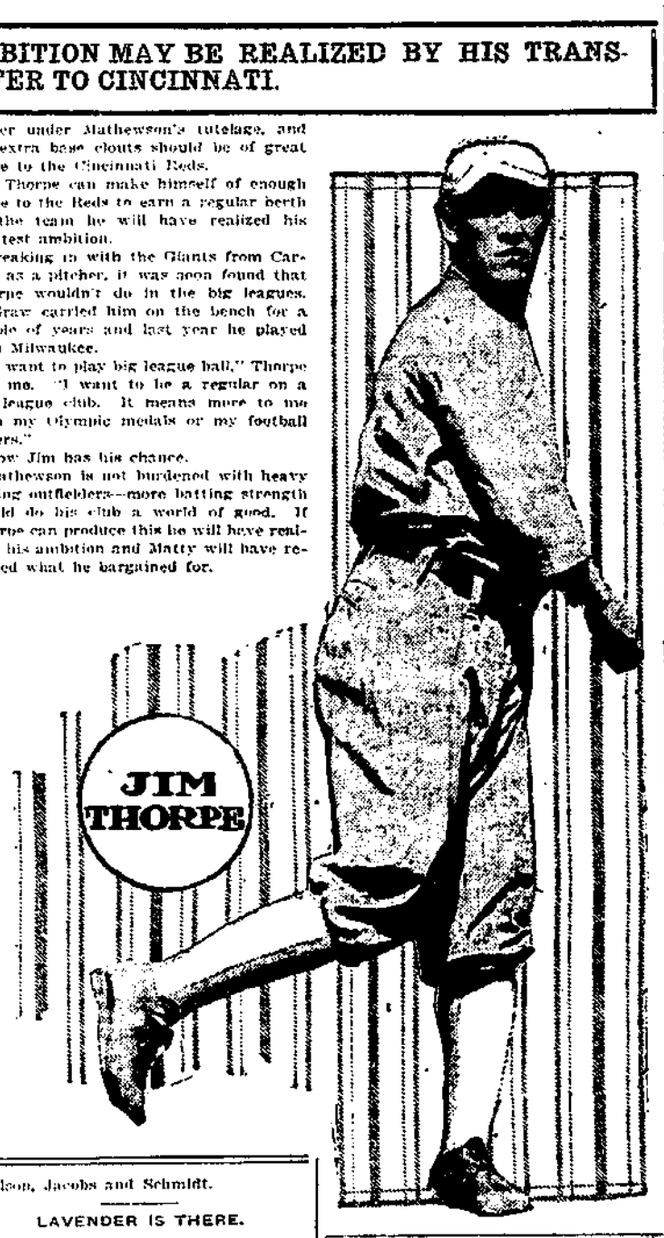
If Thorpe can make himself of enough value to the Reds to earn a regular berth on the team he will have realized his greatest ambition.

Breaking in with the Giants from Carlisle as a pitcher, it was soon found that Thorpe wouldn't do in the big leagues. McGraw carried him on the bench for a couple of years and last year he played with Milwaukee.

"I want to play big league ball," Thorpe told me. "I want to be a regular on a big league club. It means more to me than my Olympic medals or my football letters."

Now Jim has his chance.

Mathewson is not burdened with heavy hitting outfielders—more batting strength would do his club a world of good. If Thorpe can produce this he will have realized his ambition and Matty will have received what he bargained for.



HE NAMED THE CHIEFS.

GAH BOWERS.

Gah Bowers, whose picture is shown above, is the lad of eleven years who named the Fort Wayne baseball club the Chiefs. Gah is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Bowers, 1315 Wells street, and a student in the seventh grade of the Bloomingdale school. The name suggested by him was chosen unanimously, and when the name of the sender was looked up it proved to be that of Gah Bowers. He is now the proud possessor of a season ticket to the league games.

Irish potatoes and most other vegetables and fruits tend to make the body tissues and fluids alkaline, so correcting the tendency of meat, eggs, fish and similar foods to create acid conditions. Since the body performs its work best when it is neutral or slightly alkaline, this function of fruits and vegetables is important, especially to the hearty meat eater.

"South Bend Night" in Indiana Pin Meet Slated for Tonight.

Finishing up with a game which was easily the best of any in the tourney so far, the Minuet Electric five-man club took first place in the state bowling meet last night, getting a total of 2,894. That a Fort Wayne club should take first place in this event after that position has been held since the opening night by a Gary club was reason enough for a real celebration.

Getting a good start, the electricians started out with a count of 971. They let down in the second somewhat and knocked off 914. It was in the final, however, that they put across the money-winning work and ended with a count of 1,009. This game has rings around any former count of the meet. Chick Carr and Farnan stood out as stars of the game, but all five of the club were there with the pill.

The Lyric Buffets also landed in the lists, making a count of 2,738. The game of this club was far from sensational, but was steady and consistent all the way. The Paiges slumped from their usual top-notch game, failing to land in the money. They came through with a score of 2,533, however, which is far from a rotten total.

WINS PENTHALON FOR THIRD STRAIGHT YEAR

Howard Berry Stars in First Day of Annual Penn Relays.

Philadelphia, April 28.—For the third consecutive times Howard Berry, of the University of Pennsylvania took first place in the penthalon of the annual Penn relays, being held here yesterday and today. He won the running broad jump, the javelin throw, the 200 and 1,500 metres runs in handy fashion, and took third place in the javelin throw. Berry is a football star, baseball player and a member of the national guard.

Berry scored seven points, B. Jones, of Pennsylvania state, was second with fifteen points. The scores made by the other five men in the competition were: A. Dambly, Pennsylvania state, 17; H. Hoot, Swarthmore college, 20; W. Creighton, University of Pennsylvania, 24; C. Canzel, Bucknell, 26; W. McCarthy, Lehigh, 30.

In winning the 200-metre race Berry made faster time than he did in 1916, and Dambly broke the pentathlon record in capturing the discus throw. Chicago had a walkover in the American championship distance medley relay race, her team running away from Pennsylvania, the only other entrant.

War conditions had some effect on the meet, several of the larger universities, usually represented, scratching their entries.

The performances, with few exceptions, were only fair. The 440 yards hurdle race, which usually attracts many good performers, had but three entries. It was won by F. G. Smart, of Northwestern university. One of his opponents was Meanix, the fast Harvard man, who led Smart until the stretch was reached.

In winning the running hop, step and jump, W. B. Overbee, of Illinois, an added entry, made a new collegiate record of 45 feet 4½ inches. The former record was 4 5feet 6½ inches, made by Carter, of Illinois, last year.

Real competition will take place today, the big day of the meet, when the one, two and four-mile college relay championships will be decided. The pick of the country is also expected to appear in some of the field events.

CENTRAL LEAGUE UMPS STAFF.

SHOWN ABOVE ARE THE LIKENESSES OF THE CENTRAL LEAGUE UMPIRING STAFF. ONE OF THEM WILL APPEAR IN EACH GAME HERE DURING THE YEAR, AND IN ORDER TO KNOW AT WHOM THEY ARE CHUCKING CUSHIONS, FANS MIGHT DO WELL TO STUDY THE FACES.

LAST GAME OF SERIES TO BE PLAYED SUNDAY

Insurance Men to Oppose Chiefs in Final of Three Contests.

Sunday afternoon the Lincoln Life club and Vandy's Chiefs will cross bats in the final game of a three-way series. That this will be the best of the games is undoubted and a large crowd is expected to witness the final work of the leaguers here before the opening of the season.

For the Lincoln Lifes Bobby Smith and Lefty Grimes have been picked as mound toilers. They are a pair of the classiest performers in the semi-pro game ever seen around here, and will in all probability make the Fort Wayne club work to get anything at all.

Vandy will have his very best performers lined up for action against Mart Cleary's outfit. Some of the fastest additions to the staff will be seen in action as well as the players who have been toiling here for a pair of weeks.

Sign New Pitcher.

One more addition has been made to the club, Pitcher Higbe, of Portland, Ore., in the Pacific Coast league, having closed with the local bosses. Higbe has a record in the Three-I which leads baseball men of the city to believe that he will perform in real style.

An announcement from President Dickerson gives out the official statement that the league will start Thursday with the following clubs and managers: Evansville, Punch Knoll; Grand Rapids, Bill Essick; South Bend, Harry Smith; Muskegon, Jimmy Hamilton; Richmond, Bade Meyers; Springfield, Joe Dunn; Dayton, Johnny Nee, and Fort Wayne, Carl Vandagrift.

Speaking of Sport Lurid Larry Says:

Now that the name of Chiefs has been given the Fort Wayne baseball club, we don't have to spend so much time thinking of something to call them. This is lucky because most of the things we thought of couldn't be used in the paper, but still the season hasn't opened yet.

If Les Darcy shows as much persistence in the ring as he has trying to get bouts he should be a real bearcat.

Old Col. Alibi is back on the job. Fred Fulton now says he was framed.

It takes an old-timer to remember when Jay Gould wasn't national court tennis champion.

Sid Hatch has run in another Marathon. Sid will still be running when Willie Hoppe has retired.

HONEST, I WASN'T GONNA PLAY GOLF! I'M JUST COMING HOME FROM A MASQUERADE PARTY!
SHH BOYS! STEADY! WE GOT 'EM WITH TH' GOODS - CAUGHT RED HANDED ON TH' SABBATH PLAYING CHECKERS!
AH! HAH! MARBLES ON SUNDAY! WITH THIS ARREST I SEE WHERE I'LL BE ON TH' ROLL OF HONOR NEXT MONTH!
GENE AHERN

If you go in for a thing, go in for it strong.

That's the way the state solons of North Carolina feel about it anyway, and to polish off the edges of their blue laws which were born with state-wide prohibition several years ago, Sunday golf is to be put under the ban.

The old days of cock fightin' and hoss racin' have passed from North Carolina. Pokah, sah, that regal game of gentle'men, is frowned upon with a frown that Cotton Mather might envy, and now Sunday golf is to get the hooks.

North Carolina has not yet decided to make playing checkers or dominoes on Sunday illegal or to "pinch" the kids when they shoot marbles on the Sabbath, but it may come—who knows.

RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

(By A. Spangle, of Fort Wayne.)

By what figure does the Bible represent death?

"But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorry not, even as others which have no hope."

1 Thess. iv:13. See also 1 Cor. xv:18, 20; John xi:11-14.

Note.—In sound sleep one is wholly lost to consciousness; time goes by unmeasured; and the mental functions which are active during consciousness are suspended for the time being.

Where do the dead sleep?

"And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake." Dan. xii:2. See also Eccl. iii:20; 9-10.

How long will they sleep there?

"So man lieth down, and riseth not: till the heavens be no more, they shall not awake, nor be raised out of their sleep." Job xiv:12.

For what did Job say he would wait after death?

"If a man die, shall he live again? all the days of my appointed time will I wait, till my change come." Verse 14.

Where did he say he would wait?

"If I wait, the grave is mine house: I have made my bed in the darkness." Job. xvii:13.

While in this condition, how much does he know about those he left behind?

"His sons come to honor, and he knoweth it not; and they are brought low, but he perceiveth it not of them." Job. xiv:21.

What becomes of man's thoughts at death?

Do the dead know anything?

"For the living know that they shall die: but the dead know not anything, neither have they any reward; for the memory of them is forgotten." Eccl. ix:5.

Do they take any part in earthly things?

"Also their love, and their hatred, and their envy, is now perished; neither have they any more a portion forever in anything that is done under the sun." Verse 6.

Note.—If one continues in consciousness after death, he would know of the promotion or dishonor of his sons. But Job says he does not know this. Not only so, but in death one loses all the attributes of mind—love, hatred, envy, etc. Thus it is plain that his thoughts have perished, and that he can have nothing more to do with the things of this world. But if, as taught and held by some, man's powers of thought continue after death, he lives; and if he lives, he must be somewhere. Where is he? Is he in heaven or in hell? If he goes to either place at death, what, then, is the need of a future judgment, or a resurrection, or of the second coming of Christ? If the judgment does not take place at death, but men go to their reward at death, then their rewards precede their awards, and there would arise the possibility that some have at death gone to the wrong place, and must needs be sent to the other, after having been in bliss or torment for ages, perhaps.

What does the psalmist say about the dead praising God?

"The dead praise not the Lord, neither any that go down into silence." Ps. cxv:17.

How much does one know of God when dead?

"For in death there is no remembrance of Thee." Ps. vi:5.

Note.—There is not even a remembrance of God. As already seen, the Bible everywhere represents the dead as asleep. If they were in heaven or in hell, would it be befitting to represent them thus? Was Lazarus, whom Jesus loved, in heaven when the Savior said, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth?" John xi:11. If so, calling him to life The parable of the rich man and Lazarus, recorded in Luke xvi., was given to teach, not consciousness in death, but that in the judgment riches will avail nothing unless rightly and beneficently used, and that poverty will not keep one out of heaven. But are not the righteous dead in heaven?

"For David is not ascended into the heavens." Acts ii:34.

Where is he?

"Men and brethren, let me freely speak unto you of the patriarch David, that he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre is with us unto this day." Verse 29.

What must take place before the dead can praise God?

"Thy dead men shall live, together with My dead body shall they arise. Awake and sing, ye that dwell in dust: for thy dew was as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast out the dead." Isa. xxvi:19.

When did David say he would be satisfied?

"As for me, I will behold Thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake with Thy likeness." Ps. xvii:15.

Were there to be no resurrection of the dead, what would be the condition of those fallen asleep in Christ?

"For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised: and if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." I Cor. xv:16-18.

When is the resurrection of the righteous to take place?

"For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the Archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first." Thess. iv:16.

Notes:—If, as stated in Eccl. xiv:5, the dead know not anything, then they have no knowledge of the lapse of time. "Six thousand years in the grave to a dead man is no more than a wink of the eye to the living." To them, consciousness, our only means of measuring time, is gone: and it will seem to them when they awake that absolutely no time has elapsed. And herein lies a most comforting thought in the Bible doctrine of the sleep of the dead, that in death there is no consciousness of the passing of time. To those who sleep in Jesus, their sleep, whether long or short, whether one year, one thousand years, or six thousand years, will be but as if the moment of sad parting were followed instantly by the glad reunion in the presence of Jesus at His glorious appearing and the resurrection of the just.

It ought to be a comforting thought to those whose lives have been filled with anxiety and grief for deceased loved ones who persisted in sin, to know that they are not suffering in torments, but, with all the rest of the dead, are quietly sleeping in their graves. Job. iii:17.

Again it would mar the felicity of one's enjoyment in heaven could he look upon earth and see his friends and relatives suffering from persecution, want, cold, or hunger, or sorrowing for the dead. God's way is best—that all sentient life, animation, activity, thought and consciousness should cease at death, and that all should wait 'till the resurrection for their future life and eternal reward. See Heb. xi:39, 40.

Sleep on, beloved! sleep, take thy rest;
Lay down thy head upon thy Savior's breast.
We love well, but Jesus loves thee best—
Good night.

BEER OR BREAD?

For weeks past the country has been agitated from one border to the other on the question of food distribution and food prices. The high cost of living is making itself almost prohibitive. The liquor traffic is responsible. It is a raid on the American pantry. All the elements that enter into food prices are deleteriously affected by the liquor trade. Take, for example, raw material. Alcohol cannot be made except by destroying carbohydrate foods, such as sugar and starch, and while sugar is mounting to 15 cents a pound the liquor traffic is consuming each year enough sugar to supply the entire country for thirty days. We are taking sugar from the mouths of babies to enrich the brewers. A vast amount of labor is wasted in producing, transporting and distributing alcoholic beverages. It is estimated that the muscular man-power expended, not in making, but merely in handling, the output of the liquor factories is sufficient to set up and pull down the great pyramid of Egypt nine times a year, although it took 100,000 men a generation to build it.

The papers have been reciting in flaming headlines the stories of food riots in New York because of a car shortage, but the liquor trade uses the equivalent of three thousand trains of 200 tons each year. It wastes millions of cubic feet of space in our export and import shipping; crowds our docks; fills our freight cars, crowding out of them articles of food. The labor efficiency-loss each year to America because of drink is equivalent to the entire nation standing idle for thirty days.

In these times of high taxes and high prices every dollar wasted buys misery for large parts of our population, and all this is saying nothing of the vice, crime, disease, sorrow, and pain resulting from the drink traffic.

THE RESURRECTION

When we see the sun set, we know that it will rise again, and so when we see the forms of our friends borne to the voiceless dwelling of the tomb, we know that they also shall rise again. Every night of Death is followed by a Resurrection morning. How precious is the truth that God's people shall rise from the dead! How rise? With glorified bodies upon which the second death can have no power. Rise by what power? By the mighty power of God. Rise when? When the Lord shall be revealed from heaven with all His mighty angels, then shall they be caught up to meet Him in the air. Rise to what? To glory, honor and immortality in the presence chamber of God. How these thoughts light up with brightness the sepulchre of the righteous! How the doctrine of the resurrection throws a halo over every Christian headstone, and makes each open grave a little postern gate leading unto glory!

Have you lost a father, mother, child, lover, and were they Christ's before they died? Then lift up your heads, wipe away your tears, cheer up your hearts for they shall come forth again before your face. This sunset, though it left you in gloom and midnight sorrow, will soon be followed by the dawn of the resurrection day, and when the archangel's trump shall awaken the myriads who slumber in earth's bosom, your loved ones who sunk to rest in Jesus will rise again to meet and glorify their Lord. When the resurrection dawns, it will usher in a day that has no clouds, a day that has no sunset, a day that is followed by no night of sorrow or of death.

WHO AM I?

(Author Unknown.)

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world.

I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the world.

I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of siege guns.

I steal in the United States alone over $300,000,000 each year.

I spare no one, and find my victims among the rich and poor alike; the young and the old, the strong and the weak; widows and orphans know me.

I loom up to such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of the grindstone to the moving of every train.

I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage-earners in a year.

I lurk in unseen places and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you heed not.

I am relentless. I am everywhere; in the home, on the street, in the factory, at railroad crossings and on the sea.

I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me.

I destroy, crush or maim; I give nothing, but take all.

I am your worst enemy.

I am carelessness.

GOD WILL LISTEN

(By Rev. Frederick F. Shannon.)

Henry Drummond was fond of repeating this story of a little child. She said to her father: "Papa, I want you to say something to God for me, something I want to tell Him very much. I have such a little voice that I don't think he could hear it away up in heaven. But you have a big man's voice, and He will be sure to hear you." Taking the child in his arms the father told her that, though God were at that moment surrounded by His holy angels singing to Him one of the grandest, sweetest songs of praise ever heard in heaven, he was sure that God would say to them: "Hush! There's a little girl away down on earth who wants to whisper something in my ear." Was he not a wise father? Was he not a Christian father? Did he not have the genius of making religion real to that realest of all mortals, the child?

THE BIBLE IN THE HOME.

(By Rev. John Timothy Stone, D. D.)

The test of the nations is their loyalty to God's Word. The nations which have honored God's Word, and which are honoring God's Word, are the nations which have his blessing.

The state will never be guided into ways of constructive peace and permanent development through society's aim and desire to better mankind. Reform movements, no matter how strong and efficient they may be, can never reform the state or the nation until that reform begins at the fireside. There is no chance for men to do, in their interests and desires for others, what God has said the father and the mother, the husband and the wife, the brother and the sister, must do. The Bible is the one great power which God has given to us, to instruct us how to lead our children and build our homes aright; and without the Word of God there is no dictionary to give to us the words and comprehension which constitute the vocabulary of the literature of Christianity; there is no other book which gives to us a relationship to the great natural world in which we live, a knowledge of individual life that we may relate our lives to the individual life aright, and a constructive, earnest purpose to follow the principles which are incarnate in Christ's teachings.

What the Bible wants is a chance to speak for itself. What God's Word wants is a chance to show us our littleness, and the goodness of God. The trouble is we talk too much about what other people have to say about the Word of God, and do not take time enough ourselves, as Christian workers and leaders, to let the Word of God talk to us. We go to a newsstand and buy a recent novel. Why do we do it? We say, "I am tired, and I need the recreation of this novel." What do we do? We read it through, frequently at a sitting, and there may be three hundred and fifty pages in it. We say, "I cannot give but this afternoon to it;" and we read it through. How many books of God's do we, as Christian workers, read through at a sitting?

He Was in Earnest

(Onward.)

Here is an illustration of patriotic enthusiasm, told recently in a sermon by Doctor Jowett: A young Englishman, desiring to fight for his country, presented himself at the recruiting office, and was passed over to the surgeon for examination.

The report was unfavorable. It stated in substance: First, this man has very bad teeth, which are sure to give him trouble in campaign life; in the second place, he has two defective toes, which would prevent his enduring long marches; and, third, he needs to go to a hospital for an operation, otherwise he could not endure the hardships of a soldier.

The raw recruit turned away quietly and said nothing. Three months later he presented himself at the same office and was again sent to the surgeon, to whom he said: "Sir, I have had my teeth repaired. I will have no trouble from that source. I have had my two defective toes amputated, and can now make long marches. I went to the hospital, endured the operation, and have come out in good shape, and I believe that I am ready to serve my country." After a thorough examination the surgeon opened the door, called in a superior officer, and said "Behold a man ready to serve his country!"

How It Worked Out

(Ladies' Home Journal.)

If a husband and wife are addicted to drinking alcohol, are the children necessarily affected, is an oft-mooted question. Recently, some experiments were made to see how the theory actually worked out, and here are the results:

Three families, with 20 children, were taken where the fathers were drunkards. Of these 20 children:

Four died from general weakness.
Three died of convulsions before one month old.
Four were feeble-minded.
One was a dwarf.
One was an epileptic.
Seven were normal.

Now for the other side of the picture: Ten families were taken in the same station of life. There were 62 children. Neither father nor mother drank alcoholic liquors.

Three children died from general weakness.
Three from intestinal troubles.
Two from nervous affections.
Two were feeble-minded.
Two were malformed.
Fifty were normal.

Human anger resents the hurt, divine anger resents the wrong. Human anger is wounded in its pride, divine anger is wounded in its heart. Human anger laments the injury to self, divine anger laments the injury to God. Human anger cries out for revenge, divine anger cries out for atonement.—George Matheson.

The olive tre is more closely associated with the history and civilization of man than any other. It is the earliest mentioned by name; when the waters of the flood began to retire (Genesis viii, 11). It is the most prominent tree in the earliest allegory (Judges ix, 8, 9). With David it is the emblem of prosperity and the divine blessing (Psalms lii, 8; cxxviii, 3).

Tennis is as old as the hills, basically speaking, though it has undergone many changes for the better. It was played by the Greeks and Romans under the names of "sphairisis" and "pila." As "paume" it is mentioned in the Arthurian romances and in the earlier records of the dark ages. In the fifteenth century it enjoyed great favor in France, and in England from the sixteenth century to the present time.

Making Others Glad

In an humble log cabin of Indiana, Lincoln's mother was dying. She called her son, then 9 years old, to her side. In a voice weak, but full of love, she said: "I am going to leave you, Abe—and, oh, how hard it is to part with you! How beautiful it is outdoors! It is beautiful wherever God is. I learned to love Him at the old campmeeting house, and I want you to learn to love Him."

The mother was making a plea for Christ in her child's heart. She gave him the following rules by which he could keep Christ in his heart and life. "I am thankful God gave you to us. Love everybody. Hinder nobody, never lie, never drink, and the world will be glad some day that you were born."

The father, standing in the cabin doorway, said: "But he can't sing like you, Nancy."

"The heart sings in many ways," she replied; "some hearts make other hearts sing."

Did Lincoln ever make other hearts sing? As our seventeenth president of the United States, he freed 3,895,172 slaves. They sang the song of freedom, and the world joined in the chorus.

MINISTRY OF TEARS

(By Joseph Parker, D. D.)

Look unto Jesus even through your tears. Tears are telescopes. I have seen further through my tears than I ever saw through my smiles. Laughter has done little for me: but sorrow and a riven heart have expounded many passages in the inspired volume that before were hard, enigmatical reading. Blessed be God, we can see Jesus through our tears. He knows what tears are. Jesus wept! The eyes that John saw as a flame of fire, the Jews saw at the grave of Lazarus as fountains of water. "And, coming near to the city, when He beheld it, He wept over it." No man can ever fathom the depth of that river, or tell the bitterness of that sorrow. You have tears. Every man amongst us has his tearful times. But we use our tears wrongfully if we do not lift our eyes and look through them to Jesus in the heavens!

Just a Chinaman

The story is told of a Chinaman in this country who applied for a position as house servant in a family which belonged to a fashionable church. He was asked:

"Do you drink whisky?"

"No, I Chlistian man."

"Do you play cards?"

"No, I Chlistian man."

He was engaged and proved a capable servant. By and by the lady gave a bridge party, with wine accompaniments. The Chinaman did his part acceptably, but next morning he appeared before his mistress.

"I want quit," he said.

"Why? What is the matter?"

"I Chlistian man. I told you so before; no heathen; no workee for Melican heathen."

I freely admit salvation is worth working for; it is worth a man's going round the world on his hands and knees, climbing its mountains, crossing its valleys, swimming its rivers, going through all manner of hardship in order to attain it. But we do not get it that way. Paul went through all the trials and hardships he had to endure, because by the grace of God resting on him he was enabled to do so. There is no merit in taking a gift. If a beggar comes to my house and asks for bread to eat, and I give him a loaf of bread, there is no merit in his taking the bread. So if you experience the favor of God, you have to take it as a beggar.—D. L. Moody.

YOUR HEALTH, ETC.

Flat Foor and Its Cure.

Flat foot is probably the most common foot defect. It is caused by improper shoes, rapid increase in weight, prolonged illness, change in occupations requiring long standing or accident resulting in the crushing of some part of the foot.

Usually the first symptom of flat foot is a sense of discomfort after long standing or walking. This condition is due to the giving away of the muscles and ligaments which support the arch of the foot. The pain gradually becomes more severe and continues for a longer period of time.

Later the foot appears to be rolling inward and a characteristic gait develops, the foot being thrown outward in walking. The arch appears to be congested and the feet sweat a great deal.

The pains in the feet are often taken for rheumatism. Remedies which usually bring relief in rheumatic conditions are of no avail.

Exercise helps strengthen the weakened muscles. Some simple forms that are beneficial are as follows:

Walk with the front of the foot thrown out strongly.

Sit on the edge of a chair, cross the feet and then rest on the outer edge of the feet, alternately partially rise and sit.

Curl the toes over the round of a chair and attempt to drag it after it has been loaded with weights.

Rise on the toes a certain number of times every night and morning.

Bathe the feet alternately in hot and cold water to improve the circulation and render tone to the muscles.

In more severe cases it is necessary first to relieve the acute pain and aches by arch supports and the like. These arch supports should be properly fitted to the foot. In still more severe cases the application of plaster for a time or an operation may be necessary.

Importance of Good Teeth.

Good teeth are put above other physical qualifications in accepting men for the United States army.

A man may have corns and callouses on his feet and other defects and yet under certain circumstances be accepted, but if he has bad teeth it means rejection.

Uncle Sam figures a man with poor teeth cannot chew his food properly; this means his digestion will be impaired and is an absolute disqualification for enduring the hardships of life in the trenches.

The care of the teeth must begin in childhood. Upon the proper care of the teeth depends in large part the nutrition of the growing child, his susceptibility to disease and his general health through life.

Neglect of the first teeth leads to early decay and loss of teeth, with a shrinkage and abnormal growth of the jaws which force the oncoming teeth out of their natural position.

Stomach disorders of childhood are often caused by bad teeth. The mouth is one of the important organs of digestion. Proper chewing of food is necessary for good digestion. A child with decayed, painful teeth will bolt his food, and will be stunted in his growth.

Decayed teeth also give off poisons, which are taken into the body. Almost always associated with bad mouth conditions in children are diseases of the tonsils and eye and ear inflammation.

Heart disease and joint inflammation are often traced to decayed teeth. A child's general health may be so disturbed by decayed teeth that it soon becomes a fit subject for tuberculosis.

From the time of the appearance of the first tooth there should be a daily brushing of teeth and gums and thorough rinsing of the mouth. Parents should realize the great importance of conserving a child's first teeth and of correcting any mouth defects. A careful dentist should look over a child's teeth twice a year. If decay is present filling should be made and other defects corrected.

PEACE TRIUMPHANT

(Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon.)

Have you noticed how magnificently peace wineth its reprisals at the hands of war? Look through this country. Methinks if the angel of peace should go with us, as we journey through it, and stop at the various ancient towns, where there are dismantled castles, and high mounds from where every vestige of a building has long been swept, the angel would look us in the face and say, "I have done all this: war scattered my peaceful subjects, burned down my cottages, ravaged my temples and laid my mansions with the dust. But I have attacked war in his own strongholds and I have routed him. Walk through his halls. Can you hear now the tramp of the warrior? Where now the sound of the clarion and the drum?" The sheep is feeding from the cannon's mouth, and the bird builds his nest where once the warrior did hang his helmet. As rare curiosities we dig up the swords and spears of our forefathers, and little do we reck that in this we are doing tribute to peace. For peace is the conqueror. It hath been a long duel and much blood hath been shed; but peace hath been the victor. War, after all, has but spasmodic triumphs; and again it sinks—it dies; but peace ever reigneth. If she be driven from one part of the earth, yet she dwelleth in another; and while war, with busy hand, is piling up here a wall, and there a rampart, and there a tower, peace—with her gentle finger, is covering o'er the castle with the moss and the ivy and casting the stone fro mthe top, and letting it lie level with the earth.

The vessel which is hallowed so as to be usable by Him, that is the vessel unto honor. Its capacity may be large or small. Its workmanship may be homely or elaborately magnificent. It may be a casket for celestial gems; it may be a censer for spiritual incense; it may be a box of holy oil, very precious; it may be the golden vase fit to be the basin of a glorious fountain; it may be the plain silver cup of cold water, to be carried to some solitary disciple. He may use it in the presence of the multitude. He may use it all alone, altogether for His own hand and eyes, in the shadows of His own innermost chamber. But it is ready to the Master's hand? Is it ready for His use? Is it hallowed to His ends? Then it is a vessel unto honor.—H. C. G. Moule.

SALOON SOCIETY'S FOE.

(Christian Workers' Magazine.)

Lloyd George, premier of England, paints the following word picture: "This is our ideal—a land where you meet no drunkard staggering on the road toward his doom, a land where you have no slums for humanity to rot in, a land where you have two-thirds of its prison cells empty, a land with its work-houses vanished, a land with its children well fed, well clothed, well sheltered, well trained, with their merry laughter ringing through the streets, a land where the curse of drink shall be driven from hearths."

A beautiful picture, indeed. Who would not labor for its realization? Nevertheless over it may be written, "one thing thou lackest." The water-wagon looms large in this ideal picture but the river of the water of life cannot be seen. Statesmen and idealists may not miss this, but spiritually intelligent Christians will.

The saloon is the foe of society, while the true church is the friend of society. The saloon has a downward pull, the church an upward pull. The saloon, like all other forms of evil, is in alliance with the kingdom of darkness. The church is in alliance with the kingdom of God. How shall the friend of society overcome the foe of society? By political expedients, social welfare and moral reform? Not primarily nor principally. Men are not brought into the kingdom of God by community uplift but by individual regeneration. Born from above, they will become community uplifters of the right type. The new life received through personal faith in the Son of God becomes the source and center of a body of moral convictions out of which leaders and uplifters are developed. A town in eastern Pennsylvania, with a population of 20,000 people, has in one ward fifty-three licensed saloons. When the time for renewal of these licenses came a protest was made to the court against them. Fearing that the court might consider the protest and refuse the renewals the town council (the city fathers?) passed a resolution asking the court to grant all of these fifty-three renewals on the ground that the town needed the $8,000 revenue! So true is it that unless a man (or men) be born again he cannot see. Consequently $8,000 looked larger than eight thousand lives. Revenue was regarded as of larger importance than righteousness. True vision leads to intelligent supervision even in the affairs of a city.

A PRIME VIRTUE.

(Selected.)

This virtue is Fidelity. It is working yourself, whatever your limitations, for all you are worth, in Christ's name and by his strength. You may have ten talents or only one. Harness them into service, be they few or many. God expects us to use only the gifts, graces, opportunities we have. In the divine economy, duties are assigned to men according to their several ability. When God commanded Moses to undertake a great task, he permitted him to use the rod he was then holding in his hand, and with that rod Moses wrought wonders by divine help. God is asking you today:

"What is that in thine hand?"

Whatever it is, God wants it to work miracles in human hearts and lives. Can you speak? Can you write? Can you tell a story? Can you sing? Can you keep house? Can you play a musical instrument? Can you make money? God wants your service. He is entitled to it. He can use it and you. Will you not let him?

Without aping anybody, without envying anybody, without grumbling over your adverse lot, without discontent because God did not make you a genius, use faithfully the equipment he has given you and he will bless your effort. Just be faithful! Faithful to God to whom you owe all you have and are. Faithful to your fellowmen who need your help. Faithful to yourself, for by unselfish service your own life will be enriched. We are not commanded to be brilliant, but we are commanded to be faithful. We are not commanded to be great orators, or great singers, or great captains of industry, but we are commanded to be faithful. Faithful in the use of time, talent, money, whatever we have. "As every man hath received the gift, so minister the same one to another, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God." (I. Peter 4:10).

Three times I have crossed the Atlantic ocean, and each time have been interested in looking into the engine room of the great steamer and peering down into the deep hold, where men, black and grimy with coal dust, keep the great furnaces filled with fuel. Suppose one of these stokers, with a shovelful of coal poised ready to throw into the furnace, talking thus with himself: "Will this shovelful of coal drive the ship across the ocean? No! Will it keep the ship going one mile? No! But there are other stokers and more coal. I'm not the captain of this ship, but I'm the commodore of this shovel. This ship may go into port or go to the bottom, but my duty is the same in either case. The captain may see to his ship and to the rest of his crew, but let him know that he has one stoker who will shovel until the bell rings him off his shift."

"Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown for life." (Rev. 2:10).

BRYAN ON IMMORTALITY.

(By William Jennings Bryan.)

It is pleasant for me to believe in a resurrection. I have no more doubt that I shall live again than I have that I live today. I have no more doubt that I shall in another world meet those whom I have loved than I have that I have known them here. I do not know just what kind of a body I am going to have—and I do not care. I have had seven already, according to the scientists. The scientists say that the body changes every seven years—if that is true, I now have my eighth. I had a baby's body, and then a boy's; then I had a young man's body, and then I changed again and again and again. I do not know what kind of a body God is going to give me in the next world, but I can trust Him, and I waste no time speculating. He can give me any of the bodies I have had if He wants to, and I will do the best I can to use it; but I know that He will give me the kind of a body I need. There is an invisible something in a grain of wheat that can discard the body that we see, and from earth and air build a new body, so much like the old one that we cannot tell the one from the other, and I know that, if that invisible something in that grain of wheat can pass unimpaired through thousands of resurrections, my spirit can clothe itself with a body suited to its new existence when this frame of mine shall crumble into dust.

INESTIMABLE SERVICE.

"William Carey, the converted cobbler, who translated the Bible into languages spoken by three hundred millions of Orientals; David Brainerd, who consecrated his talents to carry civilization and Christianity to the savages of the wilderness; Henry Martyn, the brilliant Cambridge scholar, making by his translations the scriptures, in whole or in part, accessible to one-fourth the inhabitants of the globe; not only this, but literally spending himself in Christian labors among the poor in India, until, exhausted by fatigue and wasted by disease he sank in death at the early age of thirty-two; Robert Morrison in China writing a grammar of the language and translating the Bible into the dialects, waiting undiscouraged seven years before being permitted to rejoice in his first convert; Chalmers in New Guinea; Paton in the South Sea Islands; Livingstone, in Christ-like passion, seeking the salvation of the Africans, forgetting that they were black and remembering only that they were fellow-mortals; and those more recent men, the Butlers, the Parkers, and the Thoburns of India; Griffith John, Timothy Richard, James W. Bashford, and Wilson S. Lewis, of China—those men, inspired by the love and the heroism of the cross, have risen to the highest types of Christian character. They rank among the moral altruists of history, great in faith, great in hope, great in action, because their own souls were filled with Christ's vision of humanity. Their service can never be fully portrayed."

REVERENCE FOR OLD AGE.

(Watchman-Examiner.)

Jacob was a fugitive from famine. He was an object of charity. Although his son was prime minister, Jacob and all his household were really dependent on the kindness of Pharoah for a place to live and food to eat. A great contrast was Pharoah. The despotic ruler of the mightiest nation in the world of his day, he, if any one, was independent of the favor of others. He set up, and he cast down; and all were dependent on his personal will and whim. But "Jacob blessed Pharoah." How absurd! What insolence to assume that the blessing or good will of one who was for the time being a beggar could be of the smallest consequence to a great and all-powerful king of the foremost nation of the earth! But "Jacob blessed Pharoah," and his son Joseph, the prime minister, who corrected his father when he thought he had made a mistake in putting his right hand in blessing on the head of Manasseh, the first-born, had not a word to say in reproof of Jacob for his presumption. Even Pharoah, the great king, said nothing, and we are left to infer that he thought it was quite the proper thing for Jacob to do, and even that he was pleased with Jacob's blessing. If Joseph had been an American young man, he would have been shocked at the presumption of his father, and would have hurried him out of court in shame at his audacity. If Pharoah had been ruler of a modern nation he would have indignantly sent Jacob back to Canaan to perish of famine for assuming to think his blessing would be of any value. If Jacob had been a modern old man he would have known better than to assert himself in such a manner in the presence of those who were younger and higher in official station than himself. The difference between ancient Egypt and modern America is that the Egyptians, from king to peasant, had a reverence for old age and were glad of the blessing of a good old man, and considered it an honor to receive it.

BUY AN AVACADO—THEY ONLY COST A DOLLAR EACH—HIGHBROW FRUIT.

Speaking of the high cost of living, Lelia Joslyn is here shown exhibiting a twenty-three-ounce avacado. This avacado grew on the treet of C. F. Wagner, of Hollwood, Cal. It has 200 brothers exactly like it clinging to the limbs of the family tree in the owner's back yard.

Each of these avacados is worth a dollar apiece—$200 for the crop. Let's raise avacados. If one tree will yield $200, think of what 200 trees will produce. So C. F. Wagner is not worrying about the high cos tof living, for in a few years more he will have an avacado orchard in full bearing. But everybody can't raise avacados. The climate and soil have to be right. It is a subtropical fruit. Cold weather, for instance, prevents the avacado from maturing.

MADE BIG CHANGE IN FORT WAYNE MAN

After suffering with Rheumatism and Constipation, and his doctor failed to give him relief, he was then advised to take Miller's Herb Remedy. Mr. Fred C. Ulmer, an old-time citizen who resides at 1128 Wabash avenue, and is an employe of the Bowser Oil Tank works, says: "I endured the pains and suffering from Rheumatism a long time; the longer I took the doctor's medicine the worst I got. Constipation was also part of my trouble. I used two bottles of Miller's Herb Remedy, and it cured me completely. I used the medicine two years ago, and I had no trouble since. It is the finest remedy for Rheumatism and Constipation I ever was able to get, so I feel justified in recommending this good remedy to others who may be afflicted as I was."

Miller's Herb Remedy is especially good for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Salt-Rheum, Liver and Stomach Trouble, Eczema, Sick Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Dizziness, Chronic Diarrhoea, Swelling of Feet and Limbs, Backache, Kidney Pains, Pain in Side and Ovarian Trouble.

"BIG NINE" FAVORS MICHIGAN'S RETURN

Action Deferred to Next Meeting of Officials, to Be Held June 9.

Chicago, April 28.—Members of the faculty board of the "Big Nine" who will act on the readmission of Michigan to the conference are said to be unanimously in favor of the action.

Officials last night, however, declared no action would be taken until the next meeting of the conference here, June 9. Even if the application is accepted at that time the Wolverines will probably be unable to meet any of the conference schools in football until 1918 unless they take advantage of Northwestern's open date, November 24, as Michigan's 1917 schedule, as well as those of the "big nine" institutions, already is made up.

With Michigan back in the fold the conference combination will be known as the "big ten" instead of the "big nine." There is a remote possibility, some officials said last night, that football schedules might be called off next fall if the war situation becomes serious. Coaches at present are strongly in favor of continuing the sport.

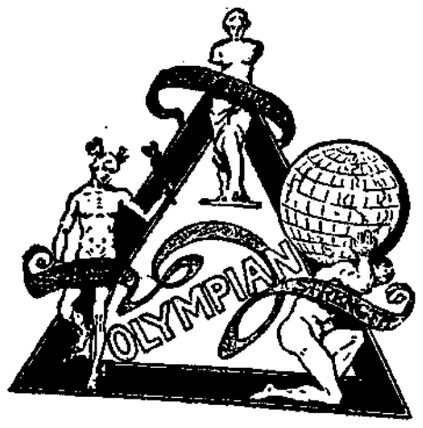
Luxury With Economy

THE OLYMPIAN



The Olympian has a 114-inch wheelbase—a 37 H. P. high-speed motor—32-inch wheels—full-floating rear axle—full cantilever rear springs—complete lighting, starting, lubricating units—and complete equipment.

Is amply fulfilling the highest expectations of its makers and owners. Wherever shown—the attention it has attracted has been remarkable. A few moments' stop of the Olympian on any downtown streets is the signal for the immediate gathering of an admiring crowd.

The beauty of the car is the reason. To even the untrained eye, its handsome lines and perfect harmony of proportions are at once evident. To the experienced motorist, its practical and substantial appointments of luxury to be found heretofore on only the most costly cars, call for immediate attention. Yet the Olympian has not the excessive weight of the big cumbersome car—nor its attendant high cost of upkeep.

Again it has none of the objectionable features of the small car—none of its hard-riding discomforts due to insufficient leg-room and poor springs of the short wheelbase. But it has ONE of the features of the small car—and that is ECONOMY.

QUEST CLUB'S FINAL SESSION ONE OF FUN

President Scheiman and Secretary Fee Are Presented With Gifts.

Members of the Quest club, who met in final session of the season Friday evening at the Anthony hotel, enjoyed one of the most entertaining meetings they have ever attended. Every one of the meetings this season has been one of seriousness and thought, while the one which marked the close was filled with jollity and mirth.

Appearance of His Majesty, the Devil, did not put a damper on the fun, but instead livened up events all the more. E. J. Little impersonated the little red man with horns and at designated times when the lights were extinguished he would make his appearance amidst red lights and the spluttering of live wires. At his initial appearance he stated that all the members had become his subjects by choice.

At the close of the evening President W. H. Scheiman was presented with a handsome loving cup and Secretary Herbert Fee was given a traveling bag. E. F. Yarnelle made the first presentation and C. J. Schoo the other.

Other speakers of the evening were E. W. Puckett and Rev. C. C. Travis. E. J. Griswold, assisted by his wife, gave shadow pictures of various members of the club. They were surprisingly natural and everyone present recognized the one imitated.

PRICE OF BREAD BOOSTED.

New York, April 28.—Beginning next Monday when a twenty per cent. advance in bread prices takes effect, most of the larger restaurants will make a separate charge for bread served with other dishes. Although the wholesale price of beef has remained about stationary, 15 cents was added to the price of a plate of roast beef today in many of the better class eating places.

TO CONTROL EXPLOSIVES.

Washington, April 28.—The administration bill to restrict the sale of explosives has been ordered favorably reported to the house by the mines committee.

American people are spending more for candy every year; according to figures complied recently by the census bureau, they spent over $185,000,000 for factory-made sweets last year, which is an average of about $1.80 for every man, woman and child. Figures recorded sixty-five years ago show that the annual per capita consumption of candy was then about 13 cents.

It was long contended that the story of "Lorna Doone," by Blackmore, had no foundation in fact, but now it is declared that the picturesque region of Exmoor really contained a family of Doones, the originals in romance, if not of disgrace, of the people described in the book.

Test your garden soil for acidity. Procure a dime's worth of blue litmus paper at a drug store. Make a slit or incision in the damp soil, put in paper two-thirds its length and leave it for a half-hour. If the change of color is to red or deep pink your soil needs heavy liming. If there is no change of color liming will be of little value.

A. C. W. NOTES

This column is presented by the Associated Christian Workers through the courtesy of The Sentinel.

For Sunday.

Read the announcements for Sunday meetings and plan to bring a friend. Already the young people have realized what our contest means and when it starts they will be going so well that nothing will interfere with victory.

For the Week.

This is the week of business meetings. Confidence in the work in hand and the people you are dealing with is your greatest aid. Successful men show a healthy interest in possibilities, details and results of any proposition.

For the Future.

You are being given an opportunity to find out in actual chart form as to the efficiency of your society. All the societies are anxiously waiting to begin our contest, which starts May 13 and runs only seven Sundays.

Executive Notes.

Miss Covington says the June rally program promises to be fine and we believe it will.

Gerald Waggoner wants the missionary chairman to bear with him and he will never be absent again. He says he is planning to help many of our poor folks this year.

Miss Van Buskirk says the dual party for August will be different, so lets be home during August.

avis is working on a pledge for good citizenship.

Our contest is an assured fact. The program was approved, everyone realizing the excellent features which bring out in black and white the very things most executive committees would like to know.

Special Attention.

Begins Sunday, May 13th.

Only lasts seven Sundays, including June 24th.

The fun will come in the three meetings, May 18th, June 8th and June 29th.

Your division may be miles ahead and maybe not.

The charts are easily understood and touch just the points you have been trying to reach. They should be in your hands next week. Lookout chairmen are brushing up on the names and faces of their members.

The span of membership in young peoples' work is increasing.

Catch that friend. Win him for Christ.

PROSPERITTY EDDITORIUL

As we go to press this week business in Bingville is on the boom, and better times is staring us in the face. The panick from wich Bingville and visinity has suffered is now a thing of the past, thank goodness, and we stand on the thresh hold of a new ery of prosperity. Many signs points to the fackt that Bingville is about to undergo one of the biggest industrial revolusions which has ever took place in our midst. We look forward with hope to the time when the town of Bingville will take her proud place among the biggest metropolisses of this country. Just to show you that Bingville is on the boom insted of on the bum we desire to call yotur attenshion to how trade has incressed in our midst resently.

Week before last Eph Higgins our ackomodating p. m., sold only 11 2-ct. stamps, 5 1-ct. stamps and a couple of postage cards, whereas last week, he sold 15 2-ct. stamps, 7 1-ct. stamps and either 3 or 4 postage cards—he forgets which. Eph says he is much cheered to have postage sales pick up like this.

Hen Weathersby, prop. of our general store, informs us that he sold more dried herrings, proones, shirting and one monkey rench last week than he has sold during any one week sinst away last fall. Hen refused to give us the total amounts of dollars and cts. of his last weeks sales on the ground that his nabers would be jellus of him to think how rapidly he is ackumulating wealth beyond the fondest dreams of avarice.

Cy Hoskins, one of our most respeckted citizens, states that he knows money is more plentyfuller as he has money to lend and cant get a morgage on anything that will pay him moren 6 percent whereas Cy usually gets 10 or 15 percent.

Not only is trade better, but the signs all pint to a big bilding boom in Bingville soon as spring opens up.

Lem Brown says he has decided to shingle his hen house this spring and treat the fence in front of his house to a new coat of paint. Lem says this fence aint been painted for a long time, in fackt, has never been painted sinct it was bilt.

Lem Wilkins has about decided to repair the foundation under his barn. Lem realizes that if he dont repair this foundation soon, the barn is liable to upset and bust all to pieces.

Seth Dewberry, our heroic town constable, has ordered enough lumber to bild him a new hen house. Seth will bild a hen house which he would like to see any chicken theef get into. He says he believes that the reason he has had so many chickens stole offen him in the past is because he is town constable and it is done to tantalize him.

There is also much other bilding in contemplashion too numerous to menshion, all of which goes to show that Bingville is on the verge of a awful business boom.

Subskribe for the Bugle now and pay in advance while money is plenty.

Lokel Items

New subskribers is very scarce this week as usual.

Subskribe for the Bugle at once, perviding, of course, you are going to pay for it spot cash in advance—otherwise you aint desired.

The Bingville Bugle cirkulates among the best families in Bingville. After one subskriber reads it he lends it to his nabor who is too much of a tite-wad to subskribe for it. This is a bad thing for us but makes a big circulashion. Advertise in the Bugle.

Deacon Butterworth, one of the stanchest pillers of the Bingville church, is cirkulating a petishion to raise money to buy a new church bell. The old one has been broke for 13 years and is still broke. It is our opinion that Rev. Samuel Moore, our beloved pastor, needs a new pair of pants a good eal worse than the church needs a new bell.

Ezra Underwood while chopping kindlings one morning resently had a kindling to fly up and hit him a crack right accrost the bridge of his nose nearly breaking the bridge. Ezra used langwidge of such a nachure that his wife finally had to come out of the house and speak to him about it.

Jed Peters, our intelligent school teacher, says he is going to go in the book agent business as usual after school is out. Jed has not decided what book he will handle yet but thinks it will be entitled, "From Log Cabin to White House."

Clem Wilson got his feet wet tother day and now he has sutch a cold and is so hoarse that he cant scaircely talk whitch is fortchunate because Clem talks too mutch ennyhow.

Jim Hill walked to Snake Bend and back one day last week and was mud clean up to his shoulder blades when he returned to Bingville. Jim said the road was so sloppy that he calkilates he could of got along better if he had had a row boat.

Doc Livermore, our human speshialist and hoss doctor, has been out in the woods digging sassafras root to make tea outen. Doc sells this sassafras tea at 10 cts. per qt. He says it is a powerful good thing for the blood.

Mrs. Martha Tucker says that she would rather have the Bingville Bugle to spred on her kitchen cupboard shelves than any other newspaper in the Co. Thank you, Martha, this is quite a compliment for the Bugle.

Mel Skinner and Lige Green walked to the Co. seat one day last week on business and pleashure, but Lige says there wasn't no pleashure in it being as as the mud was nearly knee deep and the walking miserable.

Uncle Jed Winslow fell and injured hisself on his 81st birthday last Tuesday spraining his ankle very painful indeed.

Miss Phoebe Hildebrand's cat Samanthy has had a increase of 6 kittens in her family which Phoebe desires to dispose of free gratis for nothing. Here is a golden opportunity for anybody desiring free kittens.

While shoeing Rause Hillyer's ornery old mule tother day Bill Hepburn our artistick blacksmith, met with a kick in the stummick which dubbled him up like a summer squash for a few minutes. Soon as Bill could get his bearings he hauled off with his right foot and nearly kicked a hole in the mule. Bill says he'll teach any gosh-dinged mule to kick him.

Mrs. Martha Tucker washed, ironed and baked and cleened all on last Thursday which shows how smart she is, but she says when evg. come she was turible tired and she couldn't hardly set one foot before tother.

Old grandpap Carew's store teeth have been rubbing his gums moren usual lately. Grandpap says dad-burn a set of store teeth that rubs a person's gums anyhow.

Snide Petersby dropped into our criffice resently and asked us if we would be willing to take a cupple of gals of maple syrup at the rate of a dollar per gal. and give him credit on his back subsckripshion to the Bugle for same. We told Snide "Yes" and next day he delivered the syrup. We have seen some purty thin maple syrup in our time but never anything so thin as what Snide brot. It aint much thicker than the sap when it comes from the maple tree and you haft to tast it twict before it begins to taste sweet. It is our opinion that Snide must of made one gal. of maple syrup and by dilooting same with worter made 4 or 5 gals such as he give us.

On the Outs

Hiram Whittleby and Miss Anastasia Snodgrass who have been keeping company for the past 6 years and who everybody thot would be united to each other in the holy bonds of wedlock perhaps at some date in the far distant fuchure are at present on the outs.

Their love has growed cold, as it were, and a distantness has sprung up betwixt them. No longer is there a light burning brightly in the parlor of Anastasia's home on Saturday evgs. from 7 P. M. until sometimes as late as 9 or 10 o'clock. No longer does Hiram dress up in his best bib and tucker and eskort Anastasia to prayer meeting at the Bingville church on Wednesday evg. This is sad, sad, sad.

Of course, it aint none of our business what has caused this love spat betwixt Hiram and Anastasia, but we would like to publish the fackts in the Bugle not only as a matter of news, but because it would give a chanct to their friends to reckonsile them to each other onct more. Confide in us, Hiram and Anastasia—do not blast the hopes of your futchure matrimony by a ridicklus lovers quarrel.

CARE AND MANAGEMENT OF OUR FEATHERED PETS, CANARIES

Among the Birds Kept for Household Pets None is So Common or So Well Known as the Canary—So Simple Are Its Requirements in the Way of Food and Care That It Needs Little Attention, and Because of Its Pleasing Songs and Interesting Habits it is a Universal Favorite—Readily Adaptable to Cage Life, Canaries Display Little of the Fear Shown By Wild Birds in Captivity, and the Ease With Which They May Be Induced to Nest and Rear Young Adds to Their Popularity.

By ALEXANDER WETMORE.

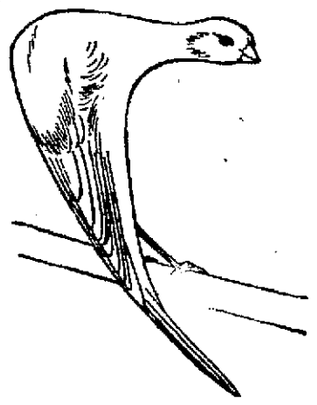
Canaries have been domesticated for several hundred years and, though more common in western Europe and the United States than elsewhere, have been carried over practically the entire civilized world. In England and Germany there are hundreds of canary breeders and many agricultural societies. Several periodicals dealing solely with cage birds are published there, and in the larger cities bird exhibitions are held annually. In the United States there are comparatively few fanciers as yet, so that though numbers of canaries are reared here, a large part of the stock is secured from abroad. More than three and one-quarter millions of canaries have been brought into the United States during the last 10 years, an average of more than 300,000 birds each year. Most of these have come from Germany, but some are imported from England.

Canaries seem to thrive in any climate where not exposed to too severe weather conditions, and in spite of the long period they have been protected and held in captivity they are capable of enduring a surprising degree of cold when hardened to it. In England it is not unusual to find them in outdoor aviaries throughout the year. They seem able to establish themselves again in a wild state under favorable conditions. In 1909, a brood of domestic canaries was released on Midway Island, a small sandy islet in the Hawaiian group. By 1914 they had increased until it was estimated that they numbered about 1,000.

The actual origin of the canary as a cage bird is as obscure as is the early history of other domesticated animals. It seems probable that captive canaries were first secured from the Canary Islands, a group with which they have long been popularly associated. There are in the Old World, however, two closely allied forms from which the domesticated canary may have come. One of these, the bird now recognized as the "wild canary," is found in the Canary Islands (with the exception of the islands of Fuerteventura and Lanzarote), Madeira, and the Azores. The other form, the serin finch, ranges through southern Europe and northern Africa, extending eastward into Palestine and Asia Minor. In a wild state these two forms are very similar in color and to a novice are hardly distinguishable.

If, as is supposed, the original supply of canaries came from the Canary Islands, it may be considered doubtful that the stock thus secured has furnished the ancestors of all our canaries. The slight differences in color between the serin finch and the canary would probably have passed unnoticed by early ornithologists and bird lovers. With bird catching a widespread practice in middle and southern Europe, the serin would often be made captive and be accepted without question as a canary. In this way serins and wild canaries may have been interbred until all distinguishable differences were lost.

The original canary, whether serin or true wild canary, in its native haunt was much different in color from its modern pure-bred descendant. The back of the wild bird is, in general, gray tinged with olive-green, especially on the rump, with dark shaft streaks on the feathers. Underneath it is yellowish, streaked on sides and flanks with dusky. Wild canaries from the Canary Islands, the Azores, and Madeira differ from the continental serins in being slightly grayer with less of yellowish green in the plumage above. In addition, the rump is duller yellow and the bill is distinctly larger. All of the wild birds have the feet and legs (tarsi) horn brown, the upper half of the bill dark brown or horn color, and the lower half paler.



Scotch Fancy Canary.

Both of the wild varieties inhabit vineyards, thickets, and more open country where bordered by trees. At times during fall and winter great flocks are found together. The birds feed upon various seeds and occasionally eat figs or other small fruits in season. In a wild state they nest early in spring and again later, rearing two broods. The nest, made of plant stems and grasses and lined with hair and plant downs, is placed in bushes or low trees. The eggs are clear green in color, spotted and clouded with deep wine red and reddish brown. From three to five eggs are deposited.

Variation among domesticated canaries began early, as Hernandez, in 1587, speaks of the canary as wholly yellow in color save for the tips of the wings. The various forms have had their origin in distinct geographic areas, and though some are almost extinct at present, all at one time or another have had a devoted following of fanciers. At present at least 14 distinct strains, with a large number of varieties, are known.

The common canary is reared primarily for its song, and from it probably came the roller, or song canary, a great favorite in Germany and more recently, in England. In rearing song canaries attempt is made to produce males with clear, soft, pleasing songs with long rolls or trills, and no attention whatever is paid to other characters. These birds, therefore, are usually nondescript as regards color and appearance, but care is taken in mating to secure males that are good singers and females from good stock. The young birds when fledged are put in rooms with birds noted for their soft song, and here, through imitation, they develop their own vocal powers. Careful watch is kept over them, and any bird developing harsh notes is removed at once to prevent his corrupting the purity of tone in the song of his brothers. A mechanical instrument known as a bird organ, that produces liquid trills, is frequently utilized in training, usually when the adult birds are silent during molt. Ordinarily the room where these birds are kept is darkened, and frequently the cages containing the young birds are screened with cloth to lessen a tendency to objectionable loudness of song. In six months or less their education completed, these songsters may be sold or in their turn utilized in training others still younger. It is common to teach these birds some simple strain or air, through its constant repetition by whistling or by means of an instrument. Well-trained birds bring high prices, and a fair number of these find their way each year into this country.

In the great class of exhibition birds perhaps none is more striking than the Belgian canary. Formerly known as the "king of the fancy," it was reared extensively in Belgium, but of late years its popularity has been on the decline. In 1911 it was said that few pure-bred Belgians were to be found, and under present war conditions it may never recover its own. The typical Belgian canary is a large bird with a small head, long, slender neck, large shoulders, and a long, tapering body. It is primarily a bird of "position." When examined it hops up on a perch and throwing its shoulders up brings the head down well below their level. The back and tail form a perpendicular line and the feet are held close together.

Another bird of position is the Scotch fancy canary. This variety resembles the Belgian, but when in position throws the tail in under the perch until its outline in profile is almost a semicircle.

Another well-marked variety is the cinnamon canary, one of the earliest forms to appear, but one whose origin is wholly unknown. Its true color is a dun or dull brown that has been likened to cinnamon. In exhibition birds the color is usually intensified by color feeding. In addition to the body color the cinnamon canary is peculiar in possessing red or pink eyes, a character that denotes cinnamon blood even in a yellow or buff bird. The cinnamon inheritance is transmitted only by the male; young reared from a cinnamon mother and a male of any other form lacking cinnamon blood never shows signs of their cinnamon parentage.

Among the old-established varieties that now are in decadence none is more striking than the lizard canary. Lizard canaries are known as gold or silver according as the body color is yellow or silvery gray. The wings and tail are black and the back is spangled with numerous somewhat triangular black spots. The crown in pure-bred birds is unspotted and light in color.

The crested canary is another unusual form, with a long crest extending down around the head below the level of the eyes. The frill or Dutch frill canary is a large bird with long curling feathers. The Lancashire is the largest of known varieties of the canary, standing head and shoulders above all others. These "giant" canaries may be crested or smooth headed. Other forms that may be mentioned are the border fancy, a small bird, and the Norwich, or Norwich plain head, from which come many of the common canaries.

It must not be supposed that the number of varieties of canaries enumerated covers the entire field. For each of the main forms there are almost endless groups or divisions that have been developed on color peculiarities. To obtain pure-bred birds requires constant care and supervision, and with any slackness of method a host of mongrels appear. Interbreeding between the various forms, differing so widely in color, results in reversion to the original type, which was a spotted or striped greenish bird, certain proof of the common origin of all.

That the color of canaries may be deepened or intensified by certain color foods given during the molt is well known and has attracted much interest. Turmeric, marigold flowers, saffron, cochineal, annatto, port wine, mustard seed and other agents rich in natural color are often used for this purpose, but it is doubtful whether they exert any real influence. So far as known all successful color foods have red pepper as a base. For a long time methods of preparing and feeding them were kept secret, but now they are outlined in many manuals on canary keeping.

Lizard Canary.

A standard color food may be prepared as follows: To the ordinary egg food (one hard-boiled egg chopped fine with an equal bulk of bread crumbs or unsalted cracker crumbs) add a teaspoonful of ground sweet red pepper. Mix until the food shows an even reddish tint throughout. Each bird to be experimented upon should receive one small teaspoonful daily. The quantity of pepper is increased gradually, until two heaping teaspoonfuls are used. Addition of a little brown sugar and a few drops of pure olive oil is beneficial, and a small quantity of hot red pepper gives a better flavor. The food should be prepared fresh each day. In mixing, allowance must be made for variation in the size of eggs used. In color feeding some canary breeders increase the proportion of sweet red pepper until four teaspoonfuls are added to the usual quantity of egg food. Half a teaspoonful of this concentrated food is allowed each bird. This method may be used during a short, quick molt.

Care of Feet and Bill.

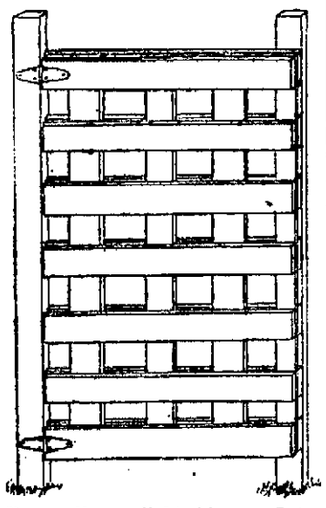
As a canary grows old it will be noticed that its claws get long and catch on the perches and wires as it hops about the cage. In a state of nature the activities of the bird as it moves about on the ground or among twigs and limbs keep the claws properly worn down. Confined in a cage, the canary is less active, and while the rate of growth of the claws remains the same they are subject to much less abrasion. It is necessary, therefore, to trim them with a pair of sharp scissors every few months. It is important to watch the condition of the claws carefully, as by catching they may cause a broken leg. In each claw a slender blood vessel extends well down toward the tip. This may be seen on close examination through the transparent sheath of the claw. In trimming cut well beyond this canal and take special care not to break the leg while handling the bird.

In cage birds the horny covering of the bill, as well as the claws, sometimes becomes distorted through growth without sufficient wear. The tips of the mandibles may be pared down with a sharp knife, but care must be taken not to cut deep enough to reach the quick.

Economical Farm Gate

Take board strips, one inch thick, three inches broad, and the proper length and width you want your gate, nail them across each other, making about three inch cracks.

Then take the same sized and width pieces and double the crosses, nailing securely. A half pound of No. 8 nails will do the work.



Use ordinary light hinges. I use seven cross pieces, and then by doubling these, which is absolutely necessary, you will have to use fourteen, with four pieces length-wise, making a total of eighteen pieces, a cheap and durable and economical gate.

In making the latch use any of several convenient methods.—Burdine Webb.

EROSION.

The farm practices that cause excessive erosion are continuous cultivation, shallow plowing, furrowing with the slopes, leaving the land bare in winter, neglect of gullies and the exhaustion of organic matter. Practices tending to control erosion are systematic rotations containing fewer cultivated crops and more hay and pasture crops, the gradual deepening of soil by occasional deep plowing, the use of barn yard and green manures, winter cover crops such as rye and wheat, and prompt attention to gullies and ditches. Terracing and contour farming are coming into favor as preventive practices as lands increase in value. Tiling poorly drained sloping lands such as spouty hillsides, helps by opening up the subsoil and carrying part of the water off through the tiles.

BEES.

A careful study of the bee and its life and habits and a little effort to adjust one's actions to those of the bees will soon make beekeeping both an interesting and profitable pursuit. Every farmer should produce his own supply of honey by keeping and properly caring for a few stands of bees.

Watch the hotbeds carefully on bright warm mornings. It does not take long for the heat to run up high enough to injure the plants.

Hardy Species Brought From Europe and Asia By U. S. Department of Agriculture Not of Great Value in Present Form Under Cultivation—Will Be Valuable in Plant Breeding, It Is Believed.

After eight years of experimentation with the yellow-flowered alfalfa, known to botanists as Medicago falcata, plant specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture feel that the plant can not yet be recommended for general cultivation. They believe, however, that because of certain desirable characteristics, some strains of the species will be valuable for use in plant breeding and that from hybrids resulting from crossing this yellow-flowered alfalfa with the common alfalfa, hardy types more valuable than any now cultivated should be developed. With this end in view, the Department specialists will continue their experiments.

The yellow-flowered species, which grows wild from the Mediterranean to northern Siberia, was introduced because of the desire of the Department to find strains of alfalfa sufficiently hardy and drought-resistant to grow successfully in the cooler and drier portions of the United States. Most of the specimens introduced have been found to be relatively hardy and drought-resistant. The chief defects which make the species undesirable for general cultivation under present conditions are its failure to recover quickly after mowing, and its poor seeding habits. These characteristics, in most cases, make impossible the cutting of more than one crop of hay and make the harvesting of sufficient seed for planting purposes exceedingly difficult and costly.

In their plant-breeding experiments, the specialists will strive to produce a plant which will embody the good qualities of Medicago falcata but from which its defects have been eliminated.

As far back as mention of Medicago falcata can be traced in the history of agriculture it has almost invariably been referred to directly or indirectly as a noncultivated species. Incidentally it may be inferred from certain references by early writers that the plant was utilized in a very limited way for forage in some localities in Europe, but no hint is given that it was cultivated there for that or any other purpose. No attempt has been made to search the literature for information regarding its early utilization in Asia.

The species was at least sufficiently well known to be mentioned in European literature more than three centuries ago, but up to the time of Linnaeus (1750-1790) no botanists or agriculturists apparently had ever recommended its domestication. About 1783 Le Blanc became interested in the plant, which he termed "Yellow Medick," on account of its ability to produce a good growth on poor soil. He conceived the idea of its domestication, but in the course of his investigations his attention was attracted to a hybrid of Medicago sativa and Medicago falcata, to which he gave the name "Variegated Medick." In his opinion, this plant was superior to either the common lucern or the yellow medick, and therefore he discontinued his efforts to domesticate the latter.

The literature of the past century contains many references to the cultivation of Medicago falcata, but outside of limited localities in India, China and southern Russia, where it is reported to be cultivated to some extent, it is not grown under cultivation except for experimental purposes. It is a significant fact that regardless of the relationship of Medicago falcata to common alfalfa, the early recognition of its value, and the numerous attempts to domesticate it, the plant is still an uncultivated species. However, it must be said that it is probably utilized at the present time more than ever before in Europe and Asia, but wholly as a wild plant on the ranges and in pastures. According to Hansen, it is attracting attention as a range plant in European Russia. Meyer is authority for the statement that the Kalmucks and Sarts in Chinese Turkestan gather it, together with other wild plants, as hay for horses and cattle. Nilsson indicates that it is utilized quite abundantly in Sweden as a wild pasture plant on dry, sandy land. It is reasonable to conclude, therefore, that its value has long been recognized in the agriculture of Europe and Asia.

VALUE AND PRESERVATION OF HEN MANURE.

According to the Maine station, the droppings should be collected daily and mixed with substances which will (1) prevent loss of nitrogen, (2) add sufficient potash and phosphoric acid to make a better balanced fertilizer, and (3) improve the mechanical condition of the manure so that it can be applied to the land with a manure spreader.

This can be done as follows: To each thirty pounds of the manure add ten pounds of sawdust, good dried loam, or peat, sixteen pounds of acid phosphate, and eight pounds of kainit. Such a mixture will contain about 1.25 per cent of nitrogen, 4.5 per cent of phosphoric acid, and two per cent of potash, which, used at the rate of two tons per acre would furnish fifty pounds of nitrogen, 185 pounds of phosphoric acid, and eighty pounds of potash, and at the present price of fertilizing ingredients is worth about $10 per ton. The mixture would furnish a well-balanced stable fertilizer, which, although not fine enough to work well in drills, can be successfully applied with a manure spreader. The treated manure should be well sheltered until time to apply to the land—that is shortly before plowing.

MILKING MACHINES.

Men who understand something of machinery and a great deal about cows are in most cases obtaining excellent returns through the use of the milking machine.

FOR SHOT-HOLE BORER.

One gallon of commercial lime sulfur to eight gallons of water as used for the San Jose scale during the dormant season is quite effective. An oil spray as recommended for the scale is also beneficial. Stiff whitewash with a pint of crude carbolic acid added to each 10 gallons, is also used. These washes may be applied as sprays before the buds open, but where it is necessary to repeat the application after the leaves appear they can be applied to the trunk and main limbs with a brush. The best and cheapest remedy is prevention by keeping all trees vigorous.

In the case of apple, pear, and other trees which do not exude gum to any extent, it is a question of judgment whether it will be possible to save trees attacked by this insect. If the infestation is rather severe, it usually indicates that the tree is beyond hope of saving. Individual branches on trees may often show attack by this insect and should be promptly removed and burned to prevent further increase and spread of the borer.

HOME PRESERVED EGGS.

Housewives will often find it advantageous to preserve their own eggs in the home, purchasing them when the supply is abundant and packing them in a solution of water-glass or lime water, or covering them with paraffin or varnish. Such eggs can be kept in good condition for a number of months. For current use fresh eggs usually can be kept satisfactorily for two or three weeks without such treatment. In a refrigerator or dry, cool cellar. If infertile, such eggs may be kept still longer.

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD SEED BED AND CULTIVATION.

The conservation of soil moisture is the most important reason for cultivating crops. The two other principal things accomplished by cultivation are the killing of weeds which draw moisture and plant food from the crops, and the aeration of the soil.

Too much stress can not be laid on the preparation of a good seed bed. A seed bed of fine tilth—made so by deep plowing, careful harrowing, and fining of the soil—is the foundation of good gardening. It is essential for the proper germination and growth of young plants. The soil must be friable and free from clods. A clod can hold no plant food in solution, the only form in which it is available for the plant. Good soil and fine tilth insure an excellent root system to plants. Upon the fine, hairy, fibrous, feeding roots, which are possible only in well-tilled soil, the plant depends for its stockiness and growth. The careful gardener will regard his whole garden as a seed bed and will cultivate and fertilize it accordingly.

KEEPING HONEY.

Many housekeepers do not know the right place in which to store honey and unthinkingly put it in the cellar or a dark, cool place. On the contrary, honey should always be kept in a dry, warm place, even at 100 degrees. If kept in a damp place the "cappings" of the comb become watery and the honey oozes through, but if the comb is kept where the air is warm and dry it will remain in more perfect condition.

MORE WHOLESOME LIVING.

It is the cheerful custom of our times to urge what amounts to improvidence and insist that the liberal spending of our money is for the best, not only for ourselves, but for everybody. Every effort to reduce living expenses is frowned on and considered as a mean and underhanded attack on some industry which ought to be encouraged. If we do not wear gold rings, we are not treating the gold miners right, nor are we giving the jewelers a fair shake in business. How can we expect the jeweler to buy our pork and sauer kraut if we do not buy his gold rings? We are hurried on to make more that we may spend more with others, so that they may spend more, and so on, and so on.

There is no end to this sort of thing, and there is no health in this kind of hectic existence. The principle of making more that we may spend it faster is not a worthy basis for our philosophy.

A little economy would be a wholesome thing for all of us and would help amazingly in the matter of the high cost of living.—Idaho Farmer.

WHAT WE GROW IN THE U. S.

The United States produces, on an average, about three-fourths of the world's corn crop, one-fifth of the wheat crop, one-fourth of the oats crop, one-eighth of the barley crop, one fiftieth of the rye crop, one sixteenth of the potato crop, three-fifths of the cotton crop, one-third of the tobacco crop, one-fourth of the hops crop, and one-tenth of the sugar crop. In rank of production the United States is first for corn, wheat, oats, cotton, tobacco, and hops; second for barley and flaxseed; fourth for sugar, and fifth for rye and potatoes.

HINTS FOR THE HOME GARDENER.

The gardener who merely wishes to raise vegetables for his own family will do well, especially this year, to choose the crops he will grow from those which previously have done best in his special locality. The market gardener must bear this fact in mind, but also must study the market and anticipate its usual demand and determine as far as he can how this demand will be affected by any untoward weather conditions which may have occurred in his section.

Those who desire to produce early crops should bear in mind that a warm, sandy loam will produce an earlier crop than a heavier soil that retains more water and less heat. Frost is less apt to injure vegetables planted on high ground than those planted in low places or valleys into which the heavier cold air commonly settles. The garden should be fairly level, but well drained. The crop will mature more rapidly on land that has a sunny, southern exposure than in other plots.

ANILINE DYE INDUSTRY.

A laboratory for research work in the possibilities of coal tar products is to be established at Johns Hopkins university, with the co-operation of gas companies of Philadelphia and Baltimore. The purpose is to develop the aniline dye industry.

PLOWING.

Plowing is the first operation in the production of all common farm crops; and if not well done it is hardly logical to expect good results, even though the other operations are well-performed.

A Choice Flower

Of all plants the most indifferent to all conditions and environments, soil and care, none yields the product that the Iris does, and with high culture it is just that much more satisfactory for the added attention.

The German Iris is in many ways an especially desirable plant. It never fails as a plant for Memorial Day purposes in the northern states, (it blooms much earlier in the southern states), and is a very desirable garden flower or for cutting, as they keep especially well in the hot sun.

For all varieties of Iris, there should be a heavy coat of manure in the fall, the fresher the better. If the soil is very poor apply it several inches thick—if good, give only an inch in thickness. This should be well incorporated with the soil by raking. When the ground is in good shape in spring, spade up and pulverize the soil, making it soft and pliable. For German Iris plant the roots deeply. This also applies to the Japan Iris. Cover the bulbs very lightly.

All the culture they need is to have the soil kept free of weeds and hoed very lightly or raked just so the crust is broken and kept loose. Never allow weeds to get a start in the beds as the Iris cannot resist the encroachments of rapid, strong-growing weeds.—C. Bestcher.

AN EFFICIENT SERVICE.

The weather forecasts issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau are based on observations reported by telegraph twice each day, showing conditions at about 200 regular stations. Mail reports are received from about 4,500 additional stations and give detailed data for general meteorological and climatological studies. The U. S. Weather Bureau, in addition to supplying weather news to the newspapers, mails the daily forecast to more than 100,000 addresses. The weather service is also made available by telephone to more than 5,000,000 subscribers.

Good plowing means completely loosening, stirring and pulverizing the soil to the desired depth.

IN THE THEATERS

AT THE MAJESTIC NEXT SATURDAY, MATINEE AND NIGHT.

Scene from "Her Unborn Child."

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"Flora Bella," Thursday, Musical Treat.

John Cort's beautiful production of "Flora Bella," the New York Casino theater Russian musical comedy success, book by Felix Doermann, revised and adapted by Cosmo Hamilton and Dorothy Donnelly, lyrics by Percy Waxman, and score by Charles Cuvillier and Milton Schwarzwald, with Miss Eleanor Henry and a select cast and picked chorus, will come to the Majestic Thursday.

The story is a typical Russian arrangement, with a real plot of absorbing interest, abounding in clean cut, brilliant comedy. The play is constructed along new lines to amuse and entertain from the ascent of the curtain to the finale of the last act, and in this the authors and composers of both book and score have been highly successful. Probably no musical comedy in the past ten years, productive as they have been in this direction, is comparable with "Flora Bella," in the profusion of clever dialogue, sparkling tunes and tripping melodies, and if you have a heart and a mind for brilliant musical inspirations to set your feet going, "Flora Bella" should be your meeca.

The costuming of the play is the most pretentious undertaking by musical comedy producers in years. The gowns worn by Miss Eleanor Henry are the most stunning and costly Parisian creations of the theatrical season, a goodly sum being invested in Miss Henry's gowns alone.

The costumes worn by the chorus as well as the principals are not duplicates, but stunning, handsome creations of French design and workmanship.

In scenic production, which is by Joseph Urban, and electrical effects, "Flora Bella" will outrival any other musical comedy of this season.

COME TO THE MAJESTIC NEXT THURSDAY.

Grace Byrnes and Mabel Thayer, Two Twins With "Flora Bella," New York Casino Comic Opera Success.

"Her Unborn Child" Returns to Majestic.

"If I have brought a message of hope to some one, if I have kept the feet of youth from wandering into the streets of vacillation, then I have accomplished much."

It was with these words that the author of "Her Unborn Child," a purposeful play, dealing with one of the questions of the hour, birth control, introduces his play to the theater-going public.

It is by these words that the serious intent of a big, modern play is shown. "Her Unborn Child" is the work of Howard McKent Barnes, a brilliant young American dramatist. The play was written after months of research work in the laboratories of the leading physicians and the material of the big human story is an actual happening discovered during the tour of inspection.

The gripping heart story of "Her Unborn Child" deals with a youthful couple who love not wisely but too well. In her greatest need the bewildered girl seeks aid from the gentle old physician who brought her into the world.

The confronting problem "What is to be the fate of her unborn child?" is really the problem of this wonderful human play. The author shows great modesty in the handling of the delicate theme, yet at the same time portraying vividly and emphatically a play teeming with purpose and appeal.

"Her Unborn Child" comes to the Majestic theater for an engagement, Saturday matinee and night with the endorsement of medical societies, non-sectarian clubs and thinking men and women everywhere. It tells the truth about birth control, for it is the theory of the author that by the education of the masses the slaughter of innocent unborn babes will stop.

Because of the sacredness of motherhood and out of courtesy to the ladies, the matinee performance of "Her Unborn Child" will be reserved exclusively for the ladies. Gentlemen will be admitted to the evening performance.

"A HOLLAND ROMANCE."

Dick Wainwright and W. H. White at the Palace.

A beautiful little love story of the land of dikes, floods, neutrality, cheeses, ovens and pottery, "A Holland Romance" will be unfolded as the super attraction on the bill for the first portion of the week at the New Palace. Dick Wainwright, the musical comedy tenor, and William H. White, whose lasso voice won him merited recognition in the comic opera world, assisted by a clever company of artists will present the dainty little study. George Botsford conceived this lovely one-act opera.

The Three Mori Brothers, Jap specialty artists, whose tricks in equilibristics, juggling and acrobatics have been the talk of the vaudeville world for several seasons; the Lunette Sisters; the Whirling Geisha Girls, whose perilous gyrations in mid air are breath taking thrillers; Morris and Campbell in their diversion, "The Avi-Ate-Her;" the lovely Transfield Sisters in a dainty musical number, and Harry Coleman, the American ventriloquist, are among the other favorites whom this bill will present to Fort Wayne's army of vaudeville goers.

Mr. Inquisitive, the lively little novelty number with its unique setting in the office of a girl dentist, is the big scream of the current bill which closes tonight. It is being offered by Earle Cavanaugh assisted by Ruth Tompkins and a group of the prettiest girls that ever graced a miniature musical farce in this man's town. Not only its uniqueness commends it but also its dash and go and the pleasing pictures the girls afford.

Wood, Melville and Phillips, a singing, dancing and kidding trio including two women and a girl, are easy to like, especially Miss Phillips, whose Russian dance is a spirited and graceful number. Johnny Eckert and Billy Parker as the "Golf Players;" Jack Baxley, the singing monologuist, Weber and Redford, the comedy jugglers, and Rose and Ellis, team of comedy barrel jumpers complete this bill.

An Appreciation.

(By Kay Spencer.)

Any one who attended the concert at the Majestic theater on Thursday evening must have been impressed by the thought that in those who formed the orchestra and in Mr. Rouillet, as an enthusiastic and capable conductor, was the nucleus for a fine symphony orchestra, one which, if given encouragement and financial support, would be an organization of which Fort Wayne might be proud. The orchestra, which included children of Mr. Rouillet's class, who are just beginning their musical careers, up to several professional instrumentalists, played with fine intelligence and precision, with an appreciation of the interpretive side of music, which was remarkably displayed in the last two numbers. The accompaniment by the full orchestra of forty to the famous Bach-Gunod "Ave Maria," was surprisingly beautiful and satisfactory. It is unfortunate that the Majestic was not packed, but the large audience manifested the greatest appreciation. Perhaps Mr. Rouillet could be persuaded to repeat the concert.

The leaving out of a letter or a word in printing can change a sentence from the sublime to the ridiculous. "A battle-scarred veteran" came out in a certain paper as a "battle-scared veteran" —a vastly different thing—while a misprint, usually attributed to the London Times is "them asses" instead of "the masses."

Business Folk Gladly Agree to Postponement of Cases.

Six victims of the police order that the "no glaring headlights" ordinance must be enforced, will be tried on Monday morning. The five men and one woman, all of whom were halted on Fairfield avenue, Friday evening, were in police court Saturday morning. City Attorney Colerick stated that he would like to continue the cases over the week-end. The defendants gladly agreed as a part of the men have business obligations which are especially pressing on Saturday.

Patrolmen Lininger and R. Smith were the motor cops who held up the citizens charged with traveling with gleaming headlight. A part of the defendants at least will plead guilty to the charge. Those who are charged with bearing beacon lamps, and the point at which they were halted, are: A. H. Keplinger, 119 Thieme drive, stopped at Fairfield avenue and Williams street. Albert Bunck, 827 Madison street, stopped at Meyer avenue and Fairfield avenue. E. J. Fauley, stopped at Fairfield avenue and Williams street. Mrs. George Tibits, stopped at Fairfield avenue and Williams street. George L. Eby stopped at Fairfield avenue and Williams street. Ben Friedman, 520 Madison street, stopped at Pontiac street and Fairfield avenue.

Police Chief Lenz states that while the ordinance forbidding glaring headlights is in effect in Fort Wayne he expects to have the law enforced. He has ordered his men to bring in all violators of the traffic rule.

Other Police Court Cases.

Robert Bracken, long haired and wearing a matted growth of beard, was taken from the Pennsylvania limited express Friday night. He pleaded guilty to a train climbing charge. He has been in Mexico at work for some time, he told, but was unable to collect his wages. He wants to go to Pittsburg, he says. He will be held until Thursday.

George Reed and Earl Kratz were convicted of train climbing. Kratz wants to get to Wyoming in time to see his sister graduate from high school, he said. They were released.

Theodore Gebhart was released from an assault and battery charge into the care of Capt. Ray McAdams, of Company E. The boy had abused his mother, it was claimed.

John Amoway, convicted of loitering, and William Hoffman, who pleaded guilty to an intoxication charge, were released.

FLAG IS RAISED AT PARNELL AVENUE

E. V. Emrick delivered a rousing address at the raising of a community flag above the Parnell avenue school, Friday evening. The speaker called attention to the principals involved in the present war and the fact that it is the German autocracy and not the German people as a race that we oppose in this conflict.

The flag was raised by Franklin Emrick, son of the county prosecutor, Frank Emrick. The banner which is 9 by 5 feet was made by Mrs. Emrick. The little daughter, Katherine Mary, recited "The Star Spangled Banner." Other children of the neighborhood joined in singing "America."

The firing of the salute was presided over by John Wemp and Clement Roach fired the cannon, an old relic owned by Doc Adams in 1886. The light was flashed on Old Glory by Walter Kintz. The saluters were M. Delagrange, Frank Emrick, Frederick Engleman, Charles Pichon, Carl Miller, William Maier, Edward Meyers and Joseph Curdes, sr.

FOUR MAKE TRY FOR LIFE STATE LICENSE

Four teachers of northern Indiana made a try for a life state license in the old high school building Saturday. The four applicants were given the examination under the direction of Prof. Justin N. Study, head of the Fort Wayne public schools. This examination is given but once a year. Three of the applicants are college graduates, while the other one took the regular life state license examination.

There are now registered in California more than 200,000 motor cars, or one for every fifteen people.

Lacks But Ten Cents in Attack on Three Dollar Mark Now.

At the close of the week in market circles here wheat lacked but 10c of making the $3 mark which it has been aiming at for the last few days. An increase of 12c in quotations Saturday morning sent the grain scurrying along in the upward direction.

Of course flour advanced with the wheat and $15 is now about the lowest price at which a barrel can be purchased. One local dealer did not advance his quotation on flour but will have to do so Monday in all probability.

The local market was slightly under market Saturday, receipts being light and none of the dealers reporting any rush of business. Twenty-one loads were weighed on the city scales, one dozen of them being hay, six corn and the other three oats. The hay dropped 50c from its top price and sold at $14 to $16 per ton. Corn ranged from $1.69 to $1.67 a bushel, while oats picked up several cents and sold at 75c to 77c.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, April 28.—Excited trading and greatly higher prices were brought about in the wheat market today largely as a consequence of Washigton and London dispatches that pointed to increasing need of rushing food supplies to the entente allies. early all commission houses were on buying side. Opening prices, which ranged from 1½c to 12½c higher, with May at $2.74 to $2.75, and July at $2.29 to $2.36, were followed by decided further gains in May and September, the latter month ascending for the first time to $2.

The close was demoralized, ranging from 2½c net lower to 7c advance, with May at $2.74 to $2.74½ and July at $2.25 to $2.26.

Corn was governed entirely by the bullish action of wheat. After opening ¾c to 1¾c higher the market ascended all around to about 3c above yesterday's finish.

The market closed unsettled, ¾c lower to 1c up, as compared with yesterday's latest figures.

Unusual activity developed in oats. Advances of about 2½c were scored.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, April 28.—Stocks opened today at slight recessions, strengthening irregularly on a spirited rise in Utah Copper, Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies and a few other issues of less prominence, but soon fell back on concerted professional selling. Declines ran from one to four points. United States Steel fell over a point from its early high of 116⅜, Utah forfeited the greater part of its 2⅝-point gain and Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies lost all its rise of over two points. Dealings became stagnant on the decline, the market closing with a heavy tone. Sales approximated 275,000 shares. Bonds were ower.

First quotations were mostly at lower levels, except metals and shippings, particularly Utah Copper and Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, Maxwell second preferred, Goodrich preferred and Corn Products common and preferred were included among the few strong specialties, these being counter balanced by further heaviness in General Motors and Studebakers, Central Leather, Texas company, Crucible Steel and American Smelting. United States Steel lost a mere fraction at the outset, but hardened immediately. A one-point rise in Illinois Central and the loss of as much by Lehigh Valley were the sole features among the rails.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

High pressure covers northern districts, but in the west gulf states and the southern plateau region the pressure is low. During the last 24 hours precipitation occurred in northeastern sections, the Ohio valley and quite generally in the districts to the westward of the Mississippi river. The weather is generally unsettled in the central valleys and in the southwest. Snow is falling quite generally on the eastern slope of the Rockies and there is rain in portions of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys. Moderate temperatures prevail in the gulf states, but the weather is generally colder than the seasonal average elsewhere, the deficiency of temperature being marked in parts of the Rocky mountain region.
